

Soviet Move May be Try to Scare Allies

But Fact Remains Action Certain to Outrage Neutrals

BY WILLIAM H. STONEMAN
Chicago Daily News Service

LONDON — Western experts on atomic matters have been quick to point out the following facts about Russia's midnight announcement that it intends to resume testing of nuclear weapons.

1: The announcement, which follows a 34-month effort by the West to persuade Russia to agree to a treaty banning weapons tests forever, is primarily a nerve war device designed to scare the people of the West out of their wits and to destroy any will that may now exist to fight if necessary to save West Berlin. It recalls the rumor carefully disseminated by the Germans with American help on the eve of Munich that Goering had $50,000 front line aircraft ready to obliterate London.

The Russian announcement certainly can't be classed as "propaganda" in the ordinary meaning of the word.

It comes on the eve of the Belgrade conference of uncommitted countries and is certain to outrage such notorious neutrals as India's Jawaharlal Nehru.

Thumbed Its Nose
So Russia has thumbed its nose at the neutrals while the United States has been breaking its neck to impress and please them.

A constantly reiterated argument of American delegates to the Geneva conference on the banning of nuclear weapons tests has been that "we just don't dare to disregard the neutrals who now have a majority in the United Nations general assembly."

This argument has been used to counter the arguments of those in the pentagon and the Atomic Energy Commission, who have been demanding the resumption of tests by the United States itself.

2: There isn't any real military need for the Russians to resume tests.

Their loud boasts about a series of "doomsday bombs" with explosive force of 20, 30, 40 or 100 million tons of TNT are largely designed to bewilder the Western public.

Doomsday Bombs
The United States itself has been perfectly capable of making and exploding doomsday bombs. But the whole purpose of bomb designers has been in diametrically

Senate Passes Rights Bill

Okay Appropriation
For Commission

WASHINGTON (AP) — A Senate battle over civil rights legislation has ended with approval of a bill to extend the civil rights commission for two years.

Attempts to shove through other, more far-reaching civil rights measures were smashed, with Senate Democratic leader Mike Mansfield of Montana cracking the whip.

By a vote of 70 to 19, the measure extending the commission was tied onto a bill appropriating $762 million for the State and Justice departments, the Federal courts, and related agencies. Commission funds total $888,000.

The money bill now goes back to the House, where it could run into Southern opposition because of the civil rights rider. But the outlook was that any southern roadblocks thrown up there would be only temporary.

President Kennedy has not asked Congress to pass any civil rights measures at this session except for the extension of the Civil Rights Commission. Sen. Jacob K. Javits R-N. Y., protested that the Administration was turning its back on Democratic platform pledges and attempting to appease southern senators in an effort to assure passage of other administration bills.

Civil rights proposals offered by Javits and others as riders to the appropriation bill were tabled and thus killed on Mansfield's motion.

World Shocked by Russian Plan To Scrap Nuclear Moratorium

Oshkosh Father, 20, Held In Fatal Shooting of Wife

Judy Derber Dies of Head, Neck Shots

OSHKOSH — A young Oshkosh man shot and killed his estranged wife as she stepped out of a girlfriend's car here shortly after midnight this morning.

Richard Derber, 20, who lives with his parents at 916 Vine Ave., has admitted to Oshkosh police that he shot his wife, Judith, 20, 1136A Arthur Ave.

Judith Derber was with Marsha Papke, 20, 1014 Ceape Ave., and Carol Kronzer, 22, 1101 Merritt Avenue. The three of them at 9:30 p.m. went out to the Rail Tavern on 2407 Jackson Drive, in Marsha's car. At the bar they met Greg Jungwirth, 508 W. Seventh Ave. At about midnight the three girls were leaving and offered Jungwirth a ride back into town to get his car, according to a statement to Oshkosh police.

When they went out to the parking lot, they saw Richard Derber standing in the lot next to his car. They said in order to avoid trouble, the three girls sat in the EAST KESTIVEN, England. (AP) — Charlie Green — meter reader and maintenance man for the local water works for 15 years — unblushingly admitted today that for the last seven years he never read a meter.

"I guessed," he confessed. "I had about 100 miles of mains (pipes) to look after," he said, "but the more than 100 meters I was supposed to look after were in the oddest places."

"Some were in pigsties, others under haystacks. One was even in a field with a big bull. Many meant a dirty job of digging down to them. They were not like light and gas meters—easy to get at."

"So about seven years ago I gave up trying. I began keeping my records from the previous year's averages. My mistake was that I underestimated and charged too little."

President Kennedy appears grim at his news conference Wednesday as he explains measures to be taken toward a solution of the Berlin crisis. Following his conference Kennedy learned that the Soviets will resume nuclear bomb testing.

Brazil Nearing Civil War as Troops March on Major City

Government Orders Military To Subdue Supporters of Leftist

RIO DE JANEIRO, Brazil (AP) — Brazil's interim government today ordered army, navy and air forces to subdue Joao Goulart's supporters in his stronghold state of Rio Grande do Sul.

The nation appeared at the edge of civil war.

Military sources in Rio de Janeiro said the 2nd army was driving on the southern state, where the governor and commander have declared their support of Goulart in defiance of Brazil's three military ministers.

But best available information from Sao Paulo, eight hours after the government's order was that the 2nd army had not moved. Sao Paulo, headquarters of the 2nd army, is 600 miles northeast of Rio Grande do Sul.

Gen. Osvaldo de Araujo Motta, 2nd army commander, issued a manifesto appealing for confidence of his men and said war minister Marshal Odilio Denys would "respect and obey... the supreme decision of congress."

No Stand Yet
Congress after much wavering finally voted to accept Goulart, the leftist vice president, as president. It had not yet taken a stand on how much power he would have as the successor of President Janio Quadros.

Goulart, who claims he is the rightful president, was en route south by air, with the supposed intention of returning to Brazil. He reached Lima, Peru. In Rio air ministry sources asserted aircraft loyal to the government were ordered to patrol Brazil's border and intercept him.

A communique from the military-dominated government telecommunications commission said units of the 2nd army, air force and navy were taking part in an "action in force" against Rio Grande do Sul, Brazil's southernmost state.

In defiance, the "Voice of Legality", a chain of Rio Grande do Sul radio stations, announced that all civilians in the state, had been called to arms. Porto Alegre,

Kennedy Sure U. S. Defenses Are 'Adequate'

President Joins In Urgent Policy Sessions Today

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Kennedy said today he is confident that U.S. nuclear weapons — in number and capabilities — are "wholly adequate" for the defense of the United States and the free world.

A White House statement, issued after Kennedy met with top government officials and congressional leaders of both parties, said that Russia's announcement of renewing nuclear tests "was primarily a form of atomic blackmail, designed to substitute terror for reason in the present international scene."

The statement said nothing of any plans this country may have to resume testing on its own.

The big question as Kennedy conferred with leaders of congress and the administration was whether the United States would resume its own tests quickly.

Congressional leaders from both parties were among those who gathered at the White House for the emergency session. Most of them entered by a side door and did not talk to newsmen.

Kennedy said last night that the Soviet move to end a three-year-old moratorium on nuclear tests "leaves the United States under the necessity of deciding what its own national interests require."

Vice President Lyndon Johnson entered the White House at 10 a. m. The limousines of Secretary of State Dean Rusk and Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy were seen near a side entrance even earlier.

Sen. Henry S. Jackson, D-Wash., was one of the few to arrive at

20,000 Killed on Highways Since Beginning of 1961

CHICAGO (AP) — The nation's traffic accidents killed more than 20,000 persons in the first seven months this year but was the lowest mileage death rate on record, the National Safety Council said today.

The 20,290 traffic fatalities up to Aug. 1 compared to 20,620 for the first seven months of 1960, a decrease of two per cent. The total included 3,310 deaths on the highways in July, four per cent below the 3,450 in July last year.

Soviets Try for Monster Bomb

Khrushchev Trying to Blame U. S., Allies for Startling Decision

MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviet Union today scrapped the three year moratorium on nuclear testing with a threatening warning to the West and a plea for understanding from the nonaligned nations the Kremlin is wooing.

Premier Khrushchev gave the go-ahead to his scientists to test new weapons ranging up to monster bombs with an explosive force of 100 million tons of TNT — 5,000 times more powerful than the bomb dropped on Hiroshima in World War II.

The Soviets blamed the United States and its Allies for their decision to resume nuclear testing.

"It is an open secret," said a 6,000-word government statement, "that the United States is standing at the threshold of carrying out underground nuclear explosions and only waits for the first suitable pretext to start them."

Because of that, and because France has exploded some bombs the statement said, the Soviet Un-

The statement linked the government's decision to the Berlin crisis as well.

Charles Coburn Succumbs at 84

Noted Stage, Screen Actor Performed for Over Half-Century

NEW YORK (AP)—Veteran actor Charles Coburn, whose distinguished face, gruff voice and ready wit were familiar to audiences for more than half a century, is dead at 84.

Coburn died of heart failure at Lenox Hill Hospital Wednesday, shortly after undergoing minor throat surgery. He had entered the hospital Monday for a checkup.

An energetic man more active than many half his age, Coburn came here after completing a 6-day run only Sunday night in an Indianapolis production of "You Can't Take It With You." The play drew the largest audiences in the Avondale Playhouse's 8-year history.

He began a movie career at the age of 60 and also appeared on radio and television, but he never lost his great devotion to the live theater, and he felt it was the only true training ground for actors.

He left a fulltime career on the stage for the screen in 1937, on the death of his first wife, the former Ivah Wills. He had met her in 1905 while playing Orlando to her Rosalind in a touring company's production of "As You Like It."

Firm Suspends 20 Union Chiefs

MILWAUKEE (AP)—The Allis-Chalmers Mfg. Co. announced Wednesday night the indefinite suspension of 20 leaders of Local 248 of the United Auto Workers which staged a rally that drew 1,450 employees off their jobs earlier in the day.

The 20 were instructed not to report for work "until and unless notified to do so by the company." The 20 and three other leaders were notified that their employment status was being reviewed. The three, including local president Charles M. Schultz, are on leaves of absence granted in connection with their union work.

The company said calling the meeting during working hours violated the contract between A-C and the union. "The meeting, during the day shift hours, attracted about 3,000 persons, including 1,450 who left their jobs at A-C."

U.S. Keeps Opinion Spotlight on Russia

Kennedy Won't Announce What He'll Do About Resuming Tests; Lets Khrushchev Carry Stigma

BY PETER LISAGOR
Chicago Daily News Service

WASHINGTON — The Kremlin stands in a blizzard of opinion today with its ill-timed decision to resume nuclear testing—and the United States plans to keep it bright and hot for a while.

President Kennedy, who has resisted pressures to start exploding the big weapons again, has coolly declined to dilute Moscow's announcement with an immediate decision on his part to resume tests in this country.

For the moment, the White House appears content to let Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev carry the stigma perhaps until the Soviets set off their first test explosion.

The White House reaction statement issued late last night said that the United States will now decide "what its own national interests require," and announced that the U. S. negotiator at the Geneva test ban talks, Arthur Dean, is being recalled.

Needed Tests

Khrushchev listened to his scientists and military advisers in deciding to announce a resumption of nuclear testing experts here agree, because he was persuaded that his war machine needed it.

His decision bore out the judgment of many American scientists that this country is ahead of Russia in weapons technology, despite Soviet superiority in rocket propulsion and space exploits.

These scientists have long argued that Russia stood to gain more than the United States from a resumption of tests.

Why Not Wait?

The surprising element in the Soviet decision was why Khrushchev chose not to play a waiting game. He accepted the onus of being the first to announce an end to the 34-month test moratorium.

His action, the White House said, "will be met with deepest concern and resentment throughout the world," will increase the hazard of radioactive fallout, and heighten the "dangers of a thermonuclear holocaust."

These propaganda disadvantages weighed heavily on U. S. reluctance to start testing again, even though it had become clear in Geneva that Moscow was not interested in a test ban agreement.

Some authorities had contended that the Russians might have dragged their feet at Geneva in order to goad the United States into testing again. This would have made this country the villain in world eyes and allowed Russia to resume tests as a prudent act of self-defense.

Khrushchev so much as indicated this, in a half-joking way, during his talks recently with John J. McCloy, the President's disarmament adviser.

He told McCloy that Soviet scientists were urging him to begin testing again. Khrushchev said he calmed them down by telling them U. S. scientists also were itching to resume tests and that America would soon do it, leaving Russia free to do the same.

Instead, it worked out just the other way, and was all the more surprising, authorities here point out, because of its curious timing.

Conference Opens

The Moscow announcement came just two days before the opening of the summit conference of uncommitted nations in Belgrade, Yugoslavia, a gathering of leaders who have strongly supported a test ban and whose favor Moscow has curried.

With an eye undoubtedly on this Belgrade Congress, the Soviet statement attempted to blame the "imperialist powers" for the decision. It charged the United States and its allies with resorting to threats of war over Berlin, and asserted that the Soviet Union must be "completely prepared to render harmless any aggressor if he tried to launch an attack."

Create Confusion

Moscow clearly intended to support its action with a fear psychology designed to create further confusion and timidity in the free world.

The Soviet News Agency Tass said Russia has developed projects of "creating a series of super-powerful nuclear bombs with a yield equivalent to 20, 30, 50, and 100 million tons of TNT," with rockets powerful enough to deliver them anywhere in the world.

It seems apparent that the Kremlin considered test resumption of sufficient importance in the military field to risk an adverse world reaction.

The decision shows a Soviet disregard for outside public opinion when its own interests are believed involved in actions that may be unpopular in western eyes.

Needed Tests

Some authorities here have believed that the Russians regard their present stocks of nuclear bombs as too large and cumbersome and probably of limited reliability. Only by testing can they refine them and improve their quality.

Their military requirements came first, these sources say, and other motives, such as instilling fear in the West with the hope of making further gains through intimidation, must be regarded as secondary ones.

There is little doubt here that, given a reasonable time in which to gain maximum advantage from the Soviet announcement in the public opinion marts of the world, President Kennedy will be under unbearable pressure to resume the U. S. testing program.

Berlin Might Be Untenable If War Comes

Kennedy's Views Reflect Ideas of Military Advisers

BY ELTON C. FAY
WASHINGTON (AP) — President Kennedy's statement that West Berlin would be "untenable" if it were subjected to a direct attack by the Soviet Union "obviously reflects the coldly realistic assessment of his top military advisers."

The chief executive, in his news conference Wednesday, went on to say that it is hoped Soviet awareness of U. S. determination to defend West Berlin will prevent Soviet attack.

He termed the few thousand U. S. troops in the city as "hostage to that intent."

Different Views

Kennedy's comments were different from views expressed in his message to the nation on July 25.

In that speech the President said: "I hear it said that West Berlin is militarily untenable—and so was Bastogne and so, in fact, was Stalingrad. Any dangerous spot is tenable if men—brave men—will make it so."

The U. S. Army believes that it has about 6,500 brave men in West Berlin, part of the total of slightly over 13,000 American, British and French forces garrisoned the free part of the old German capital.

Isolated Area

Such a force, in an isolated area 110 miles from the main Allied forces in West Germany, could not be expected to hold out against the massive weight of manpower the Soviet Union could bring to bear. There are estimates that 35 to 40 Soviet divisions are located in adjacent European Russian territory.

Kennedy's mention of direct attack by "the Soviet Union" was interesting in that he made no reference to East German Communist military forces. Some Bonn government officials say the East German army consists of six divisions (which they consider unreliable from the Soviet viewpoint), plus police-type units and an air force.

Some Advantages

The defenders of West Berlin would have some basic advantages, even if temporary, including the military precept that defense is easier than attack.

Defense of West Berlin would be city-type fighting—unless of course the Communists wanted to destroy West Berlin by all-out air and ground bombardment.

In city-type fighting, some of the firepower effectiveness of modern Soviet arms could be negated, the situation coming nearer to being equalized until overwhelming masses of Soviet manpower poured in.

Could the Berlin garrison be reinforced and re-supplied after it came under attack?

Unless the Western forces wanted to shoot their way through the closing of the highway and rail line would be simple.

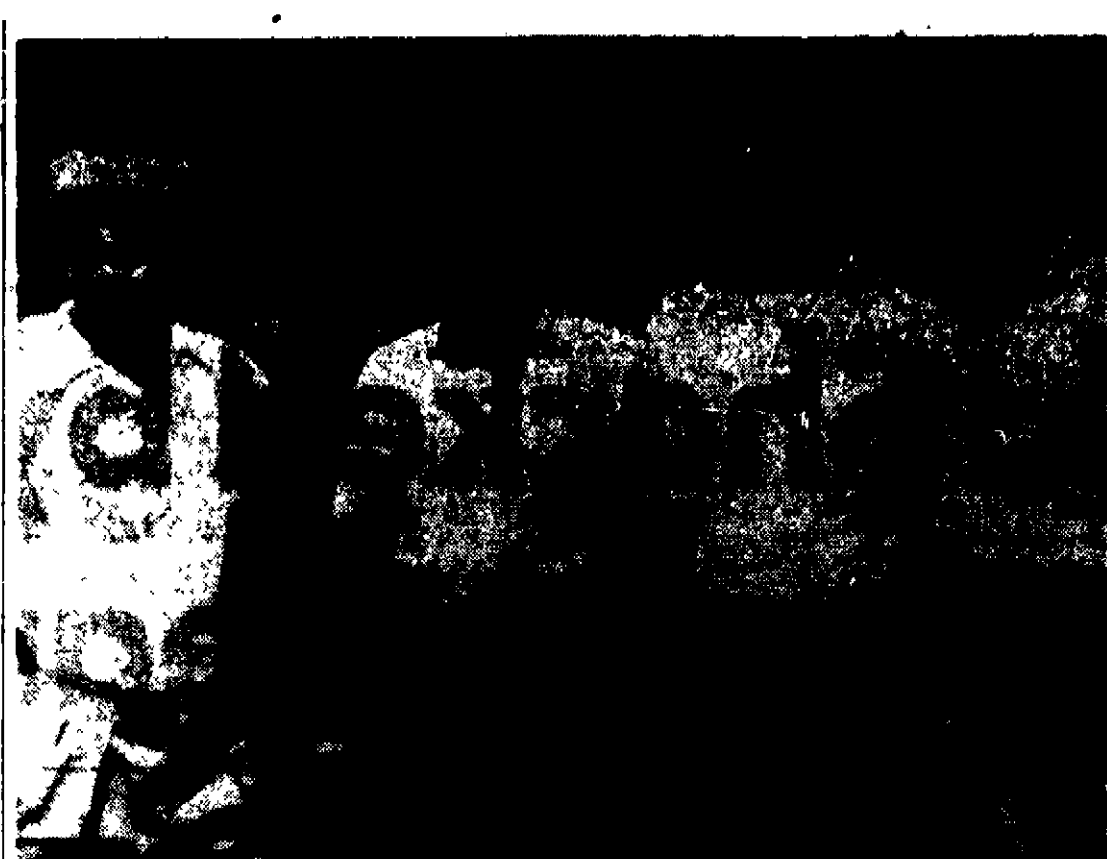

Shutting off the air corridor would be more difficult, involving a decision by the Communists to start shooting down planes. This would mean fighter cover for transport planes. And fighter cover would mean more shooting.

Which would take the whole matter to the threshold of general war.

until he was snuffed out of hiding by bloodhounds last Sunday. When found, he was helpless because of a knee injury which, physicians said, may prevent his arraignment until next week.

Republican Leaders Blast Nelson For Vetoing GOP Sales Tax Bill

MILWAUKEE (AP)—Republican leaders reacted as expected Wednesday by blistering Democratic Gov. Gaylord Nelson for his veto of the GOP tax revision bill which was built around a three per cent sales tax.

Nelson rejected the bill, which also provided a withholding system for collecting state income taxes, saying it met no acceptable standard of tax revision, failed to balance the budget and left the state's future money problems unsolved.

Philip G. Kuehn of Whitefish Bay, the Republican candidate for governor last year, said, "The people of the state have been betrayed."

Kuehn Statement

Kuehn said Nelson had promised tax revision, if he accomplished nothing else in office, but "given the opportunity to sign a bill which is far better than anyone had hoped could pass, he turned his back on his promise."

"The real reason for this veto," Kuehn went on, "is that the governor felt it was politically impossible for him to sign this bill and retain the support of his party."

State Republican Chairman Claude Jasper of Madison said history will show "Nelson to have been weak when strength was needed."

Divided State

Sen. Frank Panzer of Brownsville, president pro tempore of the state Senate, said Nelson's action was tantamount to "dividing our state into class against class."

The speaker of the Assembly, David Blanchard of Edgerton, said "the governor has assumed a terrible responsibility in willfully turning down a revenue proposal that every authoritative and nonpartisan source indicated would benefit the social and economic status of Wisconsin."

Sen. Gerald Lorge of Bear Creek said the veto means Nelson has decided to run for another term as governor rather than enter the race for the U. S. Senate. "His planned strategy," Lorge said, "is a continued fight with the Legislature so as to capitalize on human emotions rather than face the responsibilities expected of a governor of Wisconsin."

Assemblyman Glen Pommerening of Wauwatosa said Nelson "has shown a startling lack of courage and demonstrated the lack of leadership with which the legislature has had to contend during the entire session."

Nelson was charged with "economic irresponsibility" by the president of the Wisconsin State Chamber of Commerce, Jack E. Fennema, a vice president of the Rhinelander Paper Co.

Fennema issued a statement at Rhinelander saying: "In one terrible moment Gov. Nelson wiped out the hopes of four million people for greater job opportunities when he vetoed the first tax reform bill in 30 years."

56 East German Police Flee to West Since Berlin Border Closed

Red Papers Try to Whip Up Enthusiasm for Titev Visit

BERLIN (AP)—Six members of their hammer-and-sickle banner on top of the Brandenburg Gate, the symbol of divided Germany.

For years, West Germans have been wearing tiny reproductions of the gate on their lapels to demonstrate against the division of their country and to show their close links with Berlin. But the gate itself lies inside East Berlin.

About 13,000 West Berliners who earn their incomes from the communists were faced with financial ruin by a new West Berlin ruling. The city will no longer accept their inflated communist currency at face value.

About half the 13,000 work for the East German railroad system, which also runs the elevated trains through West Berlin. Another 1,500 are actors, singers and musicians. The rest are ordinary shop, office and factory workers.

For 12 years West Berlin has made up the difference between the communist money paid to the 13,000, and the hard Western currency they needed to pay their bills. It takes five East marks to buy one West mark on the open market.

West Berlin had financed this from money earned by East Berliners who worked in West Berlin. This source was cut off when the communists closed the border and barred East Berliners from working in the West.

The Communist press also disclosed the formation of fanatical youth squads "to keep order." These semi-military groups are composed of members of the "Free German Youth," the organization's paper Junge Welt (Young People) reported.

Ripped Down Antennas

Reports have reached the West in recent days of the youth groups ripping down television antennas tuned to the West, beating up critics of the regime and denouncing others to the police.

East German authorities also announced a campaign to prevent their people from seeing the West on television. Jail sentences were also decreed for East Germans who invite friends to see TV from West Germany.

Those who receive these programs on their sets can easily be spotted by the direction in which their antennas are pointed. For one station near Munich, special vertical antennas must be erected.

Ignores World in Resumption of Tests

Russia Makes Power Threat in Attempting to Frighten West

BY JAMES MARLOW

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Soviet decision to resume nuclear testing—which makes no sense at all from the viewpoint of world opinion—is the extreme example of Russian terror tactics based on naked power.

1. It shows contempt for what the rest of mankind thinks.
2. It comes at a time when Premier Khrushchev has created a crisis on Berlin and is like a savage nudge to the West that Russia means business.
3. The announcement that this gives Soviet scientists a chance to test super-super bombs—equal to 100 million tons of TNT and far greater than any bomb the West possesses—is sheer, brutal, terror technique.

Contemptuous Move
Even the circumstances under which the decision was announced Wednesday—while American and Russian negotiators were meeting in Geneva to discuss a test ban—makes this Russian move contemptuous of world opinion.

Three years ago the United States and Russia stopped testing, began negotiations to put a permanent ban on it. Wednesday the two sides had held their 338th meeting and, as before, with absolutely no progress.

There had been increasing pressure in this country, inside and outside Congress, for President Kennedy to order a resumption of American testing on the grounds that the negotiations for a ban were hopeless.

Waited Week
If the Russians had waited a week or so more, maybe the United States would have resumed. Then Moscow could have had a propaganda field-day, blaming the United States as the enemy of mankind.

And Russia then could have announced that it, too, would resume testing but only in self-defense because the United States had done so.

Instead—just as 25 neutral nations were pouring representatives into Belgrade for a meeting starting Friday—Moscow made its announcement which shocked capitals around the world.

Avoid Reaction
Yet, for years it had been assumed that Russia and the West, both powers were equally anxious to avoid any action which might have had a bad reaction among neutral peoples.

Khrushchev's decision Wednesday shows this assumption is a fallacy and that Russia is relying on its own power and its own interests alone to dictate its policy.

Even Khrushchev's decision is a contradiction of what he himself had said.
Last June Sen. Harry M. Jackson, Washington Democrat, said testimony before Congress by American military leaders had convinced the Joint Congressional Committee on Atomic Energy that from a military view testing should be resumed.

Want Resumption
At the same time U.S. authorities were picking up information that Russian military men and scientists were becoming increasingly eager to resume tests. But June 20, at a Kremlin meeting, Khrushchev said:

"Some American leaders urge (the United States) to resume nuclear weapons tests if the Soviet Union does not accept the Western powers' demands (for a test ban). We must warn these gentlemen:
"No sooner the United States resumes nuclear explosions than the Soviet Union (immediately) will start testing its nuclear weapons."

No Pretenses
But Wednesday Moscow didn't even make the pretense that this country had resumed testing. Instead, the Soviet announcement said: "It is an open secret that the United States is standing on the threshold of carrying out underground nuclear tests."

The evidence that Khrushchev more with his Soviet counterpart, decided to rely on power—and the threat of power—to make the ban West yield to him on Berlin came day it was useless to talk of a on Aug. 9 when he no longer test ban except on Soviet terms. talked of resuming nuclear tests. Nevertheless, the two men met only after the United States did, again Wednesday.

On that date he said if prospects for peace did not improve shortly afterwards, Moscow would order Soviet scientists to build a bomb "equal to nuclear tests."

Green Bay Handles 4,321 Tons of Cargo

Merchandise in Port During April Valued at $711,398

Post-Crescent News Service

GREEN BAY — Foreign cargoes moving across docks in the port of Green Bay during April totaled $711,398 in value and weighed over 4,321 tons.

Overseas exports during the first month of the present Great Lakes-St. Lawrence Seaway shipping season were valued at $316,848 and weighed 3,345,625 pounds. Imports, all pulp wood from Canada, totaled 6,300,000 pounds and $394,550 in value during April.

Export shipments through Green Bay included 3,113,250 pounds of dried milk at a value of $289,570 shipped to the Netherlands, Italy, Greece, Turkey and Tunisia, shipments of $34,707 worth of hides and raw skins weighing 205,316 pounds to West Germany and Italy and a $2,511 cargo of 27,050 pounds of lumber and shingles to West Germany.

Tonnages and value of import-export cargoes through Green Bay during April were the highest of any west shore Great Lakes ports except Chicago and Milwaukee.

These are the figures for April: Chicago — Exports, $4,680,237 value and 121,746,539 pounds; imports, $7,553,563 and 91,305,362.

Milwaukee — Exports, $696,041 and 9,080,178 pounds including largely machinery and 7,840,000 pounds of scrap iron and steel; imports, $1359,112 and 34,644,155 pounds.

Green Bay — Exports, $316,848 and 3,345,625; imports, $394,550 and 6,300,000.

Kenosha-Racine — Exports, $496,856 and 3,141,894 pounds, largely automobiles; imports $609 and 79 pounds.

Duluth-Superior — Exports, $7,983 and 39,000; imports, $415,346 and 5,997,427 pounds, largely wood pulp from Canada.

Manitowoc — No exports, imports, $152,000 and 6,521,068 pounds of barley and rye, all from Canada.

Sheboygan — No exports, imports, $15,334 and 4,267 pounds of leather supplies from the Philippines.

What Does Hole in the Cheese Taste Like?

The discussion between the Swiss cheesemakers of Wisconsin and the Federal Food and Drug Administration is a strange thing. It would be funny if it did not mean so much in hard cash to the Wisconsin producers.

The Food and Drug Administration has the duty to see that the food and drugs on the market in the United States meet certain qualifications of purity, nutrition and healthfulness. In this instance, however, they are not talking about the quality of the Swiss cheese but the quality of the holes in the cheese. It is well known that the American housewife prefers Swiss cheese with holes in it. So far as the discussions between the cheesemakers and the FDA have gone, there has been little mention of the quality of the cheese. The cheesemakers contend that cheese is just as good without holes as it is with holes. Furthermore, they point out that every block or wheel of Swiss cheese has areas without holes but they say that those areas are the same quality cheese as the areas with holes. The Food and Drug Administration contends that it is against their rules for the cheesemakers to produce holes artificially in the areas that are naturally solid although, so far as we have heard, they have not contended that the quality of the cheese was less desirable in those areas than in the center where the holes are more numerous.

It is the FDA contention that when housewives select cheese with holes in it they want naturally made holes. Presumably that is an indication of quality which the housewives rely upon and the FDA holds that they are being deceived when they get cheese with artificially produced holes.

The cheesemakers have proposed that they be permitted to scoop out holes in the Swiss cheese to make it more appealing to the housewives and that such cheese be labeled "Some eyes mechanically formed."

Donald N. McDowell, director of the Wisconsin Department of Agriculture, says "If a slice of cheese is from top grade Swiss, it's still Swiss, with or without holes." He adds the eye formation in the cheese is only one criterion for designating the quality of Swiss cheese but there isn't a block or a wheel produced that doesn't have sections without eyes. Whether or not cheesemakers should produce eyes artificially is a question that Mr. McDowell doesn't go into. He merely says if such eyes are made and if the product is properly labeled there should be no deception involved.

It seems strange that the FDA will argue with a statement like that. Its business is to see that the householder gets the grade of cheese indicated on the label. If it is Grade A cheese what's wrong with its having more or less holes in it? There is no charge for the holes.

International Law—According to Castro

It didn't take the Cubans long to pick up the Russian suggestion that all foreign bases should be outlawed. The chief Cuban delegate to the United Nations quickly got into the Bizerte fray.

The Guantanamo naval base, said Mario Garcia-Inchaustegui, wasn't to protect the western hemisphere from outsiders. Instead its purpose was "against Cuba and to combat the struggle of Latin American peoples for liberation . . . at this very moment mercenaries are being concentrated at Guantanamo and in Puerto Rico to be used later against small independent states." A treaty was no justification for such bases, continued the Cuban delegate, obviously more concerned because the treaty takes mutual agreement to be voided.

U. S. Ambassador Adlai Stevenson

quickly retailed that this was "an extraordinary doctrine of international law or rather of international lawlessness." How much all this means to the majority of U. N. delegates aroused about Bizerte is doubtful. But Mr. Stevenson's challenge to the Russians to give the East Germans the same chance to determine their own future and their own government as the U. S. gives to the Puerto Ricans should have some effect.

The trouble is that the Asian and African delegates, as well as those from Latin America, often do not clearly see that the Berlin situation is a far greater threat to their own security than are the hangovers of colonial rule. We can expect a lot more pressure about Guantanamo. And if we give the slightest sign that we might withdraw, the heat really will build up.

The New Cigarette Tax

It has seemed unfair to a great many people that the cigarette smoker should be taxed so heavily while the other users of tobacco such as the cigar smoker, the pipe smoker or the tobacco chewer go scot-free. But there may be some justice in the latest 1-cent tax on cigarettes since it will be used largely to develop and preserve the outdoor resources of the state.

The cigarette has contributed a good deal to the destruction by fire of many acres of forest lands. Many thousands of dollars and a large amount of human energy have gone into the program of teaching people, and particularly the cigarette smokers, to break the match they use to light their cigarette and to be sure the cigarette butt is extinguished before it is tossed aside in any woodland area.

In the future, the advice to smokers to protect the forests and to keep Wisconsin green may have more meaning and more effect than in the past. After all, a great part of Wisconsin's future park and recreation areas will be paid for by the cigarette smokers. They will contribute $50 million for this purpose during the next 10 years.

They should understand when they are asked to protect the outdoors from fire it is not only good policy to do this but it also is their forest they will be protecting.

Helpmates

Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt set some sort of record in her governmental relations during and since her husband's tenure in the White House. But the matter of wives in diplomatic dealings is coming of age in the early months of the Kennedy Administration.

Certainly Mrs. Kennedy eased touchy diplomatic problems when she and the President visited President De Gaulle in France in the spring. Her success with Khrushchev bore no fruit. But the idea of taking wives along lost none of the shine.

Atty. Gen. Robert Kennedy took his enthusiastic, pretty wife on his recent African tour. Undersecretary of State Chester Bowles and those who accompanied him on a long range visit to African and Asian lands this summer all took along their wives. The reports indicate that feminine companionship pays off. The women can get together with native women and talk is the same around the world — the problem of washing clothes, recipes, formulas and getting rid of ants. In the new field of person-to-person diplomacy the wives probably are worth the plane fares.

For years women have been told that employers looking for executives must meet the wives as well. Now applicants for government service had better carefully consider their prospective brides in the light of international affairs as well as how well they look in an evening gown or how they bake bread.

about Gen. Eisenhower. Mr. Truman of course knows better. He has been President himself. He knows the burdens of the office. He knows the dedication Mr. Eisenhower brought to the job through eight trying years. The two men differ in their approach to the functions of the Presidency and the proper use of its powers. But this is a difference, as Mr. Truman well knows, based on conviction. And the record shows that Mr. Eisenhower's philosophy of government has worked pretty well. Fortunately, the public has long since learned not to take Mr. Truman too seriously when he goes off on a political binge. But ex-Presidents have obligations beyond those of ordinary citizens, including an obligation to truth and fairness. The public has a right to expect of ex-Presidents conduct which entitles them to be taken seriously in retirement. Mr. Truman has talked respect for the Presidency. Mr. Eisenhower has demonstrated it.

HST's Words, Deeds Not Always in Accord

From The New York Herald Tribune

"Looking back over the history of our country, I have noted that too many of our Presidents were bitterly assailed while in office and some were not spared from scorn even after retirement. This is one of the harsh sides of American political life and our partisan approach to free government. Partisan as I am, I deplore this."

—Harry S. Truman, in his memoirs.

"The press is still trying to build (Gen. Eisenhower) up. They even said he did a day's work a short time ago! Think of that! It must have been very hard on brain and muscle after eight years of rest." — Harry S. Truman, in an address prepared for a Democratic fund-raising dinner celebrating Mr. Kennedy's birthday.

In the same give-em hell tone, Mr. Truman blasted his successor as a "do-nothing President" whose two terms added up to "a period of inaction, bad judgment and vindictiveness," declaring that "Mr. Ike still knows nothing about government and how to run it."

We'll let the Democrats decide which Mr. Truman gets the Tony for political performance, of the sanctimonious author or the splenetic orator.

Can't Convict, Sentence Man For Crimes That He Might Commit

From The Wisconsin Medical Journal

The Milwaukee Journal editorialized on the case of Terence Donovan, the Peshtigo youth who wantonly killed a 21-year-old Milwaukee girl and seriously wounded her husband. After reviewing the criminal history of Donovan, the Journal asked how it happened that Donovan was at large and free to kill. "The history of this case," concludes the Journal, "suggests that several doctors bungled badly."

Bizarre crimes, such as this one seems to be, focus attention once again on the unfortunate lag between what psychiatry and medical science could do to protect the community and what it is permitted to do under the law. The Journal is correct in its opinion that had Donovan been under periodic, competent supervision, the chances of preventing a tragedy might have been vastly improved. Unfortunately, no court can give a man an indeterminate sentence of supervision because of what he might do.

At one time in his past, Donovan was committed to Waupun Central State Hospital as insane. Later, he was described by competent medical authority as legally sane and not medically insane, and he was released from custody. Shortly after that he was in trouble again, convicted, sentenced, transferred to and from the central state hospital and released.

The entire pattern of this case—and it is by no means unusual in the annals of crime—reveals the sad fact that there is no legal expression of the understanding psychiatry now has of the constitutional psychopath. In our democracy we cannot try, and convict people, of what crimes they are capable of committing. Punishment, and a determination of the personal responsibility of the person adjudged, follows the act. Any interference with the freedom of an individual because he might commit a crime—whether it be murder, traffic rule violation or conspiracy to overthrow the government—is in abhorrent to the American juridical structure. On the other hand, the community must be protected from the mentally ill who do not fit into legal definitions.

At the present time, if a person accused of a crime is considered as having no knowledge of the nature and quality of the act and of the difference between right and wrong, not in the abstract, but in the particular act, he is judged as insane and committed to a mental institution. Frequently such persons are not actually insane, but constitutional psychopaths, and have no place in mental institutions. As in Donovan's case, they are soon released and free to inflict additional tragedy on society.

The psychopath can easily be identified; the problem of how and where to isolate him is a legislative one, the solution of which must come with the general advance in social development.

Terence Donovan, like many other constitutional psychopaths, is not insane, was not insane. But he is sick, and as a diseased person, he should have been isolated from society as soon as his illness was identified. It is to be hoped that the Milwaukee Journal will recognize that the freedom of Terence Donovan to kill results from the absence of planned social response to individual anti-social reaction. It is also to be hoped that the senseless tragedy of his crime will add incentive for the legislature to consider the problem of the psychopath and provide a practical, legal means of furnishing custodial care for the Terence Donovans to come.

Looking Backward

All Missouri Under Martial Law

100 YEARS AGO

Quoted from the Appleton Motor for Sept. 5, 1861.

Gen. Fremont issued a proclamation on Aug. 31, proclaiming Missouri under martial law, to the joy of all good citizens and greatly to the annoyance of the rebels.

The proclamation of Gen. Fremont, declaring the whole State of Missouri under martial law, announcing the confiscation of all property in the hands of rebel owners, and affirming the unconditional and immediate emancipation of all slaves whose owners are detected in rebellion marks a new and most important feature in the progress of the war for the Union. Of course, he will be sustained by the Government, and the Government will be sustained by the people. We look upon it as an impossibility to confine the operation of the principle of such a proclamation within the limits of Missouri alone.

The time for decisive blows for Free Government has come at last.

State Costs Go Up; More Must Help Pay

BY WILLIAM A. DRAHEIM

MADISON — State citizens have been learning some facts of government finance "the hard way" during recent debates on tax reform. Preoccupied with what kind of tax program Wisconsin should have, many have overlooked the reason why tax increases are necessary.

The answer is that steadily increasing costs of state government have pushed our biennial revenue available and the extent to which rates of its tax structure can be increased without unfairly penalizing one segment of the population or seriously endangering the over-all economy of the state.

For instance, on a per capita basis, Wisconsin is fourth highest in the nation for individual income tax collections, and sixth for corporate income taxes. Our property taxes are fourth highest for people buying new homes with FHA mortgages.

On the other hand, on a per capita basis, Wisconsin ranks only twenty-second in personal income. Thus, it appears that our state has long ago reached the limits of our "ability-to-pay" present costs of government under the tax structure that has existed for the past 80 years.

While it is reasonable to assume inflation and population growth tend to increase costs of government, I have never felt there is any valid justification for the assumption by many people, including the governor, that a 20-25 per cent increase of the previous budget is the irreducible minimum on which to base the state budget for the next biennium.

MORE TAXPAYERS

As co-chairman of the joint finance committee, I have found many people, including public officials, legislators and those who constantly seek increased spending and greater benefits from state government, almost universally ignore a basic, indisputable fact.

It is: state spending has now reached the level where each further increase means that more people who never before paid taxes must begin paying some part of financing the benefits and services of government which, up to now, they have been receiving at someone else's expense.

For any government official or legislator to pretend otherwise is the worst possible kind of irresponsibility.

Lawrence Says
English Unions, Management
Avoid Strikes
Government Plays
Small Role in Settling Disputes

BY DAVID LAWRENCE
WASHINGTON—In England this writer had an opportunity in recent days to discuss with top men in the field of labor-management relations the problem of avoiding strikes.

Great Britain has made considerable progress in this area by what might be called moral suasion instead of law. This is of particular interest to America, where in recent years one administration after another has been groping for such a solution.

Not all is rosy in England, to be sure. At the moment, for instance, labor is protesting vociferously against the plans of the Chancellor of the Exchequer, Selwyn Lloyd, to bring about what is called a wage "pause."

formation and statistical data about the national economy to help it "operate."

Provision on Plan
The Trades Union Congress—the national organization of British labor unions—has favored on the plan because of a fear it will brush aside the existing informal but effective arbitration machinery.

In Great Britain, the settling of labor disputes involves a minimum of governmental intervention. While the procedures developed separately in each industry over the years differ widely, they share one approach—to bring the national interest to bear on local disputes as a way of reaching compromises.

Approximately 3,000 disputes a year are settled at one stage or another by the procedures agreed upon by both sides. This approach began back in the 1880's and has been developing ever since.

In the engineering trades, for example, the procedures operate in three stages. If a dispute cannot be settled informally, a "works conference" is set up at the factory, with management on one side and the shop stewards representing the unions on the other.

The meeting may call in outside advice from the local employers' association and the district officials of the union.

Second Step
If the two sides can't agree, either can demand the second stage of the negotiation—a conference which takes place, not in the local factory, but in one of the centers where the employers' association and the unions have their district offices. This is at the district level. At this stage, more than half the disputes sent up from the factory level have been settled.

But if no agreement is forthcoming, the dispute is taken up by the central conference, which meets on the second Friday of every month throughout the year. This is the highest level of negotiation in the engineering industry, and it is attended by members of the national bodies on both sides.

Other industries use similar procedures. The iron-and-steel industry, for instance, sends down to the local level national representatives of both management and labor. They work from the top down, but the effect is the same.

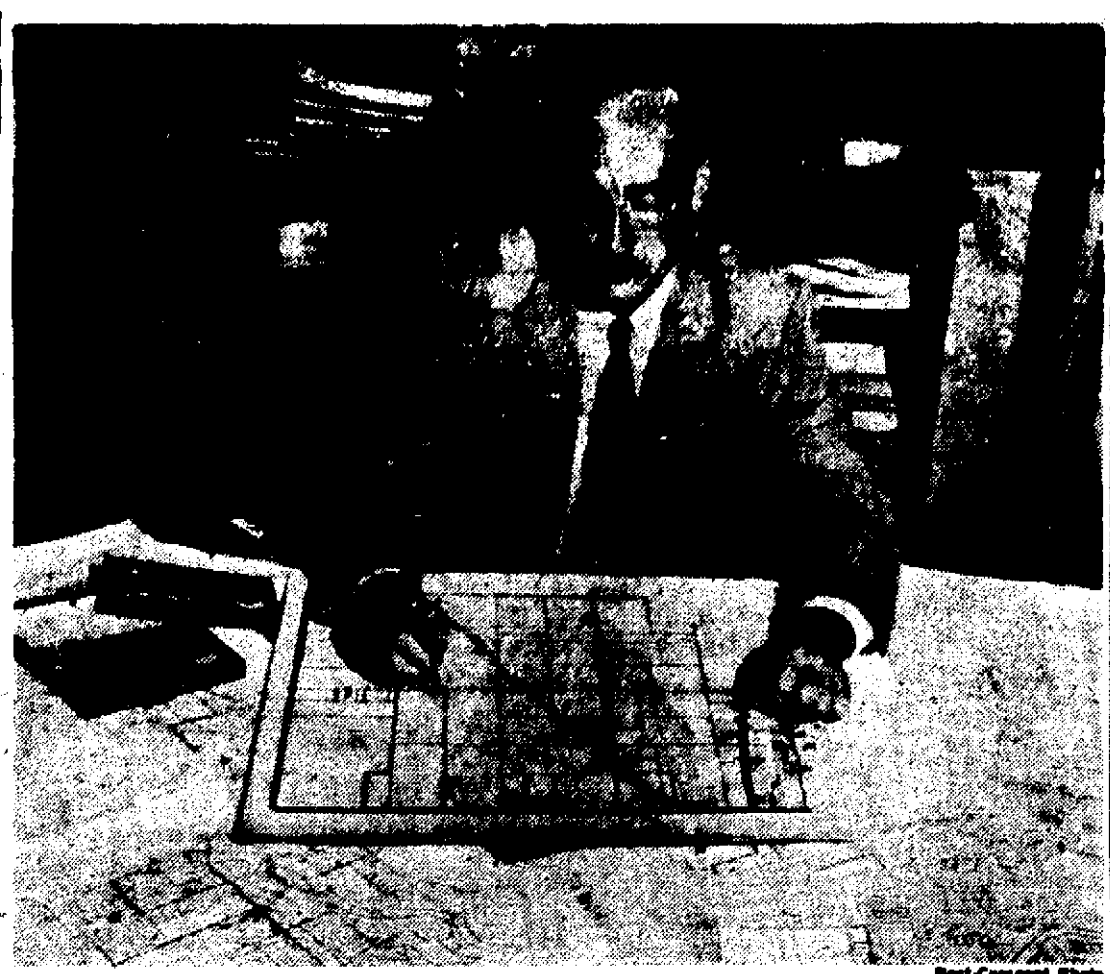

Other industries in Britain use governmental arbitration machinery, and others have no formal procedure.

But the thing to remember about British industrial relations is that agreements between management and labor on a national level do not have the legal status of a contract as in the United States. They are more or less in the form of "gentlemen's agreements."

This is a weakness in the system, because it has led to a large number of wildcat strikes.

More Influence
The influence of Communists in side labor unions in Europe is being felt more and more. Top officials of the labor unions deny that the Communists wield any such influence. Indeed, they point proudly to the fact that a relatively small number of workers are identified with the Communist Party.

But this is a naive approach. The Communists in Moscow have long been operating through only a handful of persons in many a national organization. These agents are responsible for stirring up all kinds of antagonisms and for agitating extreme positions.

Romantic Aspects Aside
'Air Glow' May be Key
To Atmospheric State

BLACKSBURG, Va. (AP)—Scientists have gone the earthy better, possibly two, with the discovery that there may be a Venus-glow and a Mars-glow as well.

Romantic aspects aside, space researchers think they have found a way to determine the composition of the atmosphere—whether earth's or another planet's—by examining the spectral or color lines of carbon dioxide gas as its constituent atoms break down and recombine with others in the upper atmosphere.

Dr. Charles A. Barth of the Jet Propulsion Laboratory, Pasadena, Calif., described the "night airglow" effects Monday at a national conference of 100 space scientists here at Virginia Polytechnic Institute.

The meeting is sponsored by the National Aeronautics and Space Administration, the National Science Foundation, and the college.

When atoms and ions of the upper atmosphere of earth combine, they emit a characteristic type of light radiation which can be identified through spectrographic interpretation, Dr. Barth said.

An ion is an electrically charged atom, or an atom which has lost an electron from its atomic structure.

Not Visible to Eye
This "airglow" shouldn't be confused with the aurora borealis (northern lights), Dr. Barth said, because the airglow is spread uniformly over the earth's surface at a height of about 60 miles.

The night airglow is not visible to the eye, but lies just below the limit of human sensitivity. If it could be seen, it would appear to be greenish-white, Dr. Barth said.

However, he added, the night airglow on Mars, at a level of 120 miles from the surface, might be visible to human observers. In this case, the first space visitor to Mars will see a faint lavender color over the night sky, Dr. Barth said.

Valid 'Atmosphere Model'
By determining the atmospheric composition at the airglow level, scientists are able—through mathematical correlation with other known facts—to build up an "atmosphere model" showing what the atmosphere is like at any altitude.

The Venus atmosphere remains a mystery, though, because no instruments have been able to probe through the thick cloud cover over the surface of the planet.

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP)—A minister in an Oklahoma City church came to the end of his sermon on a rainy, stormy Sunday and asked that all persons who might want to unite with the congregation meet with a committee after the service. late in 1962, when the planet will be in a favorable position for the shot. The probe, known as "Mariner A," has been designed to fly by Venus at a distance of 16,000 miles.

Observations on the planet's radiation (to determine its temperature), of the possible existence of a magnetic field, and an ultraviolet determination of its atmospheric composition will be made. The information will be transmitted back to earth before the spacecraft goes into an orbit around the sun.

World Shocked by Soviet Test Plan

test ban talks after 338 sessions began in October, 1958.

Arthur H. Dean, Chief U. S. delegate at Geneva, said Soviet negotiator Semyon K. Tsarapkin "has never given any indication at all that this was coming."

British delegate David Ormsby-Gore said "the verdict of the world on this will no doubt be clear."

Soviets Concerned

The Soviets themselves showed concern about the possible effect of their about-face on world opinion. The Soviet statement went to great length to plead a "peace-loving policy." It directed an appeal to those foreigners "who would perhaps judge too severely the Soviet Union's carrying out tests of new types of nuclear weapons."

The Soviets said every precaution will be taken to minimize the harmful effects of the thermonuclear weapon tests on living organisms. But the program outlined appeared clearly intended to shake the Western Allies into coming to a conference table more ready than they are now to accept the Soviet demands for a German peace treaty.

"The Soviet Union has worked out designs for creating a series of super-powerful nuclear bombs of 20, 30, 50 and 100 million tons of TNT," said the statement issued by the official Soviet news agency Tass.

Powerful Rockets

Furthermore, the statement continued, Soviet scientists have developed powerful rockets to lift the giant bombs "to any point on the globe."

The rockets were described as similar to those which shot Soviet astronauts Gherman Titov and Yuri Gagarin on space flights around the globe.

The announcement of the super-bomb came as no surprise, however. Khrushchev on Aug. 9 said Soviet scientists had suggested they could build a bomb equal to 100 million tons of TNT and that he would give the signal for construction if prospects for peace did not improve.

U. S. military experts said then it would be comparatively easy to build such a bomb but not worth while from a military standpoint since present nuclear bombs were powerful enough to wipe out an entire city.

Bring It Home

The announcement landed on the Soviet people like an atom bomb itself. Only lately have they been given information to let them know how seriously the West is reacting to Khrushchev's Berlin proposals. This announcement appeared likely to bring it home to them with a bang.

It told them: "The Soviet people, the Soviet government cannot not reckon with the fact that, like 20 years ago, ominous clouds of war are once again overhanging the approaches to our motherland, that West Germany and the present allies of German militarists are feverishly engaged in military preparations."

Civil War Appears Near In Brazil

Gen. Jose Machado Lopes, head of the 3rd army in the state, have proclaimed their support of the vice president.

Defied Order

Gen. Lopes yesterday defied an order from acting president Rauli Mazzilli relieving him of command of the 60,000-man 3rd army. The 3rd army is considered one of the best-trained and equipped of Brazil's four armies. Only the 1st army in Rio de Janeiro is larger.

In addition Rio Grande do Sul is the home of fight-loving gaucho-cowboys — who roam the flat wheat-growing, cattle-raising state.

Apparently the only air force unit — or most of it — deserted Gov. Brizola and Gen. Lopes, however. Eighteen jet planes flew from their base near Porto Alegre two days ago to Cumbica, near Sao Paulo.

The southern state has no navy. But Brizola sank three barges in Lagoa dos Patos (ducks lagoon), the entrance to Porto Alegre's inland harbor, temporarily blocking it, when Brazilian warships were reported en route there four days ago.

Headquarters of the 2nd army, ordered into action against the Goulart-supporting state, is at Sao Paulo, nearly 600 miles northeast of Porto Alegre.

Young Oshkosh Man Admits Killing Wife

front seat of March's car and Jungwirth sat alone in the back seat.

Derber followed the Paepke car and they tried to lose him by driving around the city, but apparently were unable to do so. They then drove into a driveway at 1816 Ceape Ave., where March rents a garage.

Derber pulled into the driveway behind the Paepke car. Judith Derber got out of the Paepke car and started walking toward the car of her estranged husband, police were told.

Find Two Shots

As she neared the rear of the Paepke car, Derber got out of his car and fired two shots, one hitting Mrs. Derber in the right shoulder and the other her forehead, Derber told police. Derber got back into his car and drove off down Ceape Ave. at a high rate of speed, witnesses said.

Benjamin Hughes III, 1029 Ceape Ave., was sitting on the front porch of his home at the time of the shooting. He told Oshkosh police that he heard what he thought were "firecrackers going off." He saw a car pull out of the driveway at 1816 Ceape Ave. and drive past his house at a high speed.

Derber drove to Neenah on Winnebago County Trunk A. He later told police he threw the gun out of his car while driving to Neenah. The gun has not been recovered.

Neenah police received call from Oshkosh police at 12:45 a.m. today that there had been a shooting at Oshkosh and that Derber was on his way toward Neenah on County Trunk A, driving a 1961 car. Squad cars were sent to that approach into the city.

At 12:30 a.m. the Rev. James Craanen, assistant pastor of St. Margaret Mary Catholic Church of Neenah, called Neenah police to ask if there had been any trouble regarding a Richard Derber. He was advised that Derber was wanted in connection with the shooting of Derber's wife.

The priest said Derber was at the church office and asked for a squad car. Both Neenah squad cars went to the church and Menasha sent a squad car to the corners of Washington Avenue and Reed Street in Neenah to stand by in case help was needed.

One of the Neenah policemen entered the church from the rear and went to the church office where he saw Derber sitting near Father Craanen. The officer asked what the trouble was and the priest replied, "This is the young man you are looking for."

No Weapons Found

Derber was then handcuffed and searched but no weapon was found. He was taken to the Neenah police station where he was questioned and turned over to Oshkosh police at 2:05 a.m.

A search of the car Derber was driving failed to yield the murder weapon.

Neenah police said that Derber had been a member of a wedding party at which Father Craanen officiated. Derber had struck up an acquaintance with the priest and drove directly to Neenah after the shooting to surrender himself to Father Craanen.

Lived Five Hours

Father Craanen told police when they arrived at the church office that Derber had told him he shot his wife.

Mrs. Derber was shot in the right shoulder in the fleshy portion between the neck and the shoulder and in the left upper side of the forehead.

Oshkosh police received the complaint on the shooting at 12:28 a.m. today. Mrs. Derber died at Mercy Hospital at 5:10 a.m.

the front entrance to the executive offices. Jackson, a member of the Senate Armed Services committee and the Senate-House Atomic Energy Committee, said he had no information about the conference but:

Obvious

"It's obvious what it's about."

Among others invited to the White House meeting were the top Republican leaders in Congress — Sen. Everett Dirksen of Illinois and Rep. Charles A. Halleck of Indiana.

Kennedy issued a statement denouncing the Soviet test ban treaty, a blow to worldwide hopes for disarmament and a "threat to the entire world by increasing the dangers of a thermo-nuclear holocaust."

Recalls Ambassador

He called Ambassador Arthur H. Dean home from nuclear test ban treaty negotiations with Russia at Geneva.

And word went out from the White House that in the next 24 hours their President wanted policy meetings with his defense, atomic energy and state department advisers and with congressional chiefs.

"The termination of the moratorium on nuclear testing unilateral decision," the President said, "leaves the United States under the necessity of deciding what its own national interests require."

No Specifics

The statement did not forecast specific U. S. counter action. But it was learned that the administration has plans ready and preparations made for a quick resumption of testing if Kennedy gives the order.

midst of the Berlin crisis, struck top Washington officials as a highly significant turn for the worse in Soviet policy toward the rest of the world with these immediately predictable results:

1. It will produce a new burst of effort by the big powers in the nuclear arms race, especially since the Moscow announcement spoke of developing a 100-megaton bomb (a force equivalent to 100 million tons of TNT).

2. It means an intensification of the Berlin dispute with its dangers of a military clash in Germany that could lead to nuclear war.

3. Torpedoes the Geneva conference on a nuclear test ban treaty. The United States, Britain and Russia opened the conference in the fall of 1958 when they suspended nuclear weapons testing; it had made no progress for months but up to yesterday all three powers had been unwilling to force an open break.

4. It shows Soviet disregard for opinion in Western and neutralist countries. There had been hope the great powers would agree on a permanent nuclear test ban as a first step toward broad-scale disarmament.

Russia Takes Beating

The President and his advisers agreed that Russia would take a propaganda beating for its decision. The President's settlement reflected that conclusion.

"The Soviet government's decision to resume nuclear weapons testing will be met with deepest concern and resentment throughout the world," Kennedy said. "The Soviet government's decision to resume nuclear weapons testing will be met with deepest concern and resentment throughout the world," Kennedy said.

The news conference ended at 4:30 and Kennedy went back from the state department conference room to the White House. Secretary of State Dean Rusk joined him there and reported on the Tass dispatch.

Diplomats Show Shock, Anger on Resumption of Tests

Worst Transgression Against World Opinion Since Hungary

Chicago Daily News Foreign Service
UNITED NATIONS—News that Russia will resume nuclear bomb testing shocked and appalled diplomats here.

It was Moscow's worst transgression against world public opinion since the brutal Soviet repression of the 1956 uprising in Communist Hungary.

Neutralist diplomats, obviously upset by the latest public showing of Soviet scorn, reacted unhappily to the news.

Indian Ambassador C. S. Jha said he was "very disturbed."

India again this year is sponsoring a proposal in the 99-nation United Nations assembly calling for extending the voluntary ban on nuclear weapons test in force since October 1958.

Everybody will be disturbed and disappointed," commented a high Japanese diplomat.

He feared it will start a "chain reaction with East and West military rushing to test more and more terrible weapons."

The Soviet announcement linking plans for bombs equivalent to 100 million tons of TNT and Sputnik-style rocket launchers brought expressions of disbelief at first hearing.

Moscow could not have picked a worse time for its nuclear bomb.

Summit Meeting
It comes on the eve of tomorrow's summit meeting of neutralist kings, presidents and premiers at Belgrade, Yugoslavia.

The Belgrade meeting headed by Yugoslavia's Marshal Tito, Indian Prime Minister Nehru and United Arab Republic President Nasser is in turn a warm-up for the Sept. 19 opening of the U.N. Assembly.

Opposition to nuclear testing is a top priority belief for all these neutralists.

President Kennedy's restraint up to now in withstanding Pentagon pressure to resume testing contrasts sharply with Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev's obvious inability to resist his own military.

Familiar Russian propaganda charges of Pentagon war-monger now becomes ashes in Communist mouths.

Neutral Position
However, neutralists here, eager to preserve a position between Moscow and Washington for pure selfish reasons, are expected to try to balance the Soviet and American policies.

They may note President Kennedy's warning that the United States now feels itself released from the voluntary test ban agreement.

Diplomats hearing of the Russian move immediately wondered whether the new Soviet tests will be run off in the earth's atmosphere, spewing dangerous atomic fallout.

First reports did not specify, but Moscow's mention of super bombs suggests that fallout-producing tests in the atmosphere are planned.

Costs Billions
Even if the tests are buried underground, or executed in outer space they will have the effect of speeding the East-West arms race already costing billions and creating a climate for war.

The weak, poverty-stricken nations which are in the majority at the United Nations especially resent what they consider wholesale waste of wealth on big power armament.

The Soviets already had begun making warlike sounds here yesterday afternoon before the Moscow news on nuclear testing.

They distributed copies of the earlier announcement of halting Red Army demobilization.

In U.N. terms, the Soviet stand on nuclear tests already was vulnerable, even before the Moscow announcement.

Moved Quickly
United States and Britain had moved quickly to show up the lameness of Soviet demands to merge nuclear tests talks into the even larger stalemate on general disarmament.

But the Russian decision to resume testing compounds Soviet vulnerability.

The Russians themselves made some of the loudest speeches here about the need to stop nuclear testing three years ago.

Today's Soviet line about "peace" from the West forcing their decision is unconvincing.

"Do they mean the 1,500 American troops sent into West Berlin?" one observer asked sarcastically.

In the long range view, the Soviet test move threatens dark possibilities. It suggests Khrushchev may be giving in to Red China's dogma of inevitable war with the capitalist West.

Not Pretty
The implications for western policy are not pretty either. Hopes of bending Soviet behavior on Berlin and elsewhere through pressure from neutralists such as India's Jawaharlal Nehru may have to be revised.

Is Khrushchev saying he will heed nothing less than naked force in Berlin? If so, the chances must be said to have risen of an unintentional spark setting off World War III there, where Communist and Western military power already meet.

The possibility remains however, that the Russians are only trying scare tactics, hoping to get their way in Berlin, East Germany and Communist East Europe.

They may think a frightened world will be quick to give in. If not they know from experience that further Soviet policy switches — any return to reason — always will be gratefully received.

Misspelled Name Will Not be Changed With Ax for Cane
GUTTENBERG, Iowa (AP) — Residents once again have decided to leave the extra "T" in the community's name, even though the German printing inventor for whom it is named spelled it Gutenberg.

The story is that a draftsman, a century ago, misspelled the name in drawing the original town plat. Those who advocated the change cited tradition and the possible

Daily Worker Gets Scooped On Test Ban

Had Predicted That U. S., Not Soviets Would Begin Blobs

Chicago Daily News Foreign Service
LONDON — The only newspaper in Britain that didn't front-page Russia's midnight announcement that it planned to resume nuclear weapons tests was the Communist Daily Worker.

That noble sheet had already anticipated the news but as usual got it 100 per cent wrong.

On Monday it had, announced in a seven column banner on its front page "United States Plots New H Tests."

"Resumption likely shortly to fit in with Pentagon's plans," read a subhead.

"The Kennedy Administration," stated the paper's so-called diplomatic, correspondent, "has virtually decided to resume nuclear testing shortly."

He based his story on fact that Chet Holifield, chairman of the Congressional Committee on Atomic Energy, Sen. Thomas Dodd of Connecticut and Admiral Lewis Strauss, former chairman of the Atomic Energy Commission, had advocated the resumption of testing.

Japan Hurt Over Russia's A-Bomb Tests

Chicago Daily News Foreign Service
TOKYO — Japan, first and only nation to feel the breath of atomic war, was profoundly shocked at Russia's decision to resume nuclear tests.

Newspapers and political parties were unanimous in condemning the Russian action.

All expressed fear the United States will take similar action and launch a new arms race.

"In the name of the human race we protest this action," cried Tokyo Shimbun. "What a one-sided action it is," said Asahi.

"The earth looks black now. Russia has gone against wishes of the world," said a spokesman for the ruling Liberal Democratic Party.

Another comment was "Russia wants to put an end to the idea that a local war over Berlin is impossible."

State Members Divided on Aid For Education
Post-Crescent Washington Bureau
WASHINGTON — Members of the Wisconsin House delegation Wednesday split 3 to 6 in their vote to consider passage of the emergency school construction bill, which was rejected by 73 votes.

Voting in favor of the measure were Reps. Robert W. Kastenmeier, Henry S. Reuss, and Lester R. Johnson, all Democrats.

Voting against it were five Republicans, Reps. Henry C. Schadeberg, Vernon W. Thomson, William K. Van Pelt, Melvin R. Laird and John W. Rynes, and one Democrat, Clement J. Zablocki.

Not voting was Rep. Alvin E. O'Konski.

Kastenmeier explained that he had voted for consideration of the

Canaveral Land Makes Million For Brothers

Miami Landowners
24 Hour Profit
Locked In Stocks

BY JAMES HUBBELL
Special Staff Writer
MIAMI—The big moon boom at Cape Canaveral made more than a million dollars for Daniel and Henry Dubbin in less than 24 hours, but

They can't spend it; the profit is all on paper.

The two Miami Beach brothers together own about 480,000 shares of stock in Canaveral International Corp., a company they put together from 9,000 acres of Brevard County land and two small shipping lines that supply down-range missile tracking installations.

Canaveral International on the American Stock Exchange rose nearly $3 a share in the first 24 hours after the federal space agency decided to locate its mammoth Nova moon rocket project at Cape Canaveral.

Didn't Lift Finger

Thus, the Dubbin brothers, without lifting a finger, made a million dollars-plus just on the rise in the value of their stock. Since it is investment stock of the type owned by many corporation executives, they can't sell it now—but the paper value is there nevertheless.

This is perhaps the most impressive example of the initial effect in Florida of the government's decision to expand Cape Canaveral.

But there are other quick reactions to the Nova decision, which Gov. Farris Bryant has hailed as the greatest development ever to hit the Florida economy.

Land Prices Rise

Land prices near the Cape rose almost immediately.

Electronics companies already situated in Florida began planning ways to get new contracts out of Nova.

Economic statisticians who have been talking about millions of dollars in connection with Florida's industrial growth suddenly switched to billions.

One of the first noticeable indications of rising land prices came from the Dubbin brothers.
Canaveral Groves Estates, a subsidiary of Canaveral International that lies due west of the Merritt Island complex the government plans to use for Nova

Up $300

One-acre tracts that were priced at $600 less than a week ago are now selling for $1,250. Industrial property that was 10 cents a square foot a few days ago is now 15 cents.

Canaveral Groves raised its prices the day after the federal space agency chose Florida over Texas, California and other possible sites as the launching area for a moon trip that is still years away.

Albert Haas, sale manager for Canaveral Groves, said the company sold $100,000 worth of land Friday alone, about 10 times the amount usually sold on a good day.

Partly to Nova

Since Canaveral International went on the American Exchange in early July, the Dubbin brothers have realized a paper profit of more than $2.5 million. The stock hit the market at $6 a share. Now it's $12, thanks partly to Nova.

Other Florida land companies stand to benefit either directly or indirectly from the Nova Project.
General Development Corp., the largest lot sales and home building firm in the nation, has two projects in Brevard County—the 45,000-acre Port Malabar near Melbourne and the 5,000-acre Port St. John between Cocoa and Titusville.

Miami realtor James G. Pace has 2,000 acres on Merritt Island, which the government is eyeing for its moon space port. Fifty miles northwest of the Cape, Cape and a group of associates are developing an industrial park they hope to fill with space age industry.

Summer Vegetables Not Only Provide Good Eating But Give Cooks Chance to Show Off

To the Creative Cook, cheese is a food that helps change ordinary vegetables into dishes with new sparkle and taste appeal. Here, shredded Cheddar sharpens a Vegetable Medley Casserole that combines cut green beans, celery slices, shredded cabbage, thickly sliced tomatoes with a white sauce.

Tomatoes Are Made to be stuffed... and what attractive results are achieved with only a little effort and a big imagination when they are made into this salad. Chili powder adds zest to this salad of garden-ripe tomatoes stuffed with kidney beans, diced chicken or other leftover meats.

BY LILLIAN MACKESY
Post-Crescent Food Editor

The abundant, colorful summer vegetables now in the markets are a dramatic invitation to creative cookery... a chance for the cook in every home to build her reputation sky high.

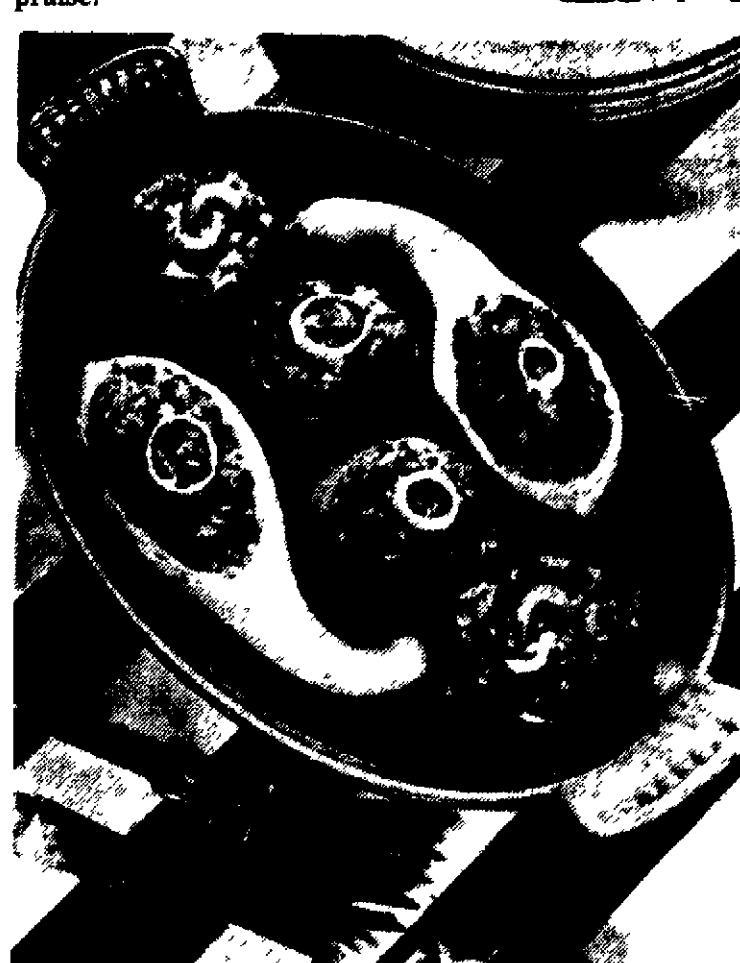

Remember the French trick of preparing gourmet dishes to perfection is to avoid overcooking the vegetables... the Chinese also follow this rule, preferring their vegetables just a bit crisp. Also keep in mind the use of color in concocting combinations for salads, boiled, baked or broiled dishes... there's nothing better than color to make food appealing. Restaurants famous for their vegetables are those which seldom serve vegetables plain... good and nourishing, to be sure... but deadly as a steady diet.

With all the garden-fresh vegetables on hand, the cook with a creative bent can really go to town on her menus from now until frost. All she needs is a little imagination, an eye for color, a flair for seasonings and a few good recipes to start her off on a cooking spree that can bring only praise.

Here are some samples of how to make common vegetables into interesting dishes... every one of them a combination that makes each recipe a culinary stand-out.

Vegetable Medley Casserole
2 cups cut green beans
2 cups celery slices
2 cups coarsely shredded cabbage
1/4 cup butter
1/4 cup flour
2 cups milk
1 cup shredded Cheddar cheese
salt, pepper to taste
2 tomatoes, peeled and thickly sliced extra shredded cheese
Cook beans until almost tender. Add celery and cabbage; cook for three minutes more or until celery is heated through but still crisp. Drain thoroughly. Melt butter in saucepan over low heat; blend in flour. Add milk, stirring constantly. Cook until sauce is smooth and well blended. Add cup of cheese, stir over low heat until cheese is melted. Season with salt and pepper to taste. Gently fold in cooked vegetables. Transfer mixture to buttered, tomato slices and sprinkle shallow baking dish top with additional cheese, then place under broiler heat to melt cheese and soften tomato. This may be baked in 400-degree oven for about 12 to 15 minutes, if preferred, but this combination should not overcook or stand since the tender crispness of the vegetables is part of its appeal. The recipe makes six generous servings.

Lima Bean-Bacon Squash
2 acorn squash melted butter
salt, pepper to taste
1 pkg. frozen lima beans
8 slices bacon
1 small chopped onion
1 cup sour cream
1 paprika
Cut acorn squash in halves; remove seeds and stringy portion. Brush with melted butter and place squash cut side down in baking pan. Bake at 350 degrees for 45 minutes. Remove from oven; brush again with butter and sprinkle with salt and pepper. Fill with Lima Bean Filling. To make the filling, cook lima beans according to package direc-

Brilliant Yellow Squash and bright red tomatoes become a colorful and decorative table treat as well as a delicious vegetable when stuffed with a scrumptious meat-rice combination. Minced onion and celery are used in the stuffing mixture.

While these are cooking, fry bacon until crisp; remove from skillet and drain when done. Sauté chopped onion in bacon fat. Add cooked, drained lima beans to sautéed onions. Mix in sour cream very slowly and heat mixture until warm. Do not boil. Add six slices of crisp bacon crumbled into small bits. Season to taste. Fill warm acorn squash with mixture. Garnish with remaining bacon, crumbled into bits. Sprinkle with paprika. Recipe makes four servings.

Stuffed Tomatoes and Squash
4 medium tomatoes
4 medium summer squash
2 tablespoons butter
1 small onion, minced
1/2 cup minced celery
1 1/2 pounds ground beef
1/2 cups cooked rice
1 teaspoon salt
1/2 teaspoon pepper
Wash tomatoes and remove slice from stem ends. Remove center pulp with teaspoon. Remove pulp from thick end of

Most of us are inclined to limit squash cookery to a simple dish of baked and buttered squash. Good as this may be, it's only a beginning to the excellent dishes that may be prepared. Here the familiar small acorn squash is filled with a delightful sour cream and lima beans mixture, then garnished with crisp bacon bits. It truly is an unusual and appetizing dish.

Baked Stuffed Tomatoes
6 large tomatoes
1 cup diced cooked ham
1/2 cup grated raw potato
1/2 cup sliced uncooked okra
1/4 cup fresh corn kernels
1/2 teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon chili powder
Dash pepper
Grated Cheddar cheese
Wash tomatoes and cut slice from top of each. Scoop out center. Mix tomato pulp with remaining ingredients, except slightly. Fill tomato shells and place in greased baking dish. Sprinkle grated cheese over tops of each stuffed tomato. Bake in four servings.

Our Children

Teach Child Courage to Stand by Principles

BY ANGELO PATRI

We are emphasizing "getting along with people" in our education of youth. Of course, getting along smoothly with people is a great asset to anybody. The person who goes through the world with a chip on his shoulder and an habitual "I'm right and you're wrong" attitude is asking for trouble and likely to find it.

Friends are essential to successful living so one sets out to make and keep them. The basis for real friendship is sincerity. To be sincere one does not have to jump down somebody's throat at a hint of a difference of opinion. One listens and if one has a different opinion, states it calmly. But one listens, and with an open mind, not just sitting on the edge of the chair trying to speak at any convenient pause, but turning one's mind to the idea that the other is explaining.

Stand by Principles
All right. One does not agree and says so mildly and drops the subject. If the difference of opinion is a basic one — religious, ethical, political — it may, indeed, be impossible to "go along." That's what I believe youth should be taught. Disregard surface things — they do not go deep enough to bother about. One smiles and says, "If you like it, good. It isn't exactly my cup of tea," and go on without ill feeling.

Allowing ill feeling to rise over a trifling matter is childish and should be forsaken along with childish things. But standing by a principle is another thing. One's faith in God, one's code of ethics, etc., are not ideas to be smothered in polite acquiescence. A quiet, firm statement of such principles is fundamental to one's character and to the only kind of "getting along" that matters.

Personalized Pattern

Anthony Blotta rises nobly to the challenge of creating fashion at its finest with proportions carefully planned to enhance long lines and imposing height. Designed to fit the tall figure with custom tailored perfection, this important little suit spans the seasons with ease—a tireless traveler, a suave shopper, a composed career-maker. The gently shaped, smoothly collared jacket levels off at the waistline. Its smart U-trim is cut of bias and most effective when the suit is made in checks or plaids. In front, a pair of inverted pleats open into the skirt, relaxing its slim lines. For fall we suggest lightweight suiting wools—flannel, tweed, jersey, worsteds, make it for resort wear in suiting-weight linen, cottons or silks. Our sizing is comparable to ready-to-wear. From these corresponding body measurements select the one size best for you.

ly led the jack of clubs, South hastily counted eight trump tricks by crossruff plus four top cards on the side.

South won the first trick with the ace of clubs, cashed the top diamonds and ruffed the three of clubs in dummy. Then he cashed the ace of hearts, ruffed a heart in his hand, and ruffed the six of clubs in dummy. He ruffed another heart, ruffed the eight of clubs in his hand.

At this stage South felt the first pang of fear. He had run out of clubs to ruff in dummy. He had the ace of trumps and two diamonds in his own hand, with one heart, one diamond and one trump left in dummy.

South led a diamond, for lack of anything else to do. West took the queen of diamonds and returned a trump. That was the end of South and his slam.

South should have seen that he couldn't ruff four clubs in the dummy for the simple reason that he didn't have four low clubs to ruff. The way to win eight trump tricks is to start the hearts first.

South wins the ace of clubs and the top diamonds, but then he must lead a heart to the dummy and ruff a heart before touching the clubs. He can then ruff his three clubs in dummy, using these entries to ruff a second, third and fourth heart in his hand.

At this stage South will have eleven tricks safely home, with the queen of spades still in the dummy to furnish a twelfth trick.

Women's Golf Tourney Nears Completion

CLINTONVILLE—The women's tournament at the Clintonville Riverside Golf Club has reached the final in most flights, and Mrs. Robert Moreland and Mrs. Lloyd Schelder are competing for the championship.

Playing in the final in the A flight will be Mrs. James Stuart and Mrs. Glenn Wilks; B flight, the winner of the Mrs. Rufus Breihan and Mrs. Arthur Laack match will play Mrs. James Driessen, and in the C flight, Mrs. William Melzer will play Mrs. Lloyd Eggleston.

Mrs. Howard Canada, chairman of the tournament, has requested that these matches be played by Labor Day.

The final dinner and awarding of trophies for the ladies will be Sept. 13 at the clubhouse.

Garden Club Plans Meeting

MANAWA—The Gracious Gardeners will meet at City Hall at 7 p.m. Tuesday.

Each member will bring a flower arrangement to be judged by Mrs. Myron Erickson, Iola, who will give suggestions on construction.

Members of the Town and Country Garden Club of Ogdensburg will be guests.

Set Up Routine

Many housekeepers like to do their breakfast dishes right after breakfast and then give the kitchen and dining room (or area) a quick cleanup so that when it's time to prepare lunch this space will be in order.

Rain Fails to Dampen Fun Of Seabury Club Picnic

Seabury Club of All Saints Episcopal Church had its annual outing Sunday evening. However, due to rain, the picnic scheduled for Alicia Park was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Jenkins, 1314 S. Alicia Drive.

A corn roast was the big event of the evening and even though it was wet outside, spirits inside were not dampened.

Mrs. Kenneth Ligare was chairman of the event.

Mrs. Kenneth Ligare, chairman, Gordon Smith, Minneapolis, Minn., Mrs. Ligare's father, and Mr. and Mrs. John Henderson make fast work of the corn on the cob at the Seabury Club picnic Sunday. At left, Mr. and Mrs. Leon Gabriel fill up their plates at the buffet table at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Jenkins, the setting for the picnic. Below, Frank Jenkins, the Rev. C. E. Wilke, pastor of All Saints' Episcopal Church, and Bob Ballou try their hand at roasting the ears of corn.

Today's Etiquette

WEDDING WEEPERS

I am twelve years old. I went to four weddings in the last two months. I would like to know why parents and other people cry at these weddings. I don't understand because I always thought that weddings are supposed to be happy. I asked my mother and she said she doesn't know why they cry. Father was no help either.

Davis

Louise Davis Answers:

Although you are only twelve, I'll try to explain. When two people get married as your mother and father did, they may get a little baby girl like you were. It is really true that "There is no love like a mother's love" and that goes for fathers too. They usually spend every day, every week, every year giving their profound love and care to prepare for their little ones for their future emotion. Many parents become apprehensive. They have experienced the sadnesses and joys of living and they pray that their young daughter and the young husband will have the maturity, wisdom and fortitude to surmount sorrow, pain and adversity which go along hand in hand with love, devotion and happiness.

Leftover Uses

Add small portions of cooked vegetables to a leftover portion of cooked meat (diced) or fish (flaked); mix with mayonnaise and season to taste. Use the mixture as a sandwich filling, or a salad, for lunch.

Golf Club Sets Labor Day Fete

CLINTONVILLE — A family day brunch will be held Labor Day from 11 a.m. to 2 p.m. at the Clintonville Riverside golf clubhouse.

Co-chairmen are Mr. and Mrs. Woodrow Smith and Mr. and Mrs. Pat O'Connell.

Beauty Loses USA Title, Also Ring, Money, Spirit

NEW YORK (AP) — Pretty Sharon Wiley, 21, of Hammond, Ore., arrived here last Wednesday full of enthusiasm about representing her home state in the Miss U.S.A. part of the Miss World contest.

Since then, she has:
1. Lost a diamond ring.
2. Lost several pieces of luggage.
3. Lost $100.
4. Lost sleep.
5. Lost the Miss U.S.A. title to Jo Ann Odum.

Has she lost her enthusiasm for beauty contests? Yes.

Last Enthusiasm
"If I ever have a daughter, and she wants to enter a beauty contest, I'll tan her good," said Miss Oregon.

Sharon's story begins at 6:45 a.m. Wednesday when she arrived in New York after a sleepless flight from Oregon. She went to the hotel that served as Miss World headquarters.

"As soon as I arrived we had to get ready to go to an amusement park and pose in our bathing suits for photographers. It was raining Wednesday, but that didn't stop anything. We just passed in the rain.

"After getting back to the hotel, we had about 20 minutes to get ready for a cocktail party where we were supposed to meet our judges. We finally got to sleep after midnight.

Full Schedule
"We had a full schedule Thursday and Friday, including an appearance at a bowling alley.

"On Saturday, when the competition started, I realized that several pieces of my luggage were missing. I had to borrow an evening gown to use in the competition. It was two sizes too big, and I had it all pinned up.

"I was afraid to breathe. I kept thinking the dress would fall off onstage."

Sharon's diamond ring disappeared while all this was going on — along with $100 from her purse that represented her fare back to Oregon.

Looking for Work
Sharon, who stands 5 feet 7 and measures 36-23-36, is trying to get some modeling work in New York so she can raise the fare back to Hammond. "I'd hate to have to send home for the money," she said.

The hazel-eyed beauty had outbursts of praise for the Huntington, W.Va., girl who won the contest and will represent this country in the Miss World competition in London.

"I'm really glad for her," she said. "Jo Ann is a lovely girl."

"Boy," Sharon added, "I'm glad I didn't win. I wouldn't want to go through that again for anything."

Baked Italian LaSagna

HERE IS THE RECIPE:

PREPARE SAUCE by browning in saucepan 1 small diced onion and 1 clove of garlic in ¼ cup of olive oil. Add 1 No. 2½ can Tomatoes; 1 tablespoon chopped parsley; 3 basil leaves; Salt & Pepper to taste; 1 can Tomato Paste and simmer for 15 minutes.

PREPARE MEATBALLS by Mixing thoroughly. ½ lb. chopped round steak, ¼ cup bread crumbs, ¼ cup milk, 1 beaten egg; 3 tablespoons Grated Cheese; 2 tablespoons chopped parsley; Salt & Pepper to taste. Shape meatballs. Brown in olive oil; add meatballs to sauce. Simmer 30 minutes.

While sauce is simmering, boil 6 quarts of water. Add 3 tablespoons of salt. When boiling rapidly, slowly add Ribbed Lasagna. Cook for 10 minutes. Drain well.

Arrange casserole with several spoonfuls of sauce on bottom, layer of Lasagna, several slices of mozzarella; 4 or 5 tablespoons ricotta; sprinkle with Grated Cheese and spread about ¼ of the sauce and meatballs. Repeat, ending with a layer of Lasagna and sauce. Bake 20 minutes in moderate oven (350°F.). Serves 6.

Your Problems

Parents Disturbed at Foolish Actions of Son's Pregnant Wife

BY ANN LANDERS
DEAR ANN LANDERS: Our 23-year-old son ran off and married a girl who is 19. She acts like a 13-year-old and we want to know what to do about it.
Two months after the elopement we learned that she was five months pregnant. She refuses to wear a maternity dress "because they are ugly." Instead, she prefers shorts and blouses which she is bursting out of. Last Sunday they came for dinner at eight in the evening (three hours late) and she eating a cone of cotton candy. She announced that she had so much fun at the amusement park, riding the loop-the-loop, roller-coaster and bump-the-auto. (She's now in her sixth month).
Our son thinks she is perfect. Is there anything we can do?
—O AND L.
Dear O and L.: Since your son "thinks she is perfect" your advice would be to welcome and welcome.

Phone your daughter-in-law's doctor and ask him to please tell her that a pregnant woman should not be taking in the rides in an amusement park. And, incidentally, your son must be a moron to have allowed her to do it.
DEAR ANN LANDERS: I am the mother of four young children and the wife of a very handsome man. All through our married life I've had the problem of women friends using me to get next to my husband.
I've always been able to handle the situation until recently. Now I am ashamed to say, the problem is a 15-year-old neighbor girl. She spends a lot of time in our home "visiting."
At first I thought she was just a kid but when I saw her squeeze through the doorway to get past my husband, and then "accidentally" stumble into his arms, I decided I was being naive.
I told my husband I was going to have a talk with the girl and give her orders to stay away from our home. He says I would make a fool of myself. I have agreed to follow your advice.
—Red
Dear Red: If you want to give this little snip the greatest compliment of her life, just let her know you consider her a threat to your marriage.
Your husband should not respond to this little tart's brashness. He should tell her in a "fatherly" fashion to behave like a young lady.
DEAR ANN LANDERS: Please print this. I know I am not alone. I'm a widow in my early 40's. During the day I keep myself busy but the nights are awful. I have many married friends who invite me out but I feel like excess baggage.
I have the nagging fear that they ask me because they feel sorry for me and I can't bear it. How does a respectable woman who is nice to look at, well-dressed, has money but hates to travel alone, meet men who are in the same predicament? I need male companionship. — Mrs. Lonesome
Dear Mrs. Lonesome: You must be a new reader. I've said it dozens of times but I'll say it again for you. If you want to catch trout don't fish in the bath tub.
Join study groups, an adult education class, become active in volunteer work, or the political party of your choice. Involve yourself in civic projects. Work part time and become a part of the business world. In other words — go where the trout are, and good luck to you.

Are you going steady? Making marriage plans? If so, send for Ann Landers' booklet, "Before You Marry — Is It Love Or Sex?" enclosing with your request 30 cents in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope. (Copyright 1961)

Removing Stains on Bricks
BY ROGER C. WHITMAN
COPPER STAINS ON BRICK
Q: I installed new copper screens on the windows at the beginning of the season. I let them weather for a while and then applied a coat of varnish for protection against further staining of the bricks under the windows. How can I remove the dark stains that were made on the bricks?
A: The following treatment should remove the copper stains from the brick: make a paste of 1 part sal ammoniac and 4 parts of powdered whitening or other absorbent powder, moistened with household ammonia. Cover the stains with a thick layer of the paste. When dry brush off and replace with fresh paste until the stains have disappeared.
Special brick cleaning preparations are available at dealers in masonry supplies and at hardware stores; follow manufacturer's instructions carefully.
REPLACING PAPER BACK
Q: The paper across the back of an old framed print is brittle and torn. Is there any special technique to replace the paper back?
A: Completely remove the present paper back. Then cut a piece of heavy brown wrapping paper, slightly larger than the frame, and moisten with water until limp. Blot off any surplus water. Apply a liquid glue to the back of the picture frame and lay the paper smoothly across. In drying, the paper will shrink and become very tight-fitting. Trim off excess paper with a razor blade.
LIMESTONE POWDERING
Q: We have limestone window sills in our brick house. For cleaning the sills, we use a wire brush and detergent. After cleaning, the limestone sheds powder. Is there any way to prevent this?
A: Recommend cleaning with one of the cleaning preparations for stone and masonry surfaces, now available masonry supplies and some large hardware dealers, following label directions carefully. Or apply a transparent, liquid cement hardening preparation, available at masonry supplies stores.
Or the following treatment will help prevent powdering: brush the sill surface with paraffin dissolved in benzene or clear gasoline, using one pound to the gallon. Apply when the stone is dry and the outside temperature is at least 70 degrees.
BLISTERED VENEER
Q: The veneer on top of a flat desk has blistered at one point. How can this raised area be brought down to the level of the rest of the desk top without damaging the rest of the veneer?
A: Using a razor blade, or sharp knife, slice across the center of the blister. Then, with a spatula or long, thin screw driver, work waterproof glue or cement through this slot onto the underside of the veneer. When this is as well covered as possible, press the veneer down into position and weight it in

Cool Tricks for Hot Weather
Here's a novel twist on how to keep cool on dog days. Every time you wash your hands, rinse the soap suds off with warm water, as usual. Then let cold water run over your wrists, where blood vessels are close to the surface.
That will make you feel cooler and more relaxed all over. Another heat-relief trick is to apply cold water to your forehead after washing your face.

First Lady to Restore, Not Redecorate White House

WASHINGTON (AP)—Mrs. John F. Kennedy says she doesn't plan to fill the White House with French furniture, or hang modern pictures all over it.

The first lady also said she wanted to "put to rest the fears of people who think we might restore the building to its earliest period, leaving out all that came after."

"The White House belongs to our past and no one who cares about our past would treat it that way," Mrs. Kennedy was quoted by Life magazine this week.

Mrs. Kennedy, the magazine said, added, "Every boy who comes here should see things that develop his sense of history. For the girl, the house should look beautiful and lived-in."

Her first task, she said, was to prove every corner of the 54-room mansion. She found many treasures of former presidents. She said:

Known Every Corner

"I had a backache every day for three months. But now I know every corner of the White House. I poked into them all. It was exciting, a new mystery story every day."

During her prowling, Mrs. Kennedy discovered:

A desk presented to President Hayes by Queen Victoria—being used to hold equipment in the broadcast room but now in the president's office; a tier table purchased by President Monroe; baid-up rugs specially woven for Theodore Roosevelt; gold and silver flatware ordered by Monroe from France in 1817, and a set of lavender-bordered Lincoln plates which, though slightly chipped, are now being used at White House dinners."

Toured As a Child

She told the magazine she wants to give the historic building the same pure beauty and traditionalism inside as it now has outside.

Mrs. Kennedy said she first toured the White House at the age of 11.

"From the outside," she recalled, "I remember the feeling of the place. But inside, all I remember is shuffling through. There wasn't even a booklet you could buy."

Now, the first lady is in the process of providing White House visitors with that booklet. She has the help of some of the nation's leading scholars on American furnishings, along with experts from the Smithsonian Institute.

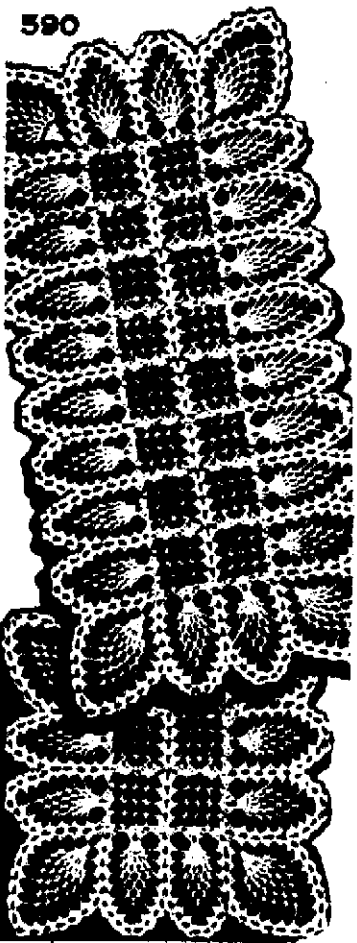

Wants to Restore

"Everything in the White House must have a reason for being there," Mrs. Kennedy said. "It would be sacrilege merely to 'redecorate' it—a word I hate. It must be restored—and that has nothing to do with decoration. That is a question of scholarship."

Her feeling about the White House, the magazine said, is characterized by a sense of urgency. "Like any president's wife, I'm here for only a brief time," she was quoted as saying, "and before everything slips away, before every link with the past is gone, I want to do this."

"I want to find all the people who are still here who know about the White House, were intimate with it—the nephews, the sons, the great-grandchildren, the people who are still living and remember things about the White House."

Here's a Nutritional Hint for picnics, especially for those in the late days of summer. Serve a hot soup with the usual picnic fare of sandwiches and potato salad. It can be carried in thermos bottles and served in paper cups to make a welcome addition to any picnic menu. It's a quick way to provide the hot portion of the meal.

Planning Group to Study Rezoning for Funeral Home Site

KAUKAUNA — The planning commission is studying the request of Mrs. Elizabeth Boucher to have property located at Wisconsin Avenue and Depot Street rezoned from residential to local shopping district.

The petition has been filed as negotiations are underway for the sale of an apartment house located on the property. The building would be torn down and replaced by a funeral home. Fargo Funeral Home is seeking the new site. The planning commission will make recommendations on the request and refer the matter to the common council.

Foreign Exchange Student Returns

KAUKAUNA — Julie West, a senior at Kaukauna High School, returned from a jet plane for the flight to Milwaukee where she was met by her father and daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Paul West, 730 Grignon St., replaced by a funeral home.

Don McNeill to Emcee Miss America Show

Channel 2 to Carry 41st Annual Contest Direct From Atlantic City

BY JINGO
A week from Saturday the most beautiful girl in America will be crowned at the 41st annual Miss America contest at Atlantic City and viewers of Channel 2 will be able to share vicariously in all of the excitement.

A Wisconsin boy will be on hand to lead the television viewers about the highlights of the historic pageant. He's Don McNeill, who usually does his host role on the popular show he originated for radio many years ago, "The Breakfast Club." After all of the parading and performing has been completed, the momentous decision will rest on the shoulders of 11 judges and the pageant directors have picked some big names for the job. Heading the list are Joan Crawford, one of the great all-around stars, and Blanche Thebom, the Metropolitan Opera Mezzo-soprano who lists a bearded lady in her repertoire of roles.

Other judges include June Taylor, who popularized TV ballet; David Merrick, a top Broadway producer represented currently by "Carnival;" Ted Mack of amateur hour fame; Bernice Wayne, the composer of the "Miss America" song; Morgan J. Doughion, past U.S. Jaycee president, and Kurt F. G. Jafay, a Denver photographer.

Rounding out the 11 are Edward Boehm, the sculptor; Dr. Theodore Distler, executive director of the American Association of Colleges, and Harlan A. Miller, who writes the humorous "There's a Man in the House" column for one of the slick magazines for women.

Channel 11's "Wide World of Sports" will wind up the summer season with a splash this Saturday with two hours of the World Water Ski Championships from Long Beach, Calif.

Members and friends of Attic Theater have started a campaign to change Mrs. John Maring's mind. She has announced the Reno Sweeney role in "Anything Goes" will be her debut and swan song and as far as the stage is concerned, see if you don't agree.

Housewives Will Learn About Hot Dogs
CHICAGO (AP) — American sausage makers have called in a famous European chef to help educate housewives on how to serve the hot dog gourmet style. Herr Otto Schuetz, a native of Stuttgart and president of a German master chefs association, herbs and pepper.

toured the U.S.A. during July, the official national hot dog month. Among the Continental twists in hot dog recipes Schuetz demonstrated was his Strasburg Salad. It employs the everyday frankfurter dressed up with white cabbage, carrots, onions, cheese strips, vinegar, oil, mustard, fine

Warren Beatty may be the star of three movies, but he's still unknown because none of the films have been released for showing yet. He's 24 and the brother of actress Shirley MacLaine. His starring pictures have been played opposite Vivien Leigh, Natalie Wood and Eva Marie Saint.

Green Suit Party

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (AP) — Tailor Bob Ryan had some olive green suiting material that he liked very much. He recommended it highly, and at least five prominent industrialists had suits made from it.
They later discovered that they had identical suits, and decided to hold a party at which they would all wear them. Ryan was invited, but he had the last laugh.

Story of Refugee Same At Any Time, Any Place

Flow of Persons Searching for Freedom
Biggest Exodus Since Moses, Israelites

BY JAMES F. KING
AP Staff Writer

The refugee is the man who flees his homeland — sometimes backed by hope but more often driven by fear — and can't go back again.

Since World War II more than 40 million persons have become refugees in the greatest exodus since Moses led the children of Israel to the promised land.

And the human tide rolls on. The communist barricades around Berlin . . . the Iron Curtain encompassing the Soviet Union and her East European satellites . . . the gabled wall of Red China.

Live on Hope, Charity

These barriers have checked the outward flow of those seeking freedom under democracy; yet they have failed to completely crush the will of hundreds to risk death daily to try escape.

Religious and racial squabbles have swelled the ranks of refugees since the war. But generally the plight of the unfortunate crosses creed and color bars.

Most of the refugees have found sanctuary. But millions are still living under pitiful conditions.

keeping alive as much on hope as from charity.

The dramatic flight of more than three million East Germans is unique in that they joined fellow countrymen in their own country and with the almost certainty of finding a job in a prosperous West Germany.

For millions of others uprooted from their homes the outlook and prospects have been — and still are — filled with uncertainty in a strange land.

Pawns of War

Some are still pawns of war—like the million Arab refugees who are wards of the United Nations Relief Agency. For a decade they have huddled in camps in the Arab lands encircling Israel as virtual hostages. The Jews and Arabs are still technically at war, leaving resettlement of the Palestine refugees in the air.

The biggest and bloodiest migration since the war came ironically with the granting of freedom when British India was partitioned in 1947.

About nine million Hindus moved from Pakistan to India and more than eight million Moslems shifted from India to Pakistan amid violence that took several hundred thousand lives.

Communism Trigger

Communism has been the trigger for the mass flights of refugees in recent years in other areas as well as Germany.

More than 1.5 million Chinese have poured into Hong Kong since the Communist conquest of the China mainland a dozen years ago. Most rushed to the British Colony before a Red clampdown in 1951. About 100 still sneak in daily—some escaping by swimming the Sham Chun river, others hiding in cargo junks.

For thousands their only home on arrival is the street: their bed, the sidewalk. Smuggling of refugees is abundant. The price for escape in the "Snake Express"—packed like a snake for the voyage on a junk—is $25 to $30.

Fewer Escape

The Red Chinese have extended their border sentries to include Tibet since Lhasa uprising in March, 1959. Upwards of 75,000 Tibetans have fled to India and Nepal but the number making their getaway has slumped from a total of 5,284 in the first seven months of 1959 to only 2,000 in the same period this year.

Some of the shifts in population have moved more smoothly. Several Polish and Romanian mass crossings over to South Vietnam have had to the West in Nam without much interference. The Communists cut the Hungarians made their get-away country in half.

Dramatic Stories

Most of the 200,000 Hungarians who fled in the 1956 revolution have been assimilated around the world. A few thousand stateless persons remain in Western Europe DP camps but most have been taken care of. The Rev. Dominique Georges Pire, a Nobel Peace Prize in 1958 for establishing whole villages of refugee families, who live in their own houses and are now paying their own way.

The escapes from European dregs have made their getaways satellite countries have been iso-

few years ago 38 Czechs, with the connivance of the locomotive engineer, hijacked a train and rode to safety in West Germany. Several Polish and Romanian mass crossings over to South Vietnam have had to the West in Nam without much interference. The Communists cut the Hungarians made their get-away country in half.

The United States has been the chief haven for European refugees, opening the door to nearly a half million since 1947. But since Fidel Castro seized power in Cuba nearly three years ago, it has provided a sanctuary mainly for Cubans.

Cubans are rushing into Miami at the rate of more than 1,000 a week and up to 100,000 have left the Caribbean island republic since 1959. The Castro regime has given clearance to most but surreptitiously rather than wait

Agriculture Head Endorses Milk Measure

Action Too Late For Consideration During Congress

WASHINGTON — Secretary of Agriculture Orville L. Freeman's endorsement Wednesday of the National Milk Sanitation Act now pending before the House Interstate and Foreign Commerce Committee comes too late for any action to be taken on the measure during this session of the Congress.

An informal poll of committee members shows that most members have reached this conclusion. Committee Chairman Orren Harris, D., Ark., said he "did not know" when he could find time to call further hearings on the bill. Hearings have been requested by the assistant commissioner of agriculture from New York and several members of New York's congressional delegation, all of whom would appear against any legislation allowing the free flow of milk in interstate commerce.

At Tuesday morning's hearings, Secretary Freeman left no doubt that he approved a measure before the Committee sponsored by the entire Wisconsin House delegation.

Rep. Vernon W. Thomson, R., Richland Center, asked Freeman why he objected to a bill on national sanitation standards now pending before the House Agriculture Committee. Freeman said that the "goal" of the free interstate milk flow would be more effectively reached if the national sanitation requirements were administered under the Public Health Service, rather than under Agriculture, as in the bill before the Agriculture Committee.

Horned toads and lizards apparently aren't as rare in the Fox Cities as they're supposed to be. A lizard was reported in Kimberly early this week and Mike McGuire, 13, 738 W. Packard St., who saw the Post-Crescent story, called to report he has a toad, which he found in a neighbor's yard. He is keeping it in his aquarium. The animals normally are found in the southwest, and may have been brought here by tourists.

Assemblyman Seeking Chairmanship of Wisconsin Democrats

MADISON (AP) — Assemblyman Frank Nikolay of Abbotsford today declared himself a candidate for state chairman of Wisconsin's Democratic party and said he expects the support of Gov. Gaylord Nelson.

"I think it's fairly obvious I wouldn't be in the race if he (Nelson) weren't for me," Nikolay told a news conference.

Patrick J. Lucey, a Madison realtor, already has announced himself a candidate for a third term as Democratic chairman. The party will pick new officers in a state convention in Eau Claire, Oct. 13-15.

Nikolay, 38, and a practicing attorney, said his primary reason for seeking the chairmanship was a conviction that "We Democrats must place our emphasis on state issues if our party is to continue winning the top state offices in traditionally Republican Wisconsin."

"Our failure to do this played a significant role in our 1960 loss of the lieutenant governor, state treasurer and majority control of the Assembly," Nikolay said.

New Teachers in Appleton elementary schools were welcomed to the city at a pre-orientation meeting Tuesday. From left, Miss Beverly Ford, Edison School; Russell Truettner, Huntley School, and Miss Eileen Schneider, Edison, get name tags from Mrs. Bernice Ahlswede, Lincoln School principal, and Mrs. Teresa Novokofski, Jackson principal at the opening session. Appleton Parent-Teachers Association Council gave a luncheon for the new elementary teachers at Huntley School Tuesday noon. The orientation for all city public school teachers began this morning.

Donald Bohm, 19, route 1, Bonduel, was fined $100 for drunken driving, $10 for ignoring a stop sign, $20 for ignoring the signal of a policeman and sentenced to 60 days in jail under the Huber law for speeding 100 miles an hour at night at Shawano.

John Charles Alloway, 21, Cecil, was fined $50 for drunken driving. He was arrested by Shawano County police after the car he was driving went through a fence and overturned in a field east of Pulcifer Sunday. Damages to the car totaled $300.

Club Views Film
CLINTONVILLE — A film on Alaska, its wilderness, fishing and hunting, was shown by Roman Ritchie at a meeting of the Lions Club Tuesday evening at the Long Lake club house. Ritchie is station manager for North Central Airlines at Clintonville Municipal Airport. Lyle Harrison was program chairman.

David, 10, and Thomas, 6, sons of Mr. and Mrs. Wesley Sachs, route 1, Seymour, were following the cows home when the vehicle blazed in the boys' faces, Mrs. Sachs said.
The boys ran screaming to their parents, who took them to a doctor and then to St. Vincent Hospital, Green Bay, where they will remain for several days. The burns were most serious on the boys' legs and ankles, their mother said. The boys' hair and eyelashes were singed and their plastic-framed glasses were stuck to their heads.

2 Farm Boys Suffer Burns

Tractor Blazes in Faces of Seymour Pair Following Cows

SEYMOUR — Two farm boys were hospitalized after the tractor they were driving caught fire Tuesday afternoon.

David, 10, and Thomas, 6, sons of Mr. and Mrs. Wesley Sachs, route 1, Seymour, were following the cows home when the vehicle blazed in the boys' faces, Mrs. Sachs said.

The boys ran screaming to their parents, who took them to a doctor and then to St. Vincent Hospital, Green Bay, where they will remain for several days. Generally Fair weather is forecast east of the Mississippi River tonight except for scattered showers in sections of the upper and central Mississippi valley and in southern Florida. Showers will be scattered in the northern Rockies and along the Pacific coast from Washington to northern California. It will be cooler in the Dakotas and the upper Mississippi valley.

Collection of Irons Valued at $2,500

POMPTON LAKES, N.J. (AP) — George J. Moss knows where to go if he wants his pants pressed.

He has more than 200 antique flatirons in his home, some dating back nearly 200 years. Moss estimates his irons are worth about $2,500 cash. But, he adds, they are also of value as conversation pieces.

ing short pants and no socks. Their clothes did not catch fire, Mrs. Sachs said.
The boys told their parents gasoline had been dripping from the tractor.

Man Injures Face In Waupaca County Auto Accident

WAUPACA — Frank L. Janmush, 50, route 1, Marion, received face injuries, including cuts about the eyes, about 1:30 a.m. Friday when his car left a town road about five miles south of Marion, county police said.

The car went in a ditch, hit a large rock and broke off a power pole.

Richard M. Cenkonich, 16, Hales Corners, drove his car into a ditch and tipped over about 9:30 p.m. Saturday on a town road, south of Royallton. He was going north.

Yalta Palace Beginning of World Crisis

For FDR During WW II Conference

BY GEORGE WELLES
YALTA, U.S.S.R.—Here, in this white palace overlooking this blue sea, began the hard road to Berlin that President John F. Kennedy faces in 1961.

Here in 1945 an ailing Franklin
D. Roosevelt, only two months from his fatal stroke, attempted to out-trade a vigorous Joseph Stalin on his own territory.
So weak was Roosevelt that he was housed in the same Czarist villa, the 60-room Levadia palace, where he negotiated. Britain's Winston Churchill and Stalin lived miles away.

New Hospital
Today the palace is being used by nervous and cardiac patients.
They take their meals in the oak-paneled suite with brass-rimmed fireplaces where Roosevelt had his headquarters.

The Levadia palace, built by the doomed Czar Nicholas in 1912 when the monk Rasputin was taking over his family and his government, is too remote to attract visitors. The Soviet summer tourists rarely desert their narrow, stony beaches to climb several hundred feet to the commonplace marble sanatorium, though it's an enchanting site.

The Soviets, who emphasize strongly their military victories, play down this defeat of American diplomacy.

Like Roosevelt
"We like Roosevelt, but we dislike Churchill because he was anti-Soviet," a guide explains.
Hence Yalta's port has a short "Roosevelt Street," but nothing in memory of the unyielding Churchill.

Facing the seaport is a huge statue of Stalin in Napoleonic pose.

white rolls off the figures of what goes on now at Levadia palace:
more than 1,000 patients, a staff of about 550, about 90 doctors, mostly women, 70 per cent of each bill paid by the patient's labor union.

Rooms of Czar
Upstairs are the oak-paneled bedrooms of the Czar and the Czarina, with their pathetic secret doors. Their windows, and those of their daughters and son Alexis, overlooked the twinkling blue sea.

The lives of all of them ended
before a Communist executioner in 1918, when Lenin's revolution was six months old, at Ekaterin-burg.
Ekaterinburg is closed to tourists.

Tree Becomes Living Indian Totem Pole

CLEVELAND (AP)—A firmly rooted totem pole stands on the front lawn of George Roether's home.

The colorfully painted pole is carved from the trunk of a live maple tree. The tree's roots threatened Roether's sewer lines, so he topped it piece by piece.
But rather than chop the tree down entirely, he stopped sawing at the height he wanted for the totem pole.

After the trunk was peeled,
Roether found a metal-cutting cold chisel was needed to carve out his creation. The wood was too full of sap to yield to conventional wood chisels.

British Submarines Not in Soviet Waters, Foreign Office Says

LONDON (AP) — The British
Foreign Office said that no British submarines have entered the Soviet Union's territorial waters.

A spokesman said Britain never has recognized the Soviet claim of 12 miles of territorial waters.
"but without prejudice to that position, we have respected and continue to respect for matters of convenience the views of other states in this question of submarines."

Convenient Availability Governs Off-Street Lots Use

Low Rates Won't Draw Shoppers To Poorly Located Parking Areas

BY KEINY WELSHING
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

"The location of a parking facility is just as important as the number of stalls it will make available to the buying public," Robert Cline, a La Crosse jeweler says.

He is not the only one who thinks that way. During this reporter's 1,000-mile tour to nine cities in five states to studying parking facilities, other businessmen and city officials expressed similar opinions.

Sheboygan's Mayor Emil Munn and Frederick Steinhous, president of the parking commission, said they wish that the previous administration and council would have selected a different site for the city's new 116-stall ramp.

"People just won't use it except as a last resort," they say.

Unused Lots

Although the problems of La Crosse and Sheboygan are different, both are suffering from poorly located parking facilities.

La Crosse has an abundance of off-street parking stalls, about 400, at the north end of the business district. But some of them are more than a block outside of the core area. Even the penny an hour rate won't attract shoppers.

In the past, some of the stalls were used by workers at Northern Engraving Co., right across the street. But that company is moving its entire operation to Sparta.

"Parking lots and ramps around the fringe of the central business district don't work," Cline says. "They must be close to the heart of the business district."

Business men say that fringe parking facilities are used mostly by persons who work downtown and want to park all day. But even such persons fail to make full use of the lots unless the rates are very cheap.

Sheboygan's ramp, built in 1960 for $190,000, had two strikes against it from the very start.

1. The site was chosen because of the topography, not because it was believed best for shopper usage. Cars drive onto the top level from Ninth Street, and the lower level from Wisconsin Avenue.

2. The sides of the streets that border the ramp's corner site are not metered. Shoppers can park free on the streets.

Small Receipts

The ramp opened Nov. 21, 1960, and revenue is running from $23 to $45 a week. Total receipts from opening day to June 28, 1961, were $1,337. It has been pointed out that monthly receipts are just about paying the light bill.

No feasibility study was made before the ramp was built, to try to determine possible usage and revenue. It is about a block from the main business street. There was no parking lot on the site before the ramp was built.

Engineers and architects say that a ramp should not be built without a feasibility study, and whenever possible on a site that is a well established and well used parking lot.

Shoppers have to be conditioned, and become accustomed to parking at a certain location. Putting a ramp on a strange site is usually a bad mistake, the engineers and architects say. There are always exceptions, they are quick to admit.

Using the experts' yard stick, the ramp proposed for Appleton should not suffer the fate of the Sheboygan ramp.

Appleton's Board of Public Works has approved hiring W. T. Collins, Milwaukee, to design a ramp on the two lots bounded by Washington, Franklin and Madison streets.

A six-week survey by Traffic L.A. John V. Gosch showed that these two lots are nearly the most heavily used lots in the city. Both of them are used from 95 to 98 per cent of capacity at all times.

The only lot with a higher percentage is the one on the southeast corner of Washington and Division streets, at 99 per cent of capacity. It would be more costly to build a ramp on this lot, although Mayor Mitchell has proposed one there in the future.

It would be built across Division Street at the second level and join a similar structure on the lot at the southwest corner of Washington and Division streets, which is used from 79 to 87 per cent of capacity at all times.

These lots are on filled ground and deep pilings would have to be sunk to support such structures.

According to L.A. Gosch's survey the least used of Appleton's nine parking lots is the one bounded by Lawrence, Allan and Kimball streets, used from 48 to 54 per cent of capacity.

Shoppers Can Park for a penny an hour in this La Crosse off-street lot, but they don't use it. The reason — this lot, and another penny lot adjacent to it, are three and four blocks from the heart of the central business district. This picture was taken about 3 p.m. on a Thursday afternoon.

Shells Can be Used for Making Vacation Souvenirs

BY CAPPY DICK

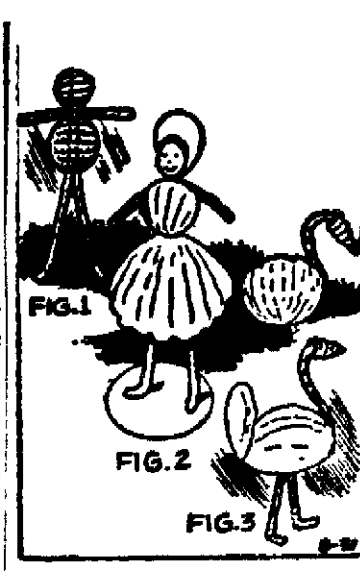

If you collected some shells during your summer vacation you can use them to make a novel souvenir with the aid of glue and pipe cleaners. Today's fun-project directions provide ideas to try.

A small dancer like that in figure 2 can be made of six flat, fan-shaped shells. First make the pipe cleaner frame (figure 1). Twist two pipe cleaners together to make one long one. Bend this in the middle to form the dancer's legs and the foundation for her head and body. Twist the cleaner together to re-inforce the body another cleaner through to form the arms as in figure 1.

Wrap yarn around the doll's body to form a ball over which two small shells may be fitted, one for the front of the doll and the other for the back. Also wrap yarn around the doll's head and fit a small, flat shell against the front for a face and a curved shell at the back for a poke bonnet. In each case, glue the shells to the yarn.

Use two fan-shaped shells for the dancer's skirt, one in front and the other in back. Glue them to the pipe-cleaner legs. The final

GOP Terms Tax Veto 'Outrage'

Blanchard Says Citizens to Hold Nelson Responsible

MADISON (AP) — Republican Legislators were quick today to label Gov. Nelson's veto of a GOP tax revision bill "an outrage."

"The governor nullifies the most constructive, nonpartisan and significant work that has been done on tax revision in 50 years," said Assembly Speaker David Blanchard of Edgerton.

"The people of Wisconsin... will hold him responsible in the next election."

Assemblyman J. Curtis McKay of Mequon called the Democratic chief executive's action "outrageous."

"The laboring man will now pay for this piece of political bigotry in state areas where business and industry decide to move out," Morton said.

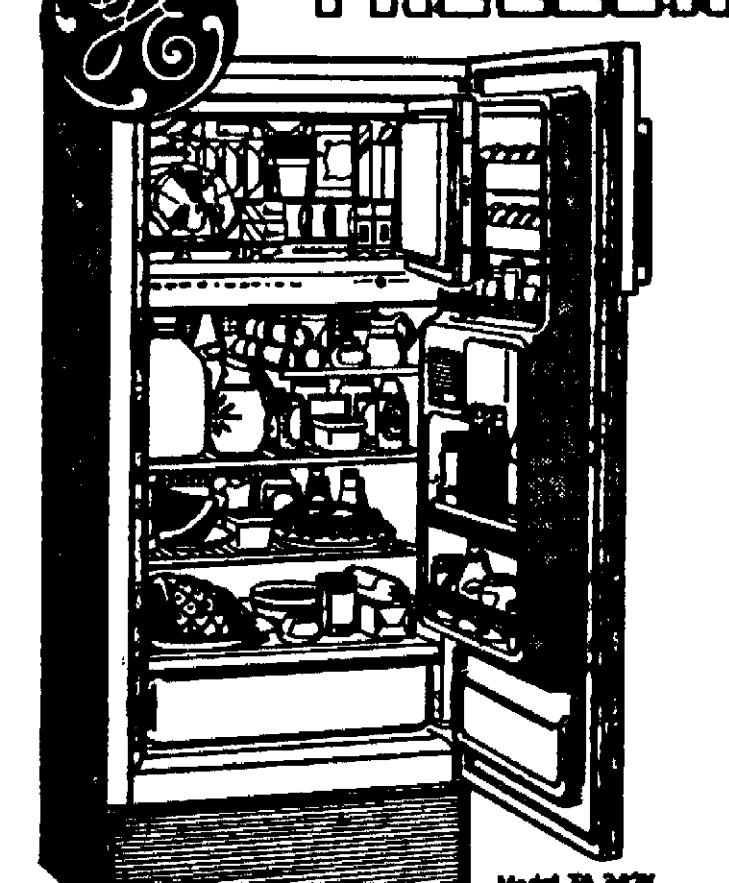

"As an alleged reason, the governor has offered the same threadbare and erroneous arguments prepared by John Gronowski, Nelson's tax commissioner, and Howard Koop, Nelson's financial secretary, who would have us believe it is possible to increase spending and decrease taxes, both at the same time," McKay said.

Assemblyman Glen Pommerening of Wauwatosa said the governor showed "a startling lack of courage and demonstrated the lack of leadership with which the Legislature has had to contend during the entire session."

Horse in Comeback In Wilds of New York

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The horse has made another comeback. A New York garage is no place to keep a lion. Red Kado, was left in a midtown New York garage owned by its trainer, Richard E. Flynn of St. Louis. An attendant at the garage, Herbert Cordero, was fined $80 in court, although he said he had been led to believe the lion was an overgrown dog. The animal was deemed an "animal of vicious propensities" under the Public Health Law. The garage owner paid the fine.

Flynn, who says the animal is not dangerous, has to appear in court to answer charges of leaving his lion cub lounging in his hide out in wooded areas, and be available for possible disaster duty.

Lesson in English

BY W. L. GORDON

Words Often Missed: Distinguish between AWARE and CONSCIOUS. We are AWARE of what goes on about us, and we are CONSCIOUS of what we perceive or feel within ourselves. One may be CONSCIOUS of fear, but not altogether AWARE of the dangers about one.

Often Mispronounced: Onerous. Pronounce own-er-us, accent on first syllable.

Often Misspelled: Fineness (quality of being fine). Finesse (delicate skill).

Synonyms: Insignificant, immaterial, inferior, irrelevant, little, meaningless, small, trivial, trifling, unimportant, paltry, nugatory.

Word Study: "Use a word three times and it is yours." Let us increase our vocabulary by mastering on word each day.

Today's word: de trope; too much or too many; superfluous. (Pronounce des-troh, accent second syllable). "I felt decidedly de trope."

Braves Clash With Los Angeles After Losing to Giants Hendley Will Pitch Tonight; Willey Drops 2-1 Decision

MILWAUKEE (AP)—Although refusing to concede a thing in the National League pennant chase, the Milwaukee Braves are finding it tough to hold on to third place for more than 24 hours. The Braves, who slipped past San Francisco Tuesday night, were knocked back into fourth place again Wednesday in a 2-1 loss to the Giants before a crowd of 17,360, including 3,283 Ladies Day guests. It marked the second time this month Milwaukee failed to hold third. The Braves spent a day in that position Aug. 5 and have been battling ever since to overtake the Giants for good. The loss dropped the Braves a half game behind San Francisco. Milwaukee trails league-leading Cincinnati by seven games. Takes Ninth Loss Carl Willey, a hard-luck member of the Braves' pitching corps, hurled one of his finest games of the season — and wound up with his ninth defeat as compared with five victories. Once again, his teammates failed to get the 30-year-old right-hander any runs. After being retired in order for three innings, the Giants scored twice in the fourth. Joe Amalfitano led off with a bloop double to short left and came around on Willie McCovey's triple off the right field wall. McCovey then raced home on Willie May's grounder to short.

Always a Winner Conerly was always a winner under Lombardi and the veteran's lone world championship came in 1956—Vince's third year in New York. The Giants smothered the Bears, 47-7, for the crown. Conerly's other big date is what some of us soft-chair experts call the beginning of life. Yep, old Charley is turning 40 Sept. 19. He was born in 1921 in Clarksdale, Miss. Don Smith, the Giants' publicist, said Wednesday that Conerly will definitely start and probably play the entire first half. "They're bringing him along so that he'll be ready to go the distance if necessary when the season starts. He played a quarter in each of our first two games and then played an entire half in our third game. The Packers will be our fourth game," Smith said. Conerly has thrown 35 passes thus far and completed 18 of them for 264 yards and three touchdowns. Lee Grosscup, who is being groomed as the Giants' future No. 1 QB, has completed 21 out of 39 for 233 yards and three. Y. A. Tittle, the 49ers' great who was obtained in a trade recently, has been bothered by a back condition and may not play vs. Green Bay. The Packers cut their National roster to 41 players Wednesday by asking waivers on defensive lineman Bernie Vishneski of VPI.

Massey Homers Twice Macs Square Playoff Series by Dealing Freedom 15-7 Setback

BY RALPH MUELLER Post-Crescent Staff Writer MENASHA—The Menasha Macs grabbed a 12-0 lead and then held on to win a 15-7 decision from Freedom Wednesday night and deadlock the best-of-three playoff series for the Fox River Valley Baseball League championship at one game apiece. Clem Massey led the assault with three hits, including two home runs, Carl Springer and Lee Peterson also belted round-trippers for the Menasha team. The winners used two big innings to do the job. They tallied four times in the second on three hits and eight times in the third on five blows. The Menasha cause was aided by four walks and two errors. Hits Long Double After Massey connected for the first of his homers in the second, Peterson was safe when Freedom shortstop Dan Carney let the ball go through his legs. Bob Felix followed with a long double to left center to put runners on second and third. Both base runners remained there as Jim Meyer hit a pop fly single that dropped only a few feet in front of the plate. Butch Kmetzke walked, forcing Dan Peterson, and Neil Haack bounced into a force play at the plate and when catcher Joe Frey-

Hadley Wins NEWGA Championship With 2-Day Total of 143

Smith, Lohr and Warobick Finish 2 Strokes Behind BY JOHN L. PAUSTIAN Post-Crescent Sports Editor Tom Hadley, who has annexed more championships in his two years of Fox Cities residence than many golfers do in a career, won the 1961 Northeastern Wisconsin open title by two strokes Wednesday at Menasha North Shore. The 24-year-old Neenah Ridge-way standout withstood the 90-degree heat and the competitive pressure better than any of the other contenders to fire a 3-over-par 73 and finish with a 36-hole tourney total of 143. Strutz Has Trouble Co-runnersup, at 145, were Green Bay amateur Steve Smith, Sheboygan amateur Jimmy Lohr and Manitowish professional Lou Warobick. Smith and Lohr shot 75 yesterday, and Warobick had a 76 as most of the golfers had considerably more trouble with the hilly and woody North Shore, across than they did Tuesday. Victim of the highest ballooning score among the top six contenders was Butte des Morts' Don Strutz, who came in with an 81. Even greater catastrophe was experienced by Green Bay's Gary Rosenberg, who soared from a first-round 72 to a 90. The sharpest golfer Wednesday was BDM's Bob Ferrel, who carded a 2-over-par 72 to finish ninth with a 149. Hadley, a Minnesota state amateur champion before he became a Badger two years ago, caught Warobick at the 27-hole mark with an outgoing par 35 yesterday. Warobick, former paratrooper who led Hadley by one going into the round, shot a 36 on the front nine. Hadley locked it up with a 38 on the back nine, including a double bogey on No. 17. The veteran Warobick, slowed down by the heat, took five bogeys on the incoming stretch, finishing with a 40. Lohr, who started the day even with Hadley but slipped two shots behind with a front-nine 37, still had mathematical hopes on the fi-

Packers Sell 25,000 for Charity Game

GREEN BAY — Approximately 25,000 tickets have been sold for the Bishop's Charities Game Monday night between the Green Bay Packers and the New York Giants. All tickets were recalled from outlets in the area. The only places tickets can be purchased for the game, now, are the Green Bay Packer Ticket Office and the Bishop's Charities Office, at 131 S. Madison, in Green Bay. (The latter will be open from 9 a.m. to 9 p.m. daily from now through Sunday.) Tickets are on a first-come, first-served basis. Approximately 1,000 $5 tickets, 8,000 $4 tickets, and 3,000 $3 tickets are left.

Report Al Lopez Being Considered For Oriole Post

DETROIT (AP)—Al Lopez, who managed the Chicago White Sox to their first pennant in 40 years in 1959, is reported under consideration as Paul Richards' successor as manager of the Baltimore Orioles. Richards has accepted the general managership at Houston. A reliable source told The Associated Press Wednesday night that White Sox Manager Lopez was contacted by Richards himself regarding the Baltimore post.

Foxes Open Final '61 Home Stand Against Des Moines

Teams Play Twin Bill Tonight

The Americanos, the drum and bugle corps of the Appleton American Legion post, will perform between games of tonight's Fox Cities - Des Moines double-header at Goodland Field. Tonight's action will open the Foxes' final home stand of the Three-1 League season. The first game starts at 6:30 p.m. Foxes booster tickets will be sold at the Goodland Field gate for $1. The ticket is good not only for tonight's doubleheader but also for the two remaining games in the Des Moines series. Friday's game will be preceded by the completion of the Foxes - Demons protest game of Aug. 16. Des Moines will be batting in the seventh and leading, 4-0. After the protested game is completed, Foxes individual player awards for 1961 will be presented. Named will be the most valuable player, the best team player, the best rookie and the most popular player. Prior to Saturday's season-ending game, the Little Chute drum and bugle corps will perform (starting at 7:30 p.m.) Foxes team pictures will be given free to the first 2,000 fans who request them during the Foxes-Demon series.

The Two Leading strikeout artists in the American League, Camilo Pascual of the Minnesota Twins (left), and Whitey Ford of the New York Yankees, look at a picture of Pascual's new baby before Wednesday night's game in Minneapolis. The baby was born Tuesday. Pascual has an edge in the strikeout race, 179 to 175.

Topeka Wins 3-1 Pennant

LOSES TO LINCOLN, But Cedar Rapids Also Stumbles BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS Topeka backed into the Three-1 League's undisputed championship Wednesday night. The Reds, who lost to Lincoln, 7-5, are still 7 1/2 games ahead of second-place Cedar Rapids, which dropped its third straight at Des Moines, 15-4. The Braves have only 6 games remaining. Topeka's Miles McWilliams homered and drove in four runs to give 1,239 fans added joy. He leads the league with 102 runs batted in. Cedar Rapids had 14 hits, including three homers—but they all came with the bases empty. Dick Edwards and Phil Hipps each hit a 3-run homer for Des Moines. Edwards also had three singles and drove in five runs.

Sturdivant Hurls Bucs Past Reds

Cincinnati Lead Cut to 2 1/2 As Dodgers Beat Cubs, 5-2

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS Remember Tom Sturdivant? He is the big, knuckleballing right-hander who helped pitch the New York Yankees to successive American League pennants in 1956 and 1957—and then dropped back to the minors within four years. After winning 32 games over those two pennant years with the Yanks, Sturdivant was on the disabled list because of a foot injury for part of 1958, then was traded to Kansas City in '59. Last year, he was swapped to Boston, and this year he was picked up by Washington in the AL's expansion. It was the Senators who shipped him back to the minors in a trade with Pittsburgh.

Smiley Ruins Burlington No-Hitter

BURLINGTON, Ia. — "Chuck" Kolakowski came out of the Burlington bullpen to make his second start of the season and limited the Fox Cities Foxes to one hit as the Bees took a 3-0 decision. Chuck Smiley's 1-out single to right in the seventh was the lone hit off Kolakowski. Rightfielder Jose Vidal hobbled the ball and Smiley went to second. He reached third on an infield grounder and was the only Fox to get by first base. Vidal supplied all the cushion Kolakowski needed when he socked a long homer over the center field fence after Tom Rinks had singled, in the second. Another Tally The Bees added another tally in the fourth when Bob Pena walked, stole second and scored when Kolakowski singled to center. The Foxes had three other base runners beside Smiley. "Nellie" Cochran walked to open the fourth but was erased when Joe Pulliam grounded into a double play. Jim Caldwell walked in the fifth and Cochran recieved a free pass in the sixth but neither man got by first base. The snappy game was played in 1 hour and 33 minutes, one of the quickest of the season. Outside of Smiley's hit, the only other blow for the Foxes that came close to a hit was Dick Yench's bloop fly down the right field line in the fifth that Vidal made a sensational one-handed catch on.

Iowa and Ohio State Are Co-Favorites in Big Ten Football Race

Wisconsin Rated Along With Michigan As a Possible Sleeper

BY JERRY LISK
CHICAGO (AP) — With Iowa and Ohio State established as co-favorites, Big Ten football practice officially starts Friday with some 67 candidates plunging into preparations for the 1961 campaign.
Actually, the conference gladiators prance onto their respective grids today for picture-taking purposes. The head-to-head banging starts Friday, except at Ohio State where drills begin in earnest Monday.
The season starts for three teams Sept. 23 and for the rest Sept. 30.
The army of strapping football aspirants includes some 215 lettermen, paced by Ohio State, Michigan State and Indiana with 26 apiece.
Other Lettermen
For what they are worth, other lettermen groups include 23 at Purdue; 22 at Northwestern and Michigan; 20 at Wisconsin and Minnesota; 19 at Iowa; and 11 at Illinois.
Minnesota, last year's conference co-champion with Iowa — each with a 5-1-0 record — leads in total candidates with 71. However, the Gophers are expected to take a much rougher path than last year when they won top laurels in the national AP poll and then wilted before Washington in the Rose Bowl game.
Iowa has the only new head coach as Jerry Burns succeeds his former top coach, Forrest Evashevski, now Hawkeye athletic director. Burns has inherited eight returning starters from Evashevski, whose whirling winged T attack will continue to operate under Burns.
Iowa's splendid nucleus includes quarterback Wilburn Hollis, halfback Larry Ferguson and fullback Joe Williams, plus five stalwart linemen.
Ohio State, boomed by some as potential national champion, still must come up with a quarterback to replace versatile Tom Matte. However, Coach Woody Hayes admits he has "our best speed in several years" and Buckeye fullback Bob Ferguson may be one of the nation's great performers.

A solid dark horse could be Michigan where coach Chalmers (Bump) Elliott has back a complete backfield, including quarterback Dave Glinka; halfbacks Bennie Mc Rae and Dave Raimery; and fullback Ken Tureaud. Furthermore, Elliott has an entire letterman first team available.
'Bi-line' Offense
Michigan State could be a winner with 26 returning letterwinners, but coach Duffy Daugherty needs a quarterback to manipulate what he calls his new "bi-line" offense. The Spartan attack will be geared to take off behind both the balanced and unbalanced lines.
Minnesota lost eight starters from its Rose Bowl team, but among 20 lettermen are quarterback Sandy Stephens; halfbacks Dave Mulholland and Bill Munsey; ends Bob Deegan and Tom Hall; tackle Bob Bell, and guard John Mulvena.
Purdue must rebuild to replace All-America tackle Jerry Beabout, and virtually an entire starting backfield, including "twin" quarterbacks Bernie Allen and Maury Guttman. However, 23 lettermen are back.
Wisconsin, like Michigan, could be a sleeper, if for no other reason than the brilliant passing combination of quarterback Ron Miller and end Pat Richter. If that duo stays healthy, the Badgers can be tough.
Northwestern faces its biggest rebuilding task since 1958, particularly missing slick quarterback Dick Thornton who turned pro.
Indiana, emerging from its pro-status last season, has 26 of last season's 40 lettermen back. Coach Phil Dickens said "we'll be improved, but the question is, how much?"

Bleier's Wins City Crown

Defending Softball Champions Rally, Nip Pond's, 4 to 3, In Extra-Inning Contest

BY JIM HARP
Post-Crescent Staff Writer
Bleier's Bar won its second straight city softball crown with a 4-3 victory over Pond's Sports Shop in an 8-inning thriller at Telulah Park Wednesday night.
"Bud" Koehnke drew a walk with the bases loaded and two out in the extra inning to give Bleier's the title.
In the third place battle, UCT scored twice in the final inning and then held off a last ditch rally by Pierce Auto Body Works for a 4-3 triumph.

Come From Behind
Bleier's had to come from behind for the victory. Pond's built up a 3-0 lead which held until the last of the fifth when the winners counted once. Bleier's tied the game with a pair of runs the trees. Steve carded a 38 going out and a 37 coming back.
Strutz was plagued by a treacherous hook most of the day — particularly on tee shots. His putting also failed to match that of his brilliant first-day's play.
Among the other tournaments won by Hadley the last two are: the Fox Cities amateur, the Neenah-Menasha amateur, the Appleton Adler Brau and the Waupaca invitational.

This is the second straight year that an amateur has won the NEWGA open. Last year it was Green Bay's Chuck Steeno, who was unable to defend this time because of military service.
Leading Scores:

and just missed a second straight shutout.
After giving up an unearned run in the second inning, on Gordy Coleman's single, his lone walk and a two-out error, Sturdy retired 20 in a row before giving up singles by Coleman and Jerry Lynch with two out in the ninth. Then he got Gus Bell on a game-ending grounder.
Beat Bob Purkey
The Pirates beat Bob Purkey (14-10) with two runs in the first inning. Bill Virdon's leadoff single, Dick Groat's triple and a wild pitch did it.
The Dodgers did it with two-run homers by Charlie Neal and Norm Sherry and the strikeout pitching of Larry Sherry, who fanned seven of the nine Cubs he faced in three innings of hitless relief. Southpaw Johnny Podres (17-4) was the winner. Dick Ellsworth (7-9) was the loser.
The last place Phils blew a 2-0 lead, but cracked a 3-3 tie with two out in the eighth inning on Don Demeter's RBI double, his second of the game off Card ace Ray Sadecki (12-7). Don Ferrarese (3-9) was the winner in relief.

Dressen, Dark Figure 90 Wins Can Take It

Braves Must Play .750 Ball Rest of Way, Charlie Says

MILWAUKEE (AP) — The San Francisco Giants and the Milwaukee Braves are knocking heads in a battle for third place. And both are resting their diminishing pennant hopes on similar notes.
Rival managers Alvin Dark of the Giants and Charlie Dressen of the Braves still figure that the nice round number of 90 victories has a good chance of winning the National League championship.
The Giants snapped a five-loss streak and moved back into third place ahead of Milwaukee Wednesday by edging the Braves 2-1 for a split of a two-game series. The victory left San Francisco with a 69-56 record while the Braves dropped to 69-57.
Pointing for 90
"I'm still pointing for 90 victories," Dark said. "That means we'll have to win 21 of our last 29—and that isn't too bad. The big thing is that we have three games left with Cincinnati and seven with the (Los Angeles) Dodgers."
"I think 90—or maybe 92—victories will make things mighty close. There certainly won't be any breathing room."
"This loss to the Giants hurts, but we still can do it," Dressen said. "I'll rest the Braves' chances on 90 victories. That means playing .750 ball (21-7) the rest of the way. We can do it."
Dark said that Mike McCormick, Juan Marichal and Jack at star at Wisconsin, has been pointed Wednesday as football line coach at the University of Wisconsin—Milwaukee.
Jankowski, who was a collegian at Wisconsin, has been named Wednesday as football coach at the University of Wisconsin—Milwaukee.

Harlan Dean Sets New Hambletonian Record

Directors Will Vote on Future Site of Classic

DU QUOIN, Ill. (AP) — Frost added to a record week can be added today for Del Miller, veteran harness racing trainer-driver, if Hambletonian Society directors vote to keep the 3-year-old trotting classic at the Du Quoin State Fair Grounds.
Miller, 48-year-old baron of Meadow Lands Farm in Pennsylvania, is part owner of Harlan Dean with Max Hempt and Roy-al Cleveland.
Harlan Dean, driven by Miller's long-time assistant, Jimmy Arthur, Wednesday won the Hambletonian with a record performance of successive mile heats in 1:58 2-5 and 1:59.
Will Head Fight
Miller today will head a behind-the-scenes fight to keep an eastern bloc of Hambletonian directors from voting to move the premier grand circuit event from Du Quoin to Vernon Downs in upstate New York.
Meanwhile, Miller and his partners pocketed a $77,364 first prize on Harlan Dean's sensational Hambletonian victory. The brown son of Harlan had won only once in eight starts this year and collected a mere $7,676 in earnings.
His first heat of 1:58 2-5 topped the 3-year-old trotting mark, 1:58 3-5, set by Elaine Rodney in the Kentucky Futurity at Lexington last fall and matched by Caleb in the recent Review Futurity in Springfield, Ill.
His second heat of 1:59 also shattered the former Hambletonian record of 1:59 3-5 established last year by Quick Song and Hoot Frost.
The combined heat times of 3:57 2-5 was a record for trotters of any age, surpassing the 3:57 2-5 set in heats of 1:58 2-5 and 1:59 by 5-year-old Nibble Han over at Old Orchard Beach, Maine.

Yanks Add Game To Lead With 4-0 Victory Over Twins

Tigers Chopped Down From Behind by Charging Chisox

By The Associated Press

The Detroit Tigers, looking ahead to their weekend showdown at New York for the American League lead, suddenly have been chopped down from behind by the charging Chicago White Sox.

The Sox put away their sixth straight success and second in a row over Detroit, 7-4, Wednesday night. It was only the third loss in 13 games for the Tigers, but they've dropped these latest two behind ace Frank Lary and Jim Bunning, and have skidded 2 1/2 games behind New York.

The Yankees added a game to their lead with a 4-0 victory at Minnesota as Mickey Mantle and Elston Howard crashed solo home runs behind the four-hit pitching of Bill Stafford.

It was No. 47 for Mantle, and left him one game ahead of Babe Ruth's record-60 pace of 1927. Teammate Roger Maris, after going 0-for-10, picked up a single but failed to add to his major league leading home run total of 31. He's now only seven games ahead of Ruth.

The hottest home run slugger of the moment, Jim Gentile, belted his third as third place Baltimore walloped five homers and crushed Los Angeles 11-4. It was Gentile's seventh home run in nine games, but he's six behind Ruth's pace for 134 games.

Cleveland clobbered Washington 9-6 and Boston whipped Kansas City 9-3.

The Tigers, playing without flu-stricken Norm Cash, the AL's batting leader at .306, committed three errors for the second straight game and were checked on five hits by southpaw Juan Pizarro 11-5, who struck out 10. Bunning 15-10 was roughed up for 10 of Chicago's 15 hits, but it was a three-run eighth against reliever's Gerry Staley and Hank Aguirre that won it for the Sox.

Stafford (12-7) duelled Jim Kaat (7-13) with only a 1-0 lead until Mantle walloped his first home run in nine games leading off the seventh inning. Howard hit his 14th home run in the ninth, off reliever Ray Moore.

Has RBI Lead

Gentile had three hits and drove in four runs, snatching the RBI lead from Maris with 124, for the Orioles, who picked up their other home runs from Jackie Brandt, Earl Robinson, Ron Hansen and Jerry Adair in support of Jack Fisher (8-11). Ron Moeller (4-8) was the loser.

Ted Kluszewski homered for the Angels.

The Senators gave the Indians an unearned run in the second inning and then were rapped for eight runs in the fourth. Gary Bell (9-14) pitched his first shutout of the year with a four-hitter. John Gabler (3-7) was the loser.

Winning right-hander Gene Conley (9-11) beat the A's and Jim Wynn (8-11) with a tie-breaking, two-run single in the seventh for the Red Sox, who pushed across five more in the ninth.

Scoring the First Run for Bleier's Bar in the city softball tournament finals Wednesday is "Skip" Koehnke, partially hidden behind catcher Jack George of Pond's Sport Shop. Pond's pitcher "Sonny" Filz is making the throw to the plate. The run scored when "Bud" Koehnke lined the ball off Filz' glove in the last of the fifth. Bleier's took a 4-3 win in eight innings.

Lose 2 Chances

The Braves lost two golden scoring chances because of double play balls hit by Joe Adcock. With one out in the sixth, Eddie Mathews and Hank Aaron walked, but Adcock ended the threat by grounding to Jim Davenport who stepped on third and then tossed to first for a twin-killing.

McCormick held the Braves to four hits for eight innings, but when he walked Aaron to start the ninth the Giants called Miller from the bullpen. Adcock then tapped back to Miller for the start of another doubleplay. Thomas and Joe Torre followed with singles but pinchhitter Neil Chrissy grounded to end the game.

The Braves open a three-game series with the second-place Los Angeles Dodgers tonight. Rookie Bob Hendley, owner of a 4-3 record, is Milwaukee's choice to oppose Don Drysdale (10-8) on the mound.

Teammates of Don Boya greet him as he headed for home plate after swatting a 2-run homer in the third inning to give Pond's an early lead over Bleier's in the city softball tournament finals Wednesday night. Happily extending his hand to Boya is Mickey McGuire. Others waiting, left to right are, Don Kollath, Bill Brandt and Claude Rattke. Pond's lead was erased as Bleier's went on to tie the game and take a 4-3 victory in eight innings.

Lorenz Mayer Shoots 33 in Thilco League

KAUKAUNA — Lorenz Mayer fired 2-under par 33 to take low gross honors in the final round of the Thilco Golf League at Fox Valley Golf Club. Low net honors went to James Graham with a score of 26.

Finishing as champs in the American League was the Mart-Jochman team with 208 points. Hanby-Briggs 194 was second and Wahlers-Newhouse Third with 189.

Tops in the National League was Minkebigg - Kiffe with 222 points, followed by Mangold-Barn-very with 205 and Ranquette-Mayer with 196.

Oshkosh Titans Open Grid Practice Friday

BY DON CASTONIA

OSHKOSH—Bob Kolf will mark the start of his 34th year as head football coach of the Oshkosh State College Titans Friday, but Scheibach and Cullen are seniors, unless many surprises are found. The Titans appear loaded at end among freshmen candidates and with letter winners. They are Jerry Leu, junior; Tom Pennwell, senior; Charles Speilman, sophomore; Gary Pansier, junior, and John Jooss, senior.

Kolf indicated he may switch several of the ends to tackle or guard to bolster those positions will be on hand to greet Kolf for the first practice session at 9 a. m. Friday. Another drill is slated for Friday afternoon and two more Saturday before 1-a-day practices start Tuesday. Equipment was issued today with about 40 candidates expected.

Five of the returning letter winners are ends. The interior of the line will be inexperienced and there appears to be little experienced depth in the backfield. This will be a young team, with only five senior lettermen.

Veteran Quarterback

Little Talk of Homers as Yankees Concentrate on Taking AL Pennant

MINNEAPOLIS-ST. PAUL (AP) —Mickey Mantle had just swatted his 47th home run, but there was little talk in the Yankee dressing room about that. Everyone was more concerned over how second place Detroit came out with Chicago.

Most of the Yankees had left the dressing room when the final score was posted: Chicago 7, Detroit 4.

That, coupled with New York's 4-0 victory over the Minnesota Twins behind the four-hit pitching of Bill Stafford Wednesday night, put the Yanks 2 1/2 games ahead of the Tigers.

Want Pennant

"There isn't much talk about the home runs," explained Yankee Manager Ralph Houk. "The boys are more interested in winning the pennant."

That feeling carries over to statistician Bill Kane, who makes no mention in his press sheet of how close Mantle and Roger Maris, who has 51 roundtrippers, are to Babe Ruth's record 60 homers.

The pennant fever was best exhibited Wednesday night by Maris who risked injury sliding hard into Minnesota second base.

St. Cloud Win Streak Snapped By Grand Forks

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

St. Cloud's bid to tie the Northern League record for consecutive victories was snapped at 16 by Grand Forks Wednesday night, and hard-fighting Duluth-Superior edged into the loop lead.

The Rox needed the triumph to equal the 17-game mark set by Eau Claire in 1942, instead they fell to the Chiefs 6-4. Duluth-Superior took a doubleheader from hapless Winnipeg, 7-0 and 3-1, while Aberdeen regained early season form by sweeping a twin bill from Eau Claire, 5-0 and 5-4.

Pitching brought the Pheasants their victories over the Wisconsin team. Dick Hunt (a Fox Cities pitcher in 1960) threw a 3-hitter in the opener and Dave Jones followed with a five-hit job.

KINGSTON, Jamaica—Freddie Blades, Miami, Fla., defeated Allen Harmon, Kingston, 10.

Papermakers Will Have 9 Lettermen

Nirschl Drilling Squad for Opener Against St. John

KIMBERLY — Forty-one candidates, including nine lettermen, reported to Coach Jim Nirschl at the opening of Kimberly High School football drills this week.

Nirschl said a number of other boys are still expected out, and he will probably have 50 candidates.

The roster: Seniors — Gary Dresang, Frassetto, Schmidt, Hietpas, Roovers, Versteegen, Polman, Don Wydeven, and Cletus Neles.

Juniors — Dave Riedel, Vander Vel-den, Seegers, Dave Valentine, Jim Schell-hout, Dick Paalman, Dick Miesl, Dick Sheltout, Bill Raddatz, Tom Newhouse, Jim Rennebohm, Gary Sanderfoot and Joe Strick.

NYU's Gubner Shoots for Triple Slam

Sets Discus Record in Jewish Olympics

TEL AVIV, Israel (AP)—Gary Gubner, New York University's 19-year-old Samson, was rated a cinch today to score a triple slam in record fashion in the sixth Maccabiah games.

The powerful sophomore may have company in another NYU Violet, graduate Steve Damashek. Their record smashing victories in the discus throw and 400-meter run Wednesday helped alone a bit for disappointing defeats for the heavily manned Yanks in the 100-meter sprint and high jump.

Best Time

Gubner, 6-2, 250-pounder, set one of the seven track and field records for the Jewish olympics with a discus throw of 164 feet, 4 1/2 inches taking and distribution of es. Damashek copped the 400-meter title over teammate Art Gardenswartz of Arizona University in 48.8 seconds, his best time ever.

The only other American winner in the first 10 track events was Bill Bachrach, of Yale, with 33-1.6 for the 10,000-meter run. The defending champion American basketball team thumped Mexico 113-44 in the first round.

Badger '11' to Begin Heavy Work Friday

MADISON (AP) — Wisconsin football coach Milt Bruhn expected 64 candidates to report today for the opening of football practice at Camp Randall Stadium.

The first day was expected to be devoted to weighing in, picture taking and distribution of practice equipment. Actual work will begin Friday. Candidates will be sent through two drills a day for the next two weeks.

Jim McMillan, a reserve tackle last year, will be given a trial at center to replace Joe Heckl, a promising Milwaukee sophomore, who dropped out of school.

Lions Reschedule Exhibition Because Of Tiger Game on TV

DETROIT (AP) — The Detroit Lions have rescheduled their National Football League exhibition game with the St. Louis Cardinals for Saturday night because the Detroit Tigers Friday night baseball game at New York will be televised.

Edwin J. Anderson, Lions general manager, said Wednesday the football game was pushed back a day to allow Detroit fans to watch both attractions.

The second-place Tigers open a three-game series with the first-place Yankees Friday night in the hot American League baseball race.

Reds Steal Election in British Labor Union

BY VICTOR RIESEL

LONDON—Dauntless, I knocked on the door of the Communist Party headquarters on King Street. I wanted to discuss what my British friends call "jiggery-pokery"—the stealing of an election which gave disciplined Communist Party members control of a

Riesel

But Communist Party leaders Manchester to London's St. Pan-just were not talking to me any- way. Moscow was very cross with them for permitting the appara- tus to be exposed. This exposure them to the union headquarters at of Communist techniques for rig- ging a national union election so that some 2,000 party followers had could control a vital union of 240,000—the Electrical Trades Union (ETU)—had come at a particu- larly bad time. The public was dis-illusioned by this political hind in their subscription (dues) crookedness right at the height of the Communist "Party Building were sent to them for use in the year."

The Party was hit hard. One of its stalwarts, ETU General Pres-ident Frank Foulkes, who was into Belfast. There he marked constantly and publicly demand- ing that the U. S. get its armbars there of England, has just been offi- cially convicted of baldly stealing

Why was the usually gentle Brit- ish court so tough on this "jig- gery-pokery"? You find the an- swer in the Judge's 35,000-word criticism of the five union leaders who were defendants. Referring to one of them, the Justice said: "He is a man inspired, if not re- turned, by a fervent faith that the Communist creed is the Ultimate Truth, an appeal to which will afford an answer logically solving any problem of behavior or choice of action. . . In his mind, as I judge his personality, no loyalty to the ETU or to any other body or individual could be allowed any influence adverse to unswerving duty to the Commu- nist Party. . ."

Apparently the party people saw it their duty to devise an unbeatable crooked system of con- trolling the balloting of their union.

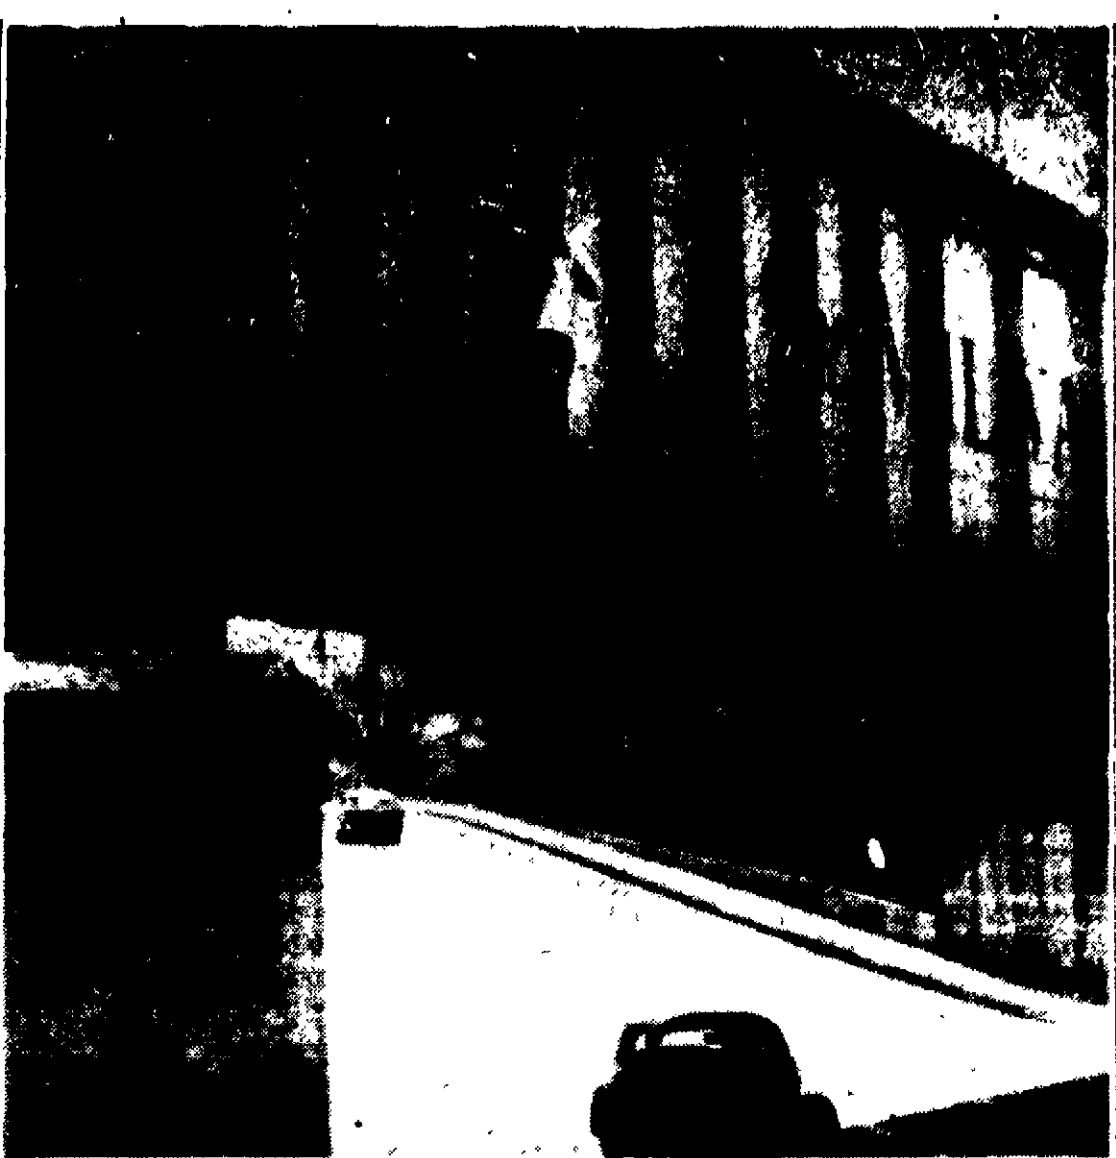

For example, the court records reveal that J. Humphrey, execu- tive councillor and office manager of the union, decided to print 26,833 more ballots than were need- ed for the membership. He order- ed the printers to send these from Manchester to London's St. Pan- cras station.

There he picked up the bundles them for permitting the appara- tus to be exposed. This exposure them to the union headquarters at of Communist techniques for rig- ging a national union election so that some 2,000 party followers had could control a vital union of 240,000—the Electrical Trades Union (ETU)—had come at a particu- larly bad time. mark them for their own candi- dates and throw them into the final count.

Ballots Late
Inevitably scores of branches would mail their tallies in tech- nically late. There was legal lee- way to forgive this and count the ballots. In this election, the Com- munist knocked out 109 locals. Just so happened that 106 of them were considered anti-Communist strongholds. The other three were doubtful. But the Comrades took no chances.

The Communists won accord- ing to their count. The democratic op- position got the election into court. The Judge ruled that it was a fixed and "rigged" poll and that the five top mer. should resign.

He ruled that the anti-Comm- nist leader, John Byrne, had ac- tually been elected General Sec- retary but had been counted out by the Communists. Mr. Judge Winn ruled Byrne elected.

When Byrne got to the union headquarters he found important records burned. He also found himself without power even to ap- prove a mailing. The Communist controlled Executive Committee set up five subcommittees which took over almost all of the Gen- eral Secretary's duties—control of office staff, direction of the union's publication, etc. So the Trades Union Congress, the AFL-CIO of Britain, expelled the union and told it not to return until it had cleansed itself entirely.

This, the rank and file will have a chance to do next month in an- other general election. Now let's see if the British are more con- scious of trade union morality than some of our rank and file, who tolerate stealing of elections by you know who.

West Germany Rumbling Under Khrushchev's Berlin Assaults

BY DAVID M. NICHOL
Chicago Daily News Service
BONN — West Germany is rumbling like a dormant volcano under the accumulating pressures of Nikita Khrushchev's assault on Berlin.

Superficially nothing much has changed here since Aug. 13 when the East German Communists sealed off East Berlin with a wall that grows higher and more formidable each day.

But beneath this surface there are deep emotion strains, mounting steadily with the dawning realization that the ties of family and friendship, of church and travel which have sustained this divided country for a decade are being cut mercilessly.

Berlin Was Channel

Berlin was the channel through which these vital contacts were maintained and constantly renewed. And while the city continued to serve this function, the country's division seemed never to be quite final or irrevocable. All that has changed abruptly in the last 2½ weeks.

In varying degrees and mixtures of fear and anger the West Germans have had to watch impotently as 17,000,000 of their fellow countrymen, relatives and friends, are exposed to the full brutality of a regime bent on making them good Communists by force since everything else had failed.

Natural Reaction

Under the circumstances it is only natural that the West Germans' faith in their own leaders, their soothing reliance on their evolving ties with the west, should be shaken profoundly.

With federal elections only 2½ weeks in the future it is also natural that this uncertainty and bewilderment should be reflected in the words and action of West Germany's politicians.

Even Chancellor Konrad Adenauer seems to have been infected by this spreading malaise. In two election speeches yesterday the 85-year-old leader made the astounding charge that Khrushchev's blow at Berlin was intended primarily to bring about the election of Adenauer's Social Democrat opponent Mayor Willy Brandt.

Some Boo Adenauer

Some at least of his listeners booed and whistled, an uncommon experience for the Chancellor in recent years.

Brandt's bitter reply: "The old man no longer seems to grasp the situation."

Brandt himself had to break off one of his election voyages into west Germany to hurry back to his besieged city for the surprise visit of federal president Heinrich Lübke.

East German Swims Canal To Freedom

BY GEORGE BOUTWOOD
BERLIN (AP)—An East German man swam to freedom today across the Teltow Canal under a hail of bullets from Communist border guards. He climbed out on the west bank of the canal unhurt.

West Berlin police said they heard bullets whipping into the canal, whose center marks the border in the divided city. Berliners now call it the "Death Canal."

Police reported that Communist guards elsewhere on the border flung tear gas grenades and fired water cannon Tuesday night at about 60 persons gathered at Alexanderstrasse, in Kreuzberg in the American sector. Shortly after midnight the Communists opened up again when a group of Western youths started catcalling.

Fire Cannon

About 5 a.m., a Communist water cannon at Treptowerstrasse suddenly let fly at a police patrol car on the Western side.

President Heinrich Lübke of West Germany was in the city today for a look at the situation. He arrived unexpectedly after breaking off his vacation.

Death Canal

During the past week, Communist troops have killed two men trying to swim the 60 yards across the canal, which forms part of the border in the divided city. Berliners now call it the "Death Canal."

Historically Soviet governments have preferred in most cases to deal with conservative governments rather than more liberal ones. The Social Democrats are the particular anathema of all good partyline Communists.

Adenauer, as he pointed out, has been attacked by the Communists, but never in such vile fashion as Brandt has been in recent weeks.

The East German Communists have used against West Berlin's mayor a vocabulary that hasn't been used publicly in Germany since the days of the Nazi Propaganda Minister Joseph Goebbels and the Jew baiting newspaper Der Stürmer.

Eisenhower Plays Golf With Nixon At Burning Tree

WASHINGTON (AP) — Former President Dwight D. Eisenhower returned to his old home course at Burning Tree in suburban Maryland Wednesday for a round of golf with former Vice President Richard M. Nixon.

The two met at Eisenhower's farm home on the edge of Gettysburg, Pa., two days ago and arranged the golf date then.

The foursome included William P. Rogers, attorney general under Eisenhower and close friend of Nixon, and Col. John Eisenhower, son of the former President.

Taxpayers May Get Numbers to Speed Up Returns

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Treasury's plan to assign permanent numbers to income taxpayers to speed up handling of the returns—and help catch dodgers—got the approval of the House Ways and Means Committee on Wednesday.

The Committee sent to the House a bill under which a taxpayer's Social Security number will serve as his permanent tax account number. Taxpayers who have no Social Security accounts will be assigned numbers if they later come under that system.

Stuffed Fish Makes Fine Barbecue Dish

Serve With Roast Corn, Cooked in Aluminum Foil

Have you tried cooking fish over your barbecue, or is your menu limited to hamburgers, hot dogs and steaks?

You ought to find out how enjoyable other items, such as fish filets can be, especially when cooked with fresh sweet corn in aluminum foil.

Barbecued Stuffed Fish

2½ to 3 pounds fish filets

3 cups packaged dry bread stuffing

1 to 1½ cups water, depending on stuffing

2 tablespoons melted butter

1 carrot, grated

¼ cup chopped onion

2 tablespoons chopped green pepper

¼ teaspoon seasoned salt

1 cup grated sharp cheddar cheese

Arrange the fish into six individual servings. Combine the dry bread stuffing with water and melted butter. Mix well. Add carrot, green pepper, onion and seasoned salt.

Sprinkle two or three pieces of heavy duty foil with grated cheese. Place fish over cheese, allowing two or three servings of fish per piece of foil. Top each serving of fish with a large spoonful of dressing. Fold foil to make tightly sealed packets and place on grill over medium hot coals for 12 to 15 minutes. Turn packets over and cook for another 12 to 15 minutes, or until fish is tender and flaky.

Open foil packets the last few minutes of cooking if a drier fish is desired. Serve with barbecued corn and tossed green salad. Makes six servings.

Husk ears of fresh corn and remove silk. Sprinkle corn ears with salt, brush with all-purpose barbecue sauce and wrap tightly in aluminum foil. Place on grill over medium hot coals and cook until done, 20 to 25 minutes, turning frequently.

Try This Idea for a Labor Day cook-out. It's tasty fish topped with a fresh vegetable stuffing and cooked in aluminum foil. To add a flavorful and welcome note, add some juicy ears of sweet corn that are spread with spicy barbecue sauce and also cooked in foil.

Goldwater Woos South On Civil Rights Stand

Right Wing of Republican Party Makes Strong Bid for Support Among Southerners

BY JOSEPH ALSOP

WASHINGTON—In the House-Senate conference on the foreign aid bill, the grimmest period of bargaining has begun. If the conference report is fairly favorable, the Republican-Southern Democratic coalition will probably attempt to secure rejection of the report by the House of Representatives.

The fact that the main prop of American foreign policy is in fairly serious danger is important in itself. The reasons for this danger are the almost complete abandonment of the bi-partisan approach to foreign policy by the House of Representatives, and the steady drift to the extreme right that is going on in all the Southern states.

The pattern thus revealed is highly likely to be even more important, in the long run, than the resulting present danger to the foreign aid bill. This pattern in fact foreshadows a really deep, soul-shaking crisis in the Republican party, in which Sen. Barry Goldwater of Arizona can be expected to be the main actor.

Change in South

The root of the coming crisis is the change in the South, which is only palely reflected by the growing Southern opposition to such measures as the foreign aid bill. Partly, this change has been caused by the increasing industrialization of the Southern states, with an accompanying growth of an intensely conservative business class.

But the main cause of the change — the reason why poor Southerners with long Democratic traditions agree with the right-wing Southern businessmen — is the effect on the South of the agonizing civil rights problem.

The attitude of the businessmen is revealed by the startling fact that the smallish town of Lubbock, Tex., is now estimated to contain no less than 1,000 members of the John Birch Society. The attitude of the rank and file of Southern Democrats is still more dramatically revealed by the forecast, by the highest possible authority on the subject, that even rock-ribbed Democratic Georgia would now give a majority to a Republican ticket headed by Sen. Goldwater.

Practical Strategy

It is not as yet widely grasped, but there is an extremely practical strategy behind the theoretical generalities of Sen. Goldwater's "new conservatism." The strategy is to take advantage of the change in the South—to transform the Southern electoral votes, which used to be the basic Democratic asset, into the basic asset of a Republican party strongly pledged to "states rights."

Sen. Goldwater, while declaring his personal opposition to segregation of the races, makes no bones about the fact that this is in fact his strategy. In a recent interview, he declared that the Republican party ought to take the kind of states rights stand that would produce "an old-fashioned debate." It was suggested to him that, in practice, "states rights" would really mean civil rights, and this would be the main subject of the debate.

"Call it anything you want," he replied, "I've said this. If you want the Federal government in the schools, offer it constitutional amendments. But I believe in our concept of limited government which has worked so well."

It can be seen why the authority already quoted thinks that a Republican ticket headed by Sen. Goldwater would carry even Georgia, which no Republican has carried since the end of the Reconstruction era. It can also be seen why the Republican party as a whole will be shaken to its core when and if Sen. Goldwater attempts to impose his electoral strategy, as he almost certainly will.

Quiet Attempt

A quiet attempt to impose this strategy was made at the 1960 Republican convention. The states rights-civil rights planks in the party platform were originally drafted by Roger Milliken, a businessman of Northern origin with textile interests in the South, who is a devoted Goldwater supporter. Sen. Goldwater at first believed that he had secured Vice President Nixon's acceptance of these Milliken-drafted planks. The subsequent rejection of these planks by the Vice President was one of the bitterest incidents in the famous row about the platform. And Sen. Goldwater now avers that if these planks had not been rejected by Nixon, he "would have got a lot more Southern votes in spite of Lyndon Johnson."

Next time, however, the thing can hardly be done quietly. It will be the Southern-oriented Goldwater strategy vs. the traditional

Louisiana to Change Plan On Schools

NEW ORLEANS, La. (AP)—The St. Helena decision won't stop Louisiana from carrying out Republican strategy. The fight will be in the open. The temptation of the Southern electoral votes will be felt by all the more right-wing Republicans. To say the least, the fight is likely to be pretty bloody.

its private school plan, but the state's grant-in-aid program may have to be revamped.

This was the opinion of two key states segregation leaders today after a three-judge federal local option school closing law, ruling Wednesday that the state cannot close some schools and keep others open.

It issued a temporary restraining order for bidding St. Helena Parish County from abandoning its public schools.

Rural St. Helena — some 60 miles north of New Orleans — voted overwhelmingly this summer to authorize school closing rather than accept integration. Some 1,400 white voters were registered and just over 100 Negroes.

But, he said, grants-in-aid are apparently entirely legal so long as public schools are not closed. Louisiana has set up machinery to permit students to accept tuition grants to go to private segregated schools rather than to integrated schools.

Integration has been ordered in St. Helena and East Baton Rouge parishes, but no dates have been set.

It's the news inside the plastic bottles that makes Clorox America's most-preferred bleach!

Clorox gives you the only kind of cleaning power that gets out suds-proof body dirt right in your washer!

You'll never have really clean washes till you realize this: Oily body dirt takes a special kind of cleaning power. The Clorox kind. Weaker bleaches just won't do. Detergents can't get rid of it without tiresome hand-treating. Suds-proof body dirt is too stubborn to be floated away or covered up. It must be dissolved. Adding Clorox to your suds dissolves it...right in your washer.

Clorox gets out suds-proof dirt that weak bleaches leave in!

Slavery Hard Fact In Today's World

U.N. Council Willing to Admit Practice Exists in Modern Age

BY SMITH HEMPSTONE
Chicago Daily News Service
NAIROBI, Kenya — That slavery still exists in the world is hard to believe in an age of hydrogen bombs, supermarkets and sit-ins.

But these are the facts, as recognized at a recent meeting of the special committee of the United Nations Economic and Social Council in Geneva.

C. W. W. Greenidge, director of the English Anti-Slavery Society, an abolitionist organization which a century ago did much to break the trans-Atlantic African slave trade and to open the continent to colonialism, stated:

Slavery in Crudest Form

"Chattel slavery in its crudest form still prevails in a large area of the world and the less brutal forms of slavery embraced by the supplementary convention on slavery of 1966 still holds millions in their grip; and this is going on in the territories of some member states of the United Nations who are blind to their obligations."

Of the 99 members of the United Nations, only 36 have ratified the 1966 supplementary conventions against slavery. Even these balked at a recommendation which would have set up machinery to see that the convention was observed.

One article of the convention binds ratifying members to submit annual reports on laws and measures taken by them to abolish slavery in their territories. Few have bothered to do so.

Little Information Available

Little verifiable information is available as to the number of human beings still living in bondage. It is certain, however, that the "peculiar institution," partly over which the United States fought its civil war, still thrives in Africa, exists in South America, and flourishes in pockets of Asia.

Historically, slavery — an institution of incalculable antiquity — has been a characteristic of agricultural societies with low standards of living and small per capita cash incomes. Thus it is that it thrives in Africa today.

Pawning of Humans

Pawning of human beings is a common practice today in many African countries. Under this system, a man wishing to borrow money puts up his wives and children as security. Should he default on his obligation, they become the permanent property (in practice if not in theory) of his creditor.

Social customs, such as that under which an African widow is compelled to "marry" her dead husband's brother, whatever the disparity in their ages and personalities, also tend to produce a serf class.

Eradication of slavery is difficult because the modern African slave is not naked, loaded with chains, or subject to constant maltreatment.

Has Same Freedom

He dresses the same as his free brothers, has limited freedom of movement, enjoys (if he is a Moslem) specified rights set forth in the Koran, and is usually, although not always well-treated.

But he is a slave, all the same, and is known as such to his townsmen. He might be more accurately described as a serf, a peon or an unpaid servant.

Some Stayed Slaves

Under colonial administration, slavery theoretically ceased to exist and all a man who considered himself a slave or was considered such by others had to do to obtain manumission was to present himself before the nearest magistrate.

Although many took advantage of this, hundreds of thousands of others did not, either because they had not heard of their change in status, were afraid to do so, or did not wish to do so.

For freedom was and still is a mixed grace for many Africans. Many who shed their bonds found themselves landless and without the opportunity of obtaining land, poor, unskilled, ignorant, devoid of economic opportunity and social standing.

None to Care

When they fell ill, there was none to care for them, when they grew old, there was no one to feed them.

Many prefer the built-in social security system afforded by slavery to competition in a world they did not understand and which ceased to worry much about them once they were freed.

It is likely that slavery will wither and die of its own accord as the underdeveloped nations achieve a more diversified economy and a higher standard of living.

But it will be a slow process and experts estimate that even if the United Nations were to devote its full resources and energies to its abolition, slavery would not disappear for at least a generation.

Only last year, an Arab dignitary of a coastal town in an East African territory offered to take off the hands of the local district commissioner 91 up-country African political prisoners restricted to the town "for $28 a head and no questions asked."

The offer was refused, perhaps regretfully.

U. S. Rejects Claim That East Germans Control Air Routes

WASHINGTON (AP) — A U.S. spokesman has rejected a claim by a high East German official to a right to clamp down on Western commercial air flights to West Berlin.

Referring to a statement by Otto Winzer, deputy foreign minister of the Communist East German regime, State Department press officer Lincoln White said Wednesday: "We do not recognize the East German deputy foreign minister's comments on the use of air corridors. The Soviets themselves raised this issue with us and that was answered in our note to them of last Saturday."

This country does not recognize the East German regime as a legitimate government.

To Your Good Health Sarcoidosis Disease Involving Formation of Small Lumps

BY JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D.

"Dear Dr. Molner: My sister-in-law has had a persistent cough. The doctor says it is sarcoidosis, but does not give any further explanation. What is sarcoidosis? Where does it come from — chickens? Is there any cure?"

"And please tell me what it is. U.C.M.G."

Sarcoidosis is a disease involving the formation of many small lumps, known as "tubercles," and for a time it was believed to be related to tuberculosis.

Today the belief is that it is an entirely separate disease. The cause isn't known, but it occurs in heavily wooded areas. Because of this various pollens and oils from trees are being studied as a possible cause.

Anyway, it is most apt to occur between the ages of 20 and 30 or 40; and, for no known reason, it occurs more often in women. Sarcoidosis used to be considered rare, but continued study and awareness of it prove it is fairly common.

Whatever the cause, it can involve almost any part of the body, but the places it is most apt to be found are the lungs, skin, lymph nodes, eyes, and bone. Because the lung is a favorite spot of many conditions which can cause the disease, cough, shortness of breath, and weakness are hence cause "iritis."

very often with the idea that it might be tuberculosis, but instead it proves to be sarcoidosis. (Examination of small bits of tissue, and certain chemical tests make the diagnosis positive.)

Treatment? There's no specific remedy, but fortunately, although it takes time, the disease tends to clear itself up in the majority of cases. The one medicine which proved its value in hastening the healing process is cortisone, or, more accurately, the various steroid hormones of the cortisone family.

The question at the end of the letter about iritis makes me wonder whether this happens to be a case which involves the eyes as well as lungs. This is quite possible almost any part of the body, but the places it is most apt to be found are the lungs, skin, lymph nodes, eyes, and bone. Because the lung is a favorite spot of many conditions which can cause the disease, cough, shortness of breath, and weakness are hence cause "iritis."

If this is the case, the steroid (cortisone) drugs are used in timing coordinated with menstruation. There are plenty of theories as to precisely why it happens, and quite possibly one of the theories may be right—but I don't know which one.

Removing Appendix

"Dear Dr. Molner: I was told it's a state law to remove the appendix when you are operated on for other surgery. Is this true?"—Mrs. M.S."

No, it's a not uncommon practice if the operation in question makes removal of the appendix a simple matter.

Fever Blister

"Dear Dr. Molner: Every time before my monthly period I have a fever blister which comes on the same place on my lip. It starts a couple of days before, and doesn't go away for a week or 10 days. What can be done about it?"—Mrs. J.K."

This is a form of Herpes simplex or, in everyday language, a cold sore. Occasionally it is seen recurring in the same area, the timing coordinated with menstruation. There are plenty of theories as to precisely why it happens, and quite possibly one of the theories may be right—but I don't know which one.

Oddly enough, one of the things which has proved to be effective in some cases is for the doctor to give several vaccinations with smallpox vaccine. This does not mean that the cold sore has any connection with smallpox. Nevertheless by some odd quirk of viruses, this works.

Hemorrhoids can be cured! If troubled with fissures, fistulas, itching and other rectal problems, write to Dr. Molner in care of this newspaper requesting a copy of his booklet, "The Real Cure For Hemorrhoids," enclosing a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 20 cents in coin to cover handling.

UW Graduate Elected NSA President

MADISON (AP)—Edward Garvey, a 21-year-old June graduate of the University of Wisconsin, today was elected president of the National Student Association (NSA).

Garvey is the son of Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Garvey of Burlington and the second Wisconsin man to head the 14-year-old nationwide student group.

The NSA is holding its annual congress on the campus of the University of Wisconsin.

Garvey is a former president of the Wisconsin Student Association. In today's balloting, he defeated Paul Potter of Battle Creek, Mich., a student at Oberlin College, by a vote of 229-159. A third candidate, Don Smith of Houston, Tex., was eliminated on the first ballot.

AMA Offers Advice on Ways To Beat Heat on Labor Day

The traditional Labor Day week-end is approaching and millions of Americans will head for the parks, beaches, golf courses, fishing streams and the open country. There is still the chance of suffering heat stroke or heat exhaustion if there is too much strenuous activity under a boiling sun, reports the American Medical Association.

It's helpful to eat more lightly, concentrating on salads and fruits, avoiding eight course dinners; to take a morning and nightly sponge bath or shower with tepid water (not too cold); to avoid waterlogging the body with excessive fluid intake — it's better to relieve thirst by sucking on a piece of ice than by gulping down a tumbler of cold water; by dressing appropriately —

while cottons are best and to try to get more sleep than normal. Almost every official and non-official body warns against accidents on the Labor Day week-end. Traffic will be heavy on the highways and roads, crowds at the beaches will bring some drownings, heavy intake of beer and picnic foods will produce gastric upsets, vigorous sports will produce strokes, heart attacks and injuries.

"Just remember that summer isn't quite over yet, that the heat still deserves healthy respect and the Labor Day week-end can be a time of relaxation and fun to recharge the summer-worn batteries and get ready for the step up of fall activities," concludes the association.

Neutral Nations More Concerned With Selves

BELGRADE, YUGOSLAVIA — High Western officials in Belgrade expect the uncommitted nations meeting here beginning Friday to devote more time to their own problems than to the Berlin crisis.

The problems of nations just emerging from colonial status and those of underdeveloped nations will be major concerns of the conference, Western officials believe.

"They also doubt that the conference will result in anything such as a permanently organized neutralist bloc, which would be another thorn in the side of the West at the United Nations."

Tax Service Clamps Down on Expenses!

BY SYLVIA PORTER

The Administration's 1961 tax reform bill is dead — which means there will be no formal Congressional legislation this year to curb the deductions millions of taxpayers claim for expense accounts. But if you think this means you'll not feel a crack-down on your "expense account living," think again. The plain facts are:

Porter

The Internal Revenue Service can accomplish on its own much of what Congress would have achieved through a law clamping down on expense account deductions. The tax agents of the IRS have been cracking down hard, they are cracking down harder, they will crack down harder.

Every area of abuse which IRS Commissioner Mortimer Caplin submitted to Congress is being critically examined and will be viewed even more skeptically by the tax agents — and this goes not only for Caplin's "horrible examples" of huge deductions for yachts and hunting lodges but also for less spectacular deductions for an office at home or a combined business-vacation trip.

Shut Loopholes

The IRS began spotlighting extravagant expense account claims on the 1961 tax returns when it required business firms to show on the face of their returns the name, earnings and expense account of any officer, partner or individual proprietor with a combined earnings-expense account of $10,000 or more. This surely will be continued in some form on the 1961 business tax returns. It began closing loopholes last year when its agents stepped up examinations of expense account "accounting" and intensified questioning of supporting evidence in the "gray" category.

The warnings are clear. Ignore them at your own peril. If Congress had passed even a watered down tax reform law, the formal clampdown on expense accounts would have been considerable. If you claimed deductions for food and lodging on business trips, you would have been limited to a "reasonable" allowance.

If you gave a business gift, your tax deduction would have been restricted to $25 per year per person. Your club dues and fees wouldn't have been deductible at all. You would have been required to present far more proof of the propriety and accuracy of your deductions.

Not Passed
Congress hasn't passed even a watered down version, but if the crackdown begun in 1960 is pursued in 1961 — a logical expectation indeed — you're not getting as much of a reprieve as you may think.

For instance, a tax agent will not consider any credit card as automatic evidence of a deductible business expense. You'll need to show supporting evidence on who was entertained, why, when, etc.

A tax agent will not accept checks made out to cash as proof of deductible expenditures. You'll have to show what the cash went for and why this is an appropriate deduction.

A tax agent will not accept an expense diary as evidence of a deductible expense unless the amounts are relatively small. If your diary is "heavy" with expenditures, you'll have to give the agent supporting information.

A tax agent will not permit you to compute deductible car expenses merely on the basis of yearly mileage times an estimated cost per mile. You'll have to prove you actually used your car for business, show where and when and why the car was so used.

A tax agent will not accept your claim for a business gift deduction without question. You'll have to explain satisfactorily why the gift is a proper business expense.

A tax agent will not accept your estimate of deductions for a business vacation trip — particularly if you take your wife along. You'll have to justify these claims.

So it will go. You must keep more complete records on your expense account deductions than ever before. You must be prepared for an audit and have the evidence to back up your claims. Be warned.

Farther Than Heaven

TV Commercial World Best of Possibilities

BY HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP)—Some people want to go to heaven when they leave this present vale of tears and terror.

I did, too, until I started noticing how the people live who are pictured in television commercials. Now, if I must depart this earthly scene, I want to be reborn one of them.

They dwell, it seems to me, in the best of all possible worlds—better even than heaven because it is more exciting.

There are two fantasy worlds on television.

Two Worlds
One is the world shown on TV programs. It is a world of conflict and violence inhabited by gangsters, Western bad men, juvenile delinquents, psychotics and neurotics. It is a ferocious world in which fists thud endlessly, flashing knives are buried in human flesh, and guns bark, roar or spit flaming death.

Dream Life

This is the dream world into which any sensible person would love to retire right now and live happily forever.

What are its attractions? Well, there are so many it is hard to know just where to begin.

The world of the TV commercial is a world of solvable problems. Most everybody has a trouble, but it is a small trouble easily and quickly remedied.

No Cruelty, Mayhem

It is a world without cruelty or mayhem, inhabited by kindly people who help one another to live better by just a bit of friendly advice.

The repairman doesn't charge the harassed housewife $86.12 to fix her washing machine.

"What kind of soapuds have you been using?" he asks with tolerant superiority. "Just switch to GRIME, and everything will be all right."

Miracle of Miracles

The housewife does—right there and then. Miracle of miracles, it works. If the repairman even bothers to give her a bill, he does it off camera.

In the world of the TV commercial no one worries about the hydrogen bomb, the Berlin crisis, or Today's Fox Cities families have an easier time at picnicking than those of a generation ago. It's no trouble at all to take off for a last family outing over the long holiday weekend. The state is filled with pretty parks, big and small, attractive waysides for outdoor eating. Then there are so many picnic items today that make a meal-on-the-go a pleasure instead of a chore. There are all sorts of portable equipment, grills for charcoal cooking, hampers, coolers and a wealth of paper and plastic items both for packing foods and serving it.

what to do about Cuba. No one is attlicted with cancer, heart disease, or a runaway ex-husband who refuses to meet his alimony payments.

Lonely girls or middle-aged women find new romance simply by switching to a new deodorant or gray-hair dye. Lonely men anoint their unruly locks with a special cream, and immediately sease, or a runaway ex-husband are turned into irresistible Casanovas.

Best of All Worlds

That's the wonderful thing about this best of all possible worlds—nothing is really complicated. We'd have better relations for the best.

abroad if we exported not our explosive TV programs but our cheery TV commercials.

They'd show the rest of mankind a world we could all aspire to live in together—a world where all problems have easy answers, and everything always turns out for the best.

Youths Hurt As Scooter Hits Parked Car

Auto Moved 36 Feet by Impact; Relatives Injured

A rural Appletton youth and his young nephew were injured last night when the motor scooter on which they were riding smashed into a parked car.

James Merkes, 16, son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Merkes, 3114 Lyndale Drive received a broken right leg and jaw, cuts, bruises and possible head injuries. Several of his teeth were knocked out.

He was the operator of the scooter when it crashed into a parked car owned by Rodney J. Cupkie, 4410 N. Richmond St. The accident took place at 8:10 p.m. on Capitol Drive, about a mile and a half west of County Trunk A.

Thomas Merkes, 12, son of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Merkes, 3104 Lyndale Drive, a passenger on the scooter received cuts to his head and right foot plus other possible head injuries, and bruises to his body.

Saw Headlights
Merkes was riding east on Capitol Drive when he struck the car, pushing it 36 feet into a ditch. The scooter was dragged under the car.

The two youths were taken to Appletton Memorial Hospital by Larry's and Lindy's ambulance services.

A witness to the crash said she saw the scooter's headlights coming toward her as she was driving on Capitol Drive, then noticed the light swerve toward the parked car.

Outagamie County Patrolmen Calvin Spice and Lowell Veitch investigated the accident.

Derber Couple Estranged 2 Months Ago

OSHKOSH — Victim of the Oshkosh murder and her husband had broken up their family life about two months ago, Oshkosh police were told.

A divorce action is pending between Richard Derber, 20, and Mrs. Judith Derber, 20, whom he fatally shot early this morning. Their only child, a son, Mark, 2, was staying at the home of Mrs. Derber's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Felker, 1518 Fox St. The young couple was married March 21, 1958.

Mrs. Derber was born Nov. 8, 1940, in Oshkosh. She was a graduate of Oshkosh High School.

Besides her parents, son and estranged husband, survivors include her paternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. George Felker, and two sisters, Mrs. Carol Barter, Oshkosh, and Miss Ruth Ann Felker of California.

Funeral arrangements are being made by Fiss and Bills Funeral Home, Oshkosh.

Lennon Sisters Play to Packed Grandstand

BY ALLAN ERVALL
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

OSHKOSH — Three young teenage girls held more than 8,000 persons spellbound as they harmonized in the style that has made them television favorites.

With the Lennon Sisters billed as the top attraction for the Winnebago County Fair this week, the grandstand took on an appearance it has not seen many times in recent years. It was filled.

It was more than filled — it was packed. That means that about 5,500 were sitting or standing in a grandstand that normally holds 5,000. Several hundred chairs were placed in front of the grandstand on the race track.

The entire show was well put together. Those who have watched the Lennon Sisters on the Lawrence Welk TV show know also that JoAnn Castle can play a lively piano. She can really bang out the music on the keys. She wound up with "chopsticks," playing each song at a double time gait.

Those who watched the Ed Sullivan show a few Sundays ago may have marveled at the Elkin Sisters, as supple and attractive a trio as ever put on an acrobatic act.

It was also nice to have a master of ceremonies who did not feel required to tell off-color stories to get laughs, one failing that has been noted of quite a few of

A. R. Barr was elected grandmaster-elect at the Knights of Pythian state convention Sunday through Tuesday in Milwaukee. Also attending were Earl Miller, past grand chancellor, and Fred Klugberg, grand representative for the Appletton lodge.

Three California Youths were arrested in Neenah after a service station attendant became suspicious about their car and credit card and called Neenah police. From left the youths are George McMunn, 18, Martin Kaelin, 20, formerly of Green Bay, whose parents live in Oshkosh, and Michael Holzboog, 18. With the youths are Neenah Police Capt. Lawrence Malouf and Stanley Gabert, federal court commissioner. The youths were arraigned before Gabert Wednesday. They waived preliminary hearing and will be taken to the U. S. District Court in Milwaukee for trial on a charge of taking a stolen car across state lines.

Stock Offering Oversubscribed

Shares on Market

The first public stock offering of Badger Northland, Inc., Kaukauna, has been oversubscribed. The 100,000 shares of common stock were placed on sale Wednesday at $6.75 a share.

Proceeds from the sale of stock together with $640,000 in debentures will be used to purchase an 18-acre track of land for a 12,000 square foot plant addition. The balance will be added to working capital.

Badger - Northland manufactures and sells automatic materials and handling equipment for farms including silo unloaders, bunk feeders and barn cleaners.

St. Pius Plans Special Weekend Mass, Devotion

St. Pius X Catholic Church will have 40 hours devotion and a special mass for the feast of St. Pius X this weekend.

The devotion will begin with a mass at 8 a.m. Friday. Public adoration will continue all day Friday, Saturday and Sunday, with the Rev. Mark James of Monte Alverno Retreat House, preaching sermons at 7:30 p.m. each day. Visiting priests will take part in the procession at the closing service at 7:30 p.m. Sunday.

The Rev. Richard Keller, pastor, will officiate and deliver the sermon at the 8:15 a.m. solemn high mass Sunday. The Rev. John Van Deuren, assistant pastor, will be deacon and the Rev. Peter Klauk of Appletton Apostolate will be subdeacon.

Discrimination Charge Dropped; Witness Doesn't Come to Trial

Negro Ball Player Fails to Appear in Tavern Owner Case

Municipal Judge Gustave Keller today dismissed a charge of discrimination against an Appletton tavern owner when a Negro baseball player, key witness in the case, failed to show for the trial.

Carl Zeisemer, operator of the Carl's Tap, 523 W. College Ave., was charged with ordering two Negro baseball players out of his bar May 31 because of their color.

The Negroes, Des Moines Des Moines rightfielder Rich Haines and first baseman John Self, told Appletton police that Zeisemer had ordered them out of the bar with a blackjack in his hand.

Unable to Subpoena
Sheriff Robert Heinrich said in court today he was unable to subpoena Haines because the Des Moines team had not arrived in Appletton. The trial was set for today because the team would be in town for a game with the Fox Cities Foxes.

Heinrich said when he contacted the manager of the team the manager said he thought Haines would be in Appletton for the trial. The dismissal came on the request of Dist. Atty. Nick Schaefer. Schaefer had signed a citizens' complaint against Zeisemer at the request of Atty. Gen. John Reynolds after the two Negro players refused to do so.

Outlined Action
Schaefer outlined for the court what action he had taken to insure that the matter would come to trial.

Schaefer said he contacted the county attorney for Polk County, Des Moines, Ia., and asked him to interview Haines. The attorney replied by telephone and letter

93-Degree Heat Sets City Record

The 93-degree heat in Appletton Wednesday tied the 34-year record, according to Wisconsin-Michigan Power Co. records. The mercury reached 93 on Aug. 30 in 1927 and 1937.

Wednesday was also tied with June 29 for the second-hottest day of the year. Hottest day was June 28, with a reading of 96.

In other areas of the state, a peak reading of 95 degrees was recorded at the widely separated cities of Racine and Superior. Milwaukee had a high of 94, Madison, La Crosse and Beloit 93, Lone Rock 92, Eau Claire 92 and Green Bay 91. The peak mark at Wausau and Park Falls was 89.

Skies remained clear during the night, except in the northwestern corner where a light shower fell during the early morning hours. Green Bay reported the lowest temperature of 61 degrees. Milwaukee recorded a minimum of 63, Beloit 64, Wausau and Racine 65, Madison 66, Superior 71 and La Crosse 72.

The weatherman again said there was little chance of a break-up in the warm weather pattern before the weekend.

The nation's high Wednesday was 102 at Yuma, Ariz., compared with the low of 30 at Big Piney, Wyo., early today.

Satellite to be Visible Thursday

Echo satellite will be visible about 8:38 and 10:23 p. m. Thursday and 12:38 a. m. Friday in this part of the country.

The communications satellite will be traveling from northwest to southeast and will be about 800 miles in the air.

Man, 68, Collapses at Interlake Paper Mill

Harvey Sauer, 68, 1013 S. Walden Ave., collapsed at 7:30 a. m. today in the machine shop of Interlake Mill, where he was employed.

He was taken by Larry's ambulance to St. Elizabeth Hospital, where he is in fair condition.

Jesuit House Gets Assistant

Milwaukee Native
To Conduct, Plan
Oshkosh Retreats

The Rev. Joseph Shinnars, S. J., has been named assistant to the Rev. James Corrigan, S. J., director of the Jesuit Retreat House, Oshkosh.

Father Shinnars, already has

assumed his duties at the Retreat House. He is a native of Milwaukee and a graduate of Marquette University High School. He attended Marquette University three years and then entered the Jesuit order at St. Stanislaus Seminary, Florissant, Mo.

After doing retreat work and teaching outside of the state, Father Shinnars returned to Marquette University High School and has taught there for the last seven years.

Father Shinnars will conduct and assist in the scheduling of retreats. Jesuit Retreat House has been in operation since last February, conducting retreats each weekend to a growing number of men from the Fox River Valley and from nearly all sections of Wisconsin and nearby states.

On Aug. 24, the first retreat of the Holy Name men of the Twin Cities made the Spiritual Exercises at Jesuit Retreat House and on Sept. 7 the Holy Name men of Winnebago, Waushara, Omro, Red Granite areas will gather for their retreat.

Girl's Body Found Near Father's

BELLEVEILLE, Ill. (AP) — The body of Carole Ballard, 11, was found early today a short distance from the lakeside where her murdered father's body, bound hand and foot, was discovered yesterday.

Law enforcement authorities in Missouri and Illinois intensified the search for a gunman believed to have killed George Ballard and his daughter and abducted a woman living nearby.

Ballard, 47, a machinist living in suburban Belleville, and his daughter had gone out early Tuesday for a day of fishing. Mrs. Ballard became alarmed when her husband and the little girl failed to return home. Police found his body lying near the lake shore. He was shot through the head.

The search for Carole was resumed today. Officers found the child bound and gagged and shot to death.

St. Clair County Sheriff Dan Ring said a gunman who invaded the home of H. P. Graham in Villa Hills and abducted Margaret Vernicker, 39, is being sought in connection with the slayings as well as the kidnapping.

Miss Vernicker was allowed to phone the Graham family from St. Louis. She told Graham that the kidnaper said, "I'm in bad trouble in Illinois, and I'm going to Missouri where my father lives to surrender."

Alternate Routes Listed for Holiday

Patrol Looks For Speedy Traffic Flow

Recommended routes of travel for north or southbound travelers have been set up by the state patrol to facilitate the flow of heavy traffic expected over the Labor Day weekend.

State Patrol Sgt. Lester Walsingham said today the alternate routes "may be a little longer, but they will be better than some major highways, where there is a chance for traffic to be tied up for two or three hours."

Sgt. Walsingham said the state patrol is trying to route traffic around the bottlenecks or "suicide lane" area of U.S. 41.

Steer Clear
Traffic west of U.S. 41 should take U.S. 45 to State 49 and then back to 41, he said. Traffic east of 41 should try to use U.S. 141 and State 57 or 55.

He suggested drivers steer clear of the area between the intersections of State 110 and 175 with U.S. 41.

Motorists between Madison and La Crosse might use State 113 and 33 as an alternate to U.S. 41, he said. Eau Claire-bound motorists from Madison could use the same route to Union Center, then State 71, 27, and 53 as an alternate to U.S. 12. State 57 is a good alternate to either U.S. 41 or 141 between Milwaukee and Green Bay.

Motorcycles Available
If necessary, he added, two state patrol motorcycles will be on hand in the bottleneck areas of 41. All of the 250 state patrol members will be on duty over the weekend, he said.

The full county police force also will be on duty, according to Patrol Capt. Ronald Decker. Capt. Decker said they will concentrate their efforts on U.S. 45 and State 47.

He added that although there were no fatalities in Outagamie County over the Labor Day weekend last year, 11 people were killed in other parts of the state. So far this year, 11 people have died in Outagamie County, Decker said.

Offers Tips
These tips were offered to weekend vacationers:

Before starting, check your car's mechanical condition.

Drive a reasonable distance in a single day. When drowsy, pull off the road and rest.

Allow a safe distance between your car and the car ahead.

Drive at a safe speed, generally that of other cars on the highway. Avoid speeding and avoid impeding other traffic.

Two Firemen Hurt in Blaze

Third Floor Attic,
Rear Roof Damaged
In Oshkosh Home

OSHKOSH — Two Oshkosh firemen received minor injuries when fighting a house fire at 751 Jackson St.

Dale Marten suffered a cut finger which required three stitches. He was treated at Mercy Hospital. Richard Saegmister also suffered a cut finger and was given first aid at the scene.

The fire broke out about 9:10 p.m. at the home of Eugene Moushey in the third floor attic in the rear of the house. Cause of the fire is unknown.

Firemen managed to confine the blaze to the third floor room but extensive damage was caused to the room and the roof at the rear of the home. No estimate of damage was available.

Heart in Clouds

Stricken Girl's Wish For Plane Ride Granted

BY JEAN OTTO
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

It was hot. The brilliant August sun all but melted the pavement at Outagamie County Airport Wednesday, but even before she boarded the DC3 that flew her to Milwaukee, the heart of 14-year-old Barbara Heinz was floating high among the clouds.

The second of Barbara's two wishes came true when ambulance attendants placed her aboard at 12:05 p.m. On hand to watch her smile and share her excitement were her mother, Mrs. George M. Heinz, 1003 W. Northland Ave., who made the trip with her daughter; her nurse, Mrs. Lloyd Vetter, who pinned a corsage on the girl's dress, and Mrs. Fred Gehrk, a representative of the American Legion Auxiliary, which made the trip possible.

The plane landed in Milwaukee at 12:40 p.m. At 2:10 Barbara was back in Appletton. As a special treat, Larry's Ambulance, which donated its services to the stricken girl, gave her a long ride around Appletton before taking her back to her bed.

Barbara's trip was everything she hoped it would be. Amid laughter and tears, she announced that it was a "funny feeling" going up, but after that it was wonderful.

She doesn't quite understand how or why her wishes have come true. She doesn't know she hasn't long to live.

Refuses Poodles
She has been offered five live poodles, all of which have had to be refused. She has, however, added five stuffed ones to her beloved collection. And she laughed heartily at the three poodles that someone brought in to do tricks for her.

But, whether she understands or not, Barbara is convinced that it's a pretty good world after all.

A Special Recognition plaque for Appletton's 1960 traffic safety record and accident prevention program was hung at the police station by Lt. John Gosch as Sgt. Edgar Leisering watched. The award was given by the National Safety Council.

State Reserve Unit May be Mobilized

STEVENS POINT (AP) — The 401st Signal Construction Company, an Army Reserve unit stationed here, has received information that it may be mobilized Oct. 1, the company commander said Wednesday.

Capt. Russell Mills said the company had not received orders to report to duty. The Defense Department said in Washington Saturday that the company was being called to active duty.

The 401st also has units in Marshfield and Wisconsin Rapids.

County College Students Begin Fall Classes

Elementary Day School to Open Tuesday Morning

KAUKAUNA—Classes for students at Outagamie County College began this morning, and elementary students in the day school are to report at 8:45 a.m. Tuesday, according to E. H. Gordon, college president.

Gordon anticipates an enrollment of between 25 and 45 on the college level while 25 students are enrolled in elementary grades. Exact college enrollment will not be available for a couple of weeks as each year late registrations increase the total.

College students will have the opportunity to get acquainted at the annual fall picnic Thursday at the Grignon home grounds.

Faculty for the coming term is unchanged from last year while Margaret Van Hise will take over the position in the elementary school, vacated by Mrs. Margaret Doser. Miss Ver Hiest will also handle the reading techniques program at the college.

Besides serving as president, Gordon will teach mathematics, science and handle the physical education program. Dora Demaree will teach senior English, social studies and health and safety. Mrs. Darthea Koopke will teach music, and C. Raymond

VFW, Legion Hold Member Drives

KAUKAUNA — The Veterans of Foreign Wars membership drive opened this week while the American Legion membership campaign is scheduled to get underway today.

Both organizations have set up identical drives. Letters and renewal cards have been mailed to all members; and after a wait of a couple weeks, a house to house campaign is planned to secure new members or pick up renewal cards from those who do not return dues by mail.

Stanley Lison is handling the Legion drive while Roland Gauris is chairman for the VFW campaign.

Bowers will teach psychology, geography, freshman English and handle the testing program. Cook will be Mrs. Hildegard Grapentine, and Arthur Lomke is custodian.

Health Officers' Future Questioned

Supervisors Meet With Women Voters to Discuss New Plan

Deciding what will happen to Women Voters said Wednesday local health officers is the big night.

greatest problem involved in setting up a county health department, only theoretical knowledge would be helpless out in the field without a local man to assist him," commented Supv. Harold Schmeichel, Town of Center.

"Furthermore," he continued, "replacing our town officers with one man and a small staff for the whole county would be a step backwards, not forwards."

League members suggested having one health officer for both Appleton and Outagamie County assisted by a staff of nurses, sanitarians and inspectors. This would replace the present system where the city and each city, town and village has its own officers.

Meeting with the League to exchange ideas, supervisors agreed that the county officer plan should be brought up before the county board.

Appleton 11th Ward Supervisor Arthur Hoolihan said a resolution will be presented at the board's Sept. 12 meeting asking Dr. George N. Shimmers, State Board of Health member, to explain the proposal.

Supervisors generally agreed that health services in their areas were lacking, but pointed out that the officers act only on complaints instead of seeking out problems.

County Board members questioned whether a county officer would operate much differently. "We have plenty of men now, but they don't do that much," one member commented. "Why would a countywide man do any different? What's to keep him from just sitting and hoping nothing will happen?"

League members suggested that lack of time and low salaries perhaps were responsible. Some town health officers receive $10 a month.

The League also distributed a report of 11 interviews with town health officers. They found that over half did not keep records, have child care classes or check eating and food establishments. None have facilities for reorganizing emotionally disturbed children. Only one had a drive promoting polio vaccine shots. None regularly used news releases or inspected trailer camps.

Supervisors maintained that these programs were being handled through the schools and by homemaker and PTA groups. They agreed, however, that because of the reluctance of people to sign complaints many health problems do go uncorrected.

The league is still only studying health problems, emphasized Mrs. Paul A. Johnson, chairman of the health study committee. It has not adopted a program. The League will discuss the topic Sept. 28 at Edison school. A panel to explain the proposed county health system will consist of Appleton Mayor Clarence Mitchell, County Board Chairman Alvin Fulcer and Dr. Thomas Schwaab.

Traffic Diversions, shown by arrows on maps of the Lake Winnebago area, are used singly, or simultaneously, in a flexible plan to prevent traffic stagnation on U. S. 41 during summer and holiday week-end emergencies. The use of secondary routes, with the cooperation of local authorities, allows traffic to bypass roadblocks resulting from accidents and permits dispersion of traffic that has reached the saturation point. "Motorists usually don't object when we detour traffic," says State Patrol Capt. Lewis Versnik, "because they've been sitting there for five or ten minutes, going nowhere."

Appleton Girl Becomes Airline Stewardess
Patricia Anne Lawless, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Tom S. Lawless, is completing training at the company's stewardess school in Cheyenne, Wyo. She now serves aboard mainliners flying from New York.

State Patrol Has Plan To Divert 41 Traffic

Continued from page 1 following too closely, driving too fast for traffic conditions and dangerous passing. "Don't be in too much of a rush," he cautioned.

Capt. Versnik also suggested that people driving from the Milwaukee and Chicago area consider use of one of at least six good alternate routes available to or from northern Wisconsin. These include highways 141, 42, 57, 45, 55 and 175.

Badger School Will Begin Classes Tuesday
Badger School, 501 S. Blue-mound Drive, will open at 8:30 a. m. Tuesday, Director Robert Brown announced. First graders are to bring one parent along the first day for registration, he said. Collection of the $2 book rental fee will begin Tuesday.

'Anatomy of Nature' New Show at Bergstrom Center

NEENAH — The Bergstrom Art Center Saturday will open its new show entitled "The Anatomy of Nature," a collection of photographs by Andreas Feininger. The showing, which is circulated by the Smithsonian Institution, consists of some 60 black and white photographs through which Feininger presents his unique approach to natural history. They previously appeared in his book entitled "The Anatomy of Nature" published in 1956.

Feininger began his career as an architect, studying in Germany and Paris, and as a photographer taking pictures for architects and architectural publications in Sweden. He is best known as a photographer for "Life" magazine where he has been on the staff since 1943. He is the author of several books on photography. The show will run through Sept. 28. The current display on Victorian glass "Fairy Lamps," from the collection of Mrs. G. H. Kisslinger, Appleton, is being held over and will continue through September. The art center will be open on Labor Day.

Americans Have Right To Sing Lord's Praises

Make Song Positive, Give World Hope, Minister Says at Methodist School

"It is up to us in America today to sing out the praises of the Lord. It is only here that we are allowed the freedom that is so envied by all other peoples."

So said the Rev. M. O. Smith, last night's speaker at the annual Wisconsin Area Pastors' school being held this week at the First Methodist Church.

About 200 Wisconsin pastors and Appleton residents attended the service.

Sermon Theme

"How shall we sing the Lord's Song in a strange land?" was the theme of the Rev. Smith's sermon. Many of the people in this country of ours didn't know very much about the history of our own people or the meaning of democracy.

"When you sing a song, make it a positive one. We need a new emphasis in this day, something to give the people hope — real hope — not just something to make them feel good," the Rev. Mr. Smith said.

He told that Paul had said that the only thing of value is the expression of love. "This is still true today. Preaching and teaching and helping others — all fine — but love is the one thing that is indispensable."

Only Love
"Only love never fails. It is the one permanent thing in this world, even more permanent than death."

He stated that we must all sing out loud and clear. Love is the answer and the cross is the symbol. "The whole world is listening for your song. What kind of a song will you sing?"

Dr. Edmund Perry, Northwestern University Evanston, Ill., began his lectures on "Mission of the Church: a somber note."

He told the assembled pastors that many of the non-Christian religions of the world have now become missionary-minded and are spreading rapidly. Areas of the world such as Asia to which missionaries have been sent are now sending missionaries of their own to the United States.

Services tonight
Services will be open to the public at 6:45 p.m. today in the sanctuary of the First Methodist church. Main speaker will be the Rev. Stanley P. Matz, Racine.

Bishop Ralph Taylor Alton announced at the school today that Friday noon's speaker will be the Rev. Clare B. Hewitt, pastor of the Methodist church in Milledgeville, Ill.

He has been a leader in rural church activities in his conference and has just returned this summer from a seminar in Western Europe under the direction of Dr. Rockwell Smith of Northwestern University.

Lining Up for Supper in the dining room of the First Methodist Church are faculty members of the annual Wisconsin Area Pastors' School being held this week of about 200 Methodist ministers. Left to right at the serving window are Dr. Edmund Perry of Northwestern University, Evanston, Ill.; Dr. H.

Grady Hardin, Perkins School of Theology, Southern Methodist University, Dallas, Texas; Dr. Thomas J. Van Loon, General Board of Education of the Methodist Church, Nashville, Tenn.; Dr. Theodore H. Runyan, Jr., Chandler School of Theology, Atlanta, Ga., and Bishop Ralph Taylor Alton.

Permits Issued For 3 Projects

Apostolate to be Remodeled, Laundry, Church Constructed

Permits for building the $240,000 Grace Lutheran Church and a $35,000 automatic laundry and for a $2,800 remodeling project at Appleton Apostolate were issued by Appleton Building Inspector Walter Bogan Wednesday.

The church will be built onto the present Grace Lutheran Church, 900 N. Mason St., which will become a Sunday School and parish building.

The laundry, to be built at 1338 N. Meade St., will include Appleton's first coin-operated dry cleaning machines as well as washers and dryers. Special features will include an automatic dollar bill changer and coin-operated hair dryers, said Joseph Shift, attorney for the builders.

The business is owned by One Spot Stop, a new locally owned corporation, and the land by Talents Associates Inc.

Both firms are owned by Shift and Jack B. Glasner, 127 E. Capitol Drive.

The Apostolate is remodeling its building at 302 S. Walnut St. to convert an upstairs apartment to two offices and a room to be used for conferences, visiting agencies and other functions, said the Rev. Peter Klauk, director. Repairs to the exterior and other parts of the building also will be done.

Longtime Barber, Car Dealer Dies

Reid F. Englesby, 60, 918 E. Pacific St., died Tuesday at Methodist Hospital, Rochester, Minn. Englesby was a partner in Black and Reid Auto Sales, 795 W. Foster St., and previously had been a barber in Appleton for many years.

He is survived by his wife, a sister and two brothers. Burial will be in the Eleva, Wis., cemetery. Friends may call at Lenmark's Funeral Home, Eau Claire, Friday afternoon.

Correction

The county hospital cost figures reported in Monday's Post-Crescent were for the year ending June 30, 1960, not this year.

Audit of figures for 1960-61 has not been completed by the state, explained Outagamie County Hospital Administrator Norbert L. Orke, who said the Outagamie costs were especially high in 1959-60 because of building activities and unforeseen expenses.

Fired Drivers Met to Show Unity of Purpose

Worker Says Group Wanted Company to Know Opposition to Further Pay Cuts

Long-haul drivers for Elm Tree Bakeries, Appleton, met in Erb Park on May 13 to decide to boycott sales meetings and to elect a representative committee so they could show strength and unity in opposing any possible pay cuts, David Haefl testified this morning.

Haefl, one of 14 discharged drivers, testified during the second day of a National Labor Relations Board hearing on a complaint of unfair labor practices.

Gordon P. Hill, attorney for Elm Tree Bakeries, Appleton, said Wednesday he intends to appeal a Wisconsin Industrial Commission examiner's ruling that 14 long-haul drivers are eligible for unemployment benefits. He said he has 10 days in which to file notice of appeal.

The commission will meet to review the case, he said, then give its ruling. The company contends the men are not eligible for unemployment benefits because they were discharged for insubordination. The examiner ruled they were not fired for any misconduct.

against the company. The complaint was made by the NLRB after Teamsters Union Local 563 brought charges against the firm. The driver claimed it was customary for the company to introduce new pay plans and labor policies during sales meetings. He said the men had heard a rumor that a new pay schedule, which would result in a pay cut, was in the making.

Haefl said that in March the drivers had met with Sumner Farson, marketing manager, to discuss "morale troubles." He said the men objected to getting less mileage pay than before a January change in pay plan and to the extra work that a new IBM standard order form caused.

B. A. Pfefferle agreed to have other workers unload their trucks at the end of each day's run to save the men some time, he said. Under cross examination Haefl said the drivers had requested the standard order form.

He said that for several years the drivers had a social club, the main function of which was to discuss labor conditions. The company ordered the club disbanded, the driver testified unless members of management were allowed into the club.

Several people from management did become club members, he said. "They were forced on us," he contended.

During cross examination he was asked if he told one of the

to a downtown Appleton bar where the rest of the drivers were waiting.

He said the group received two calls from the company at the bar, each time giving them a half hour to report at the plant.

He said the men made one call to the company offering to come back to work if there was no disciplinary action taken against them. The driver said Pfefferle replied he wanted all the men at the plant to talk to them.

Smith testified the group then went to the Appleton Labor Temple and signed application cards to join the Teamsters Union.

He said the men offered to go back to work the morning of Wednesday, May 17, and told the company the drivers would be in the Legion Club parking lot across the street from the bakery. They were not asked to take their routes, he said.

Meet in Parking Lot

The driver said it was still dark at 3:30 a.m. when the group assembled in the parking lot but added he felt sure company officials could see the group because of flood lights on the bakery building.

He said he received a written notice of termination of employment on May 18 dated May 17. The other drivers received similar notices, he testified.

Smith said the firm refused to deal with the three-man committee because it said it had no assurance the committee represented all the men.

He said he doesn't know where the slip of paper is that the men signed authorizing the committee to speak for them.

Lawrence Doppelt, Chicago, is the attorney for the NLRB. Examiner Eugene F. Frey, Washington, D.C., is conducting the hearing.

Lennon Sisters Make Hit Both on And Off Stage at Winnebago Fair

Welk Show Stars Appear Charming

BY EDWARD COCHRANE

As natural as the neighbor's daughters and as friendly to visit with as one's own daughters, young chums, are Kathy, Peggy and Janet Lennon, here in Winnebago to entertain folks at the County Fair.

We lunched at the Raulf Hotel, Oshkosh, Wednesday noon, while awaiting an interview with them. Just after we sat down, a jolly group which we at first took to be a tourist family, came to the next table. There was no mistaking Janet Lennon, the youngest of the three, and soon we spotted Kathy and Peggy.

And the youthful man among the others with them, with tanned face and the slender, alert ap-

Lennons Visiting With Relatives

The Lennon sisters are visiting in Appleton today at the home of Florence Miller, 821 S. Pierce St. The Lennon Sisters are second cousins of Miss Miller.

"Their father has visited us here before," Miss Miller explained. "I've also visited them at their California home."

Miss Miller explained that her mother is a great-aunt of the girls.

pearance of a tennis player, was their father, William H. Lennon JoAnn Castle, another star of the Lawrence Welk television organization which features the Lennons, was not at the luncheon table.

We spent most of an hour with the Lennons and Miss Castle, in a press conference after lunch and visiting with them was as refreshing as an evening breeze off the lake.

They are stoutly loyal to Lawrence Welk, point out that his musical fare is attracting more young people all the time especially since they moved into the Palladium in Hollywood for their Saturday evening national television shows. They mentioned the Lennon should have just a little more recognition.

classical, ballads, Dixieland, waltz, polka, and you name it — do as did Dianne, their older sister, who has grown from a couple of 20 to 37 members in the six years since the Lennons became part of the Welk show.

They miss their Mother and seven little brothers and sisters and JoAnn Castle, found her vivacious home friends when they travel. But they have been off by three Saturday night Welk shows with Lawrence Welk, and sorry this summer because of travel her husband, Dean Hall, a television star, couldn't take them to Wisconsin with her.

Each of the girls is entirely vision cameraman, couldn't take different — all well poised and the trip into Wisconsin with her, sophisticated in a wholesome way. We concluded by asking Kathy Wholesomeness best describes Lennon if other of the seven them. Each is pretty in a different way. Devastating smiles and line.

Peggy

The other kids were just another 'Lennon Kid,' Kathy told us. The girls are natural for singing, for Mr. and Mrs. Lennon and their parents before them, kept their homes filled with song. The girls don't read music — but they can listen to a record, get at a typewriter, and in an hour learn their parts.

We had the impression that they had intensive training in singing, also in dancing and "charm" and all the graces of entertainment, but they were merely tutored by their Dad, put on little musical shows in the living room, and then came the marvelous day when a neighbor boy induced Lawrence Welk Jr., his Dad to listen to the girls sing.

And they then came into national prominence. We must say an extra word for the father. He is a fine man in every way, a good fellow, a real father, and we think Bill vision shows. They mentioned the Lennon should have just a little more recognition.

The girls told us they want to do as did Dianne, their older sister. To sing for a couple of more years and then get married. "And raise large families, just like our folks."

We had but a brief visit with ven little brothers and sisters and JoAnn Castle, found her vivacious home friends when they travel. But they have been off by three Saturday night Welk shows with Lawrence Welk, and sorry this summer because of travel her husband, Dean Hall, a television star, couldn't take them to Wisconsin with her.

Workers Ask Fewer Hours

City Employees at Oshkosh Request Shorter Week

OSHKOSH—A general reduction in work hours was requested Wednesday night by the City Employees' Council at the workshop session of the Common Council.

The request will be considered by aldermen in drawing up the 1962 budget.

Speaking for the hourly wage workers, Earl Zuehlke requested that time-and-a-half pay be given after 32 hours when a holiday falls in the middle of the week. At the present time, Zuehlke said, if a holiday falls in mid-week, and a worker is called out for an emergency on a Saturday, he receives only straight time.

Seek 40 Hours Ken Elmers, of the police department, put in a request for a 40-hour week for that department. Oshkosh policemen now work 42½ hours weekly.

Elmers said that if the department goes on a 40 hour week, it can get by with only two additional men in response to a question from an alderman. Elmers said that the police chief's request for 12 additional men on the force was over and above the number needed to go on a 40-hour week.

He said, however, that in his opinion four of the 12 requested were intended to take care of the additional men needed for a 40-hour week, and that since the police department no longer operated an ambulance, two fewer men would be needed.

Fire Requests

The fire department's requests were presented by Arden Raatz, who declared that the department would like a 63-hour week, with the ultimate target of a 56-hour week by 1963. He said the department "sat" on a 72-hour week for 13 years, and "we shouldn't let this happen with the 63-hour week."

Raymond Harbaugh, city manager, told the council that Wednesday night's presentations were intended solely to give the council something to work on before the budget was prepared. He said another meeting would be held before the budget is set. At this time detailed information will be furnished by each department.

Has Mandate

Harbaugh also reminded the council of its mandate to hold the line on the present tax rate. He said that if the city cannot hold the present tax rate, in all probability the employees' results will not be granted.

Cash Stolen From Oshkosh Tavern

OSHKOSH — Between $60 and $70 in change was taken in a break-in at Tony's Log Cabin Tavern on Highway 21 sometime Tuesday night or early Wednesday morning.

The break-in was discovered by Tony Koock, owner of the tavern at 11 a.m. Wednesday, when he opened for business.

The change was taken from a bowling machine and a cigarette machine, both of which had been pryed open, apparently with a screwdriver. Entry was gained through a rear window.

Kimberly-Clark Official to Talk At New York

NEENAH—C. G. Russell Johnson, chief engineer, Kimberly-Clark Corp., will be among the 61 prominent speakers to address sessions of the Industrial Building Exposition and Congress at the New York Coliseum, Sept. 25 through 28.

Thousands of executives responsible for the building of the nation's factories and plants will attend. The unique twin events provide the only common forum where problems of new construction and modernization are discussed.

Nineteen sessions of the congress will cover almost every aspect of new construction as well as modernization of existing facilities.

Topics include site selection, evaluation of contracts, financing, construction in foreign countries, heating and air conditioning, selection of architects and builders, lighting, control of costs, provision for expansion and recent developments in construction methods and materials.

Johnson will be chairman of the session on "Developing More Effective Procedures for Construction of Industrial Buildings."

Rise Greets Nuclear News

Market Increase Headed by Defense Related Issues

NEW YORK (AP) — A slight flurry by defense-related issues greeted news that Russia has decided to resume testing of nuclear weapons as the stock market moved a bit higher early this afternoon. Trading was quiet.

Advances Limited

Most of the aircraft-missiles, rocket fuel stocks and defense-related electronics made advances but the majority of these were limited. All Big Three motors gained fractions as nervousness over a possible strike against one of the them subsided. Studebaker-Packard was active, rising ½ to 1½. American Motors lost a fraction in a state of lively trading.

Industries Spurt

Litton Industries spurted more than 3. Texas Instruments rose more than a point apiece. Zenith also added a point. Xerox, up 5½ Wednesday, dropped about 2 points. IBM fell about 3 points. The Dow Jones industrial average at noon was up 1.18 to 718.08. Prices on the American Stock Exchange were mixed in moderate trading. Exchange were mixed in moderate trading. Corporate bonds were mixed. U.S. government bonds were unchanged in light dealings.

General Plywood To Purchase Firm

OSHKOSH — General Plywood Corp., which owns Paine Lumber Co., Ltd., in Oshkosh, has announced plans to purchase Kochton Plywood and Veneer Co., Inc., Chicago.

Kochton Plywood has about 20 plywood and veneer distributing houses in the United States with annual sales of $25 million. General Plywood sales last year were $10,433,447.

The purchase should result in about a 50 per cent employment increase at Paine Lumber Co., according to Orval Sweeney, executive vice president. Paine Lumber currently employs 350 people.

Commotion Created by a fight between two horses in a trailer, caused the driver to lose control of his truck on Highway 45 Wednesday morning. The truck, driven by Duane R. Jaubert, 23, of Elderton, was damaged extensively. It is shown straddling the fence. Five of the horses, which were being taken to a fox farm in Thiensville, trotted into a pasture and happily chewed alfalfa while they enjoyed their "stay of execution." The accident occurred in the Town of Vinland. Jaubert injured his left leg.

He has a lot on his mind . . .

He's on his way back to school. He has arithmetic to worry about . . . and the big ball game after school . . . and whether or not those weight lifting exercises he read about in the comic book really work.

He's thinking about all the things that are important to a boy starting the fourth grade.

But he isn't thinking about safety. And because he isn't, this fourth grader and his bike could be involved in a bad accident.

There could be an accident, but there probably won't be.

The accident won't happen because you'll be careful for the fourth grader. You'll do his thinking for him because you have to.

When you're driving near a school, when there are children and their bicycles on the street . . . remember that these youngsters have too much on their minds to be careful. That's up to you!

Your Chief of Police Asks That You Be On The Alert For Children.

The first rule of safety is . . . SLOW DOWN AND LIVE! Those few extra moments you spend driving slowly may save a child's life, perhaps YOUR own! Be sure your car is in top mechanical condition! Poor brakes and slippery tires can, in an emergency, mean death instead of life!

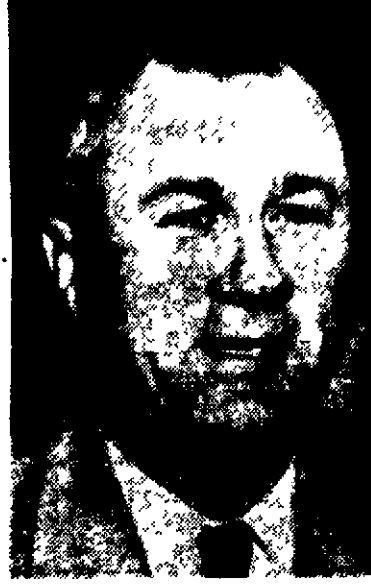

You have delegated authority to us to enforce traffic regulations . . . but YOU, nobody but YOU controls YOUR car! If you are involved in an accident . . . if a child is injured or killed . . . YOU are responsible! Remember, children are hasty, unable to exercise judgement. It is up to YOU to watch out for them, to be extra-cautious, extra-alert! YOUR judgement as an adult has qualified you for a driver's license . . . so YOU must accept the responsibility for the safety of our children by exercising more than usual care. You can NEVER replace a life!
